MIKADO'S AIDS VOTE TO SCRAP NAVAL TREATY

Expect to Notify U. S. Next Week.

TOKIO, Dec. 19 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The Japanese privy council, highest consultative body of the realm, today unanimously advised Emperor Hirohito to abrogate the Washington naval treaty of 1922.

Based upon the report of its investigating committee, the council's recommendation to the emperor was made after short ceremonious deliberations in the imperial palace. Many thoughtful Japanese leaders considered the step as the most significant the empire has taken since the world war.

The actual date of notification to the United States government was not made known, but it was believed it would be postponed until the week between Christmas and New Years.

Victory for Japanese Navy.

The gathering in the great east audience hall of the imperial palace represented a victorious climax for the Japanese navy's four year campaign to terminate the scheme of limitation by ratios.

This scheme is considered by the Japanese people, under the influence of continuous nationalistic propaganda, as fettering Japan's ambitions for expansion of power.

The vote of the privy council was expected to be followed immediately by the sanction of Emperor Hirohito. This would permit Foreign Minister Koki Hirota to instruct Ambassador Saito at Washington to deliver to the United States government notification of Japan's intention.

This would insure termination on Dec. 31, 1936, of the Washington treaty, which has enabled the great sea powers to enjoy 13 years of relative naval stability.

ACT TO END LONDON TALKS

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Tomorrow may see the last of the three power naval conversations which have been going on here since October. Representatives of the three powers—the United States, Great Britain, and Japan—will hold their first full meeting since the conversations began. Hitherto the delegates of not more than two of the powers have come into contact at any meeting.

The object of tomorrow's meeting, which was called by the British today, is to draft a communique to be issued to the public of the three countries, and to decide whether or not adjournment will be indefinite or for a stated time. The latter depends upon the answers received by the American and Japanese delegations from Washington and Tokio. The question was put up to the capitals last night by the two delegations, who also cabled the text of the proposed communique for approval.

King Receives Jap Envoys.

Tomorrow's meeting was called on the assumption that the answers will be received before then, and the program is that a formal adjournment will be proclaimed Thursday. This plan may, of course, be altered if new proposals are received either from Tokio or Washington, but this is considered unlikely.

Today the chief Japanese delegates, Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira and Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, were received by King George of England.

So far the net result of the months of talks has been to draw the United States and Great Britain closer to an understanding and to widen the gap between Great Britain and Japan and between the United States and Japan.

It is understood that the American delegates now appreciate the justice of Great Britain's demand for seventy cruisers instead of the fifty agreed upon under the London treaty, while Great Britain understands and admits the United States' requirement for large cruisers in sufficient numbers to protect its interests on two oceans.

Unite Against Jap Demand.

On the other hand, both Great Britain and the United States are agreed against the Japanese demand for global equality of tonnage, which they are convinced would mean Japan's supremacy in far eastern waters.

Denunciation of the Washington treaty by Japan is now expected next week. In some quarters it is expected that once the decks are cleared by this act Japan may make new proposals and urge immediate resumption of the conversations.

'I HATE MOTHER,' VANDERBILT GIRL SAYS TO JUDGE

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Ten year old Gloria Vanderbilt told Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew in the privacy of his chambers that she "hated" her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and wanted to live "always" with her paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. The verbatim details of her testimony were revealed today.

Neither the coaxing of Nathan Burkan, her mother's lawyer, nor the wheedling of the jurist who finally awarded custody of the child to Mrs. Whitney while permitting Mrs. Vanderbilt to see her daughter week-ends could shake Gloria's declaration.

The child's tragic private testimony, together with a whole sheaf of loving notes to her mother—written, the little girl said, with her fingers crossed—were made public in connection with another court decision in the legal battle for her custody.

Denies Plea to Set Aside.

The court ruling, handed down unanimously by the justices of the appellate division, removed the last technical legal barrier to a reunion of mother and daughter next week-end and on Christmas day. Actually it was a denial of Mrs. Vanderbilt's motion to set aside the ruling of Justice Carew, which, if granted, would have placed the mother in full charge of her daughter again and permitted her to take her where she wished.

The court did call upon Mrs. Whitney to stipulate that Mrs. Vanderbilt, by availing herself of the privileges accorded her by Justice Carew, would not prejudice her case on its appeal.

Frank L. Crocker, attorney for Mrs. Whitney, declared his client always had been willing to make such a stipulation and would offer no objection now.

There was no reason now, he said, why Mrs. Vanderbilt should not avail herself of the privilege at once.

Father Denounced Life.

Not even the revelation that the late Harry Hays Morgan, Mrs. Vanderbilt's father and American consul in various capitals of Europe, had denounced the manner in which she lived, could dim the mother's joy at the prospect of seeing the child on Christmas without fear of legal consequences. The charge that even Mrs. Vanderbilt's father had expressed the fear that his daughter's mode of life would have a corrupting influence on his granddaughter was contained in an affidavit filed by counsel for Mrs. Whitney.

Upon learning the news, Mrs. Vanderbilt said the decision had made her "very happy." She had "lots of plans" for her daughter's Christmas, said Mrs. Vanderbilt, but she declined to discuss them in detail or to tell what presents the little girl would receive. She said there would be "a Christmas tree, as always," but she expressed doubt that "the poor child believes in Santa Claus any more." She would do her best, Mrs. Vanderbilt said, to make Gloria's projected visit home a happy one.

Tells of Old Petition.

The affidavit by Mr. Morgan, who died in March, 1933, declared that the diplomat had caused his attorney, Philip L. Britt, to prepare a petition to the Surrogate's court in 1928 revealing "the dangers to which the child was exposed."

Mrs. Vanderbilt's mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, was the chief witness for Mrs. Whitney at the private hearing before Justice Carew.

In the petition of Mr. Morgan, which never was filed in Surrogate court, Mr. Crocker quoted Mrs. Vanderbilt's father as saying that while sojourning in Paris she lived "in the most extravagant and improper manner and has been entertaining friends, many of them of bad reputation, and improperly spending almost all of the monies" which Gloria's father, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, left for the upbringing of his daughter.

Charges "Squandering" and Debts.

"On information and belief your petitioner alleges that not only had all of the moneys received by Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt for the support, education, and maintenance of her child been squandered by her, but that she is also indebted in large sums to various persons in the city of Paris,

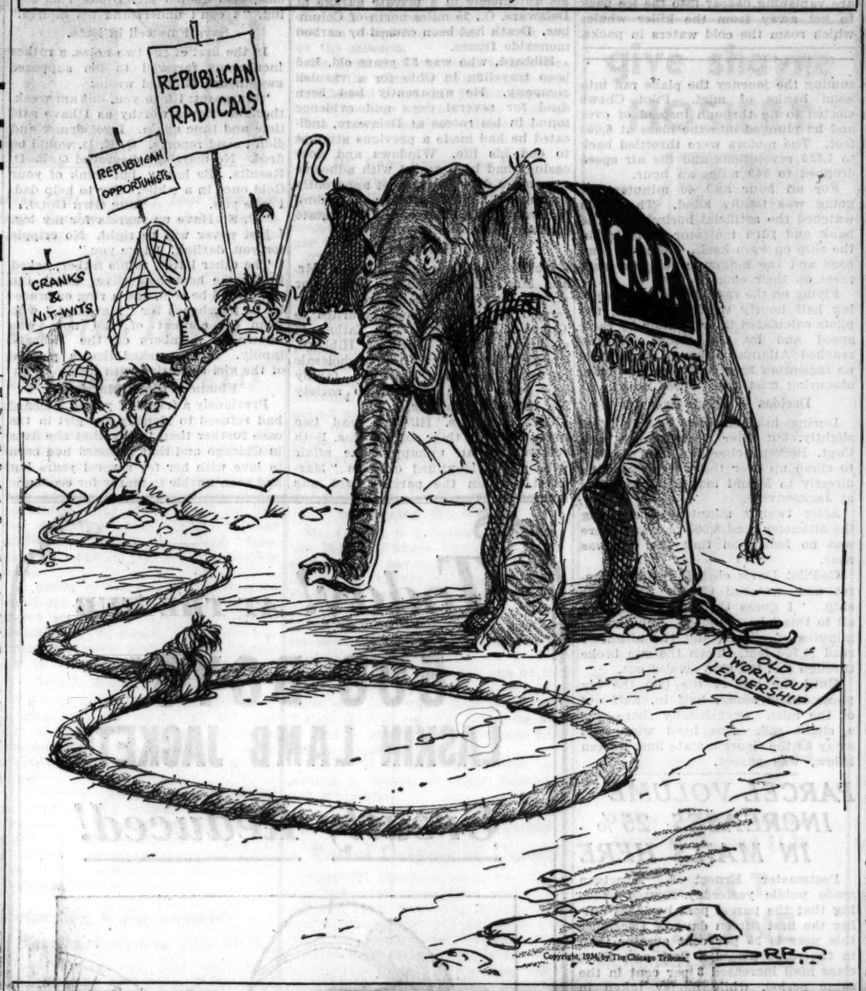
CAREFUL, BOLIVAR, CAREFUL!



Mrs. Rumsey, Head of NRA Board, Dies

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, prominent for years in New York and Washington society, died in the Emergency hospital here tonight of injuries suffered Nov. 17 when her horse fell with her at a hunt near Middleburg, Va. She was a sister of W. Averill Harriman, head of the Union Pacific railway. She was head of the national consumers' advisory board of the NRA.

She had suffered a compound fracture of the right thigh and four broken ribs. Complications, including a kidney complaint, set in, and five or six days ago pneumonia developed. Death came at 10:50 o'clock this evening. At her bedside were her brother, her three children, and her friend Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

The hunt in which Mrs. Rumsey was injured was well under way, with a large group riding, when her horse stumbled. She and the horse went down, and before she could extricate herself the horse rolled over her. Mrs. Rumsey was known as an expert rider in the Virginia fox hunting set.

Railroad King's Daughter.

Mrs. Rumsey was the widow of Charles Carey Rumsey, a sculptor who died in 1923. She had a home in Georgetown, a part of Washington, and also in Sands Point, N. Y.

She was the favorite child of her father, E. H. Harriman, one of the railroad titans of the last generation. In his life she often traveled with him to the outposts of his railroad empire and thus became interested in finance and public affairs.

As a leader of the eighty debutantes of the year 1901 she organized the Junior League of the New York College Settlement, from which has grown the National Association of Junior Leagues, the work of which is well known.

At Barnard she majored in sociology and biology, and showed such interest in these subjects, especially in eugenics, that her classmates nicknamed her "Eugenia." Later she was elected to the board of trustees of the college. At one time she owned a group of southern newspapers.

Tried to Represent Consumers.

Mrs. Rumsey went to Washington eighteen months ago to take a leading part in the NRA administration. The months under the régime of Gen. Johnson and afterward were hectic, but her direction of her share in it only showed the difficulty of making headway in behalf of the poor "ultimate consumer" against the contentions of industry and labor.

Mrs. Rumsey's stated theories of economics were in strong contrast to the rugged individualist views of her father, whose vast fortune she, in part, inherited.

'WHAT ARE THE GIRLS MADE OF?' 'SUGAR AN' SPICE, ALL THINGS,' ETC.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—When Albany Medical college students conducted a survey to find out what girls are made of, some one asked a professor to translate the findings into everyday terms.

The resulting report showed that the female of the species contains:

Thirty teaspoons of salt, enough to season 25 chickens.

Thirty-one pounds of carbon.

Enough glutin to make five pounds of glue.

Magnesium enough for 10 flashlight photos.

Fat enough for 10 bars of soap.

Enough iron to make a six-penny nail.

ICELAND REPEALS PROHIBITION LAW AFTER 21 YEARS

The doom of prohibition in Iceland, officially repealed yesterday, was sealed by popular referendum on Oct. 23, 1933, when the island went wet by a vote of 15,884 to 11,624.

At that time, however, the government failed to introduce a bill in parliament legalizing the sale of spirituous liquors, and at its closing session of 1933 the legislative body passed a resolution urging that the action be taken in 1934.

Iceland has been a prohibition country since 1913, when a dry law was imposed upon it by the mother country, Denmark. In 1915 its own parliament affirmed the prohibition law.

Hotel Owner and Wife Robbed by Two Bandits

Harry Zisook, 4759 Greenwood avenue, owner of the Zisook chain of hotels in the Hyde Park and Woodlawn districts, was robbed of $70 in cash last night by two bandits who accosted him and his wife while they were walking in front of 4751 Lake Park avenue. The bandits failed to take Zisook's watch, valued at $250, and his wife's fur coat, valued at $1,000.

Hunt Wife of Schaffner, Rich Clothier

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Eliot Boke Schaffner, wife of Joseph Halle Schaffner, one of the nationally known clothing manufacturers of that name and socially prominent, tonight was the object of an intensive search following her disappearance from her home at Carmel at 2 a. m. yesterday.

She was clad only in a fur coat over night clothing, plus a pair of bedroom slippers, and had been in ill health for some time, adding to fears for her safety.

Neither investigating authorities nor friends of the family have been able to find any one who has seen her since she was discovered missing from her home.

Bloodhounds in Hunt.

When search by the house staf failed to produce results police were notified.

When they likewise fared no better in their search they requested Berkeley police to supply them with trained bloodhounds in the hope they might pick up a trail. Chief of Police Greening responded by sending Sergt. T. S. Orman and two dogs to Carmel by plane.

Mrs. Schaffner's husband was notified in Chicago, it was learned, and he immediately took a plane to Carmel.

In Hospital Two Weeks.

Mrs. Schaffner had returned from the Monterey hospital only yesterday after being treated there for two weeks.

Her 2 year old daughter, a maid, butler, and the baby's nurse were in the house when Mrs. Schaffner insisted on going for a walk. It was two hours later before they became alarmed and launched their fruitless search.

Mrs. Schaffner is a daughter of the late Prof. George Boke, one time dean of the University of California law school.

WELL KNOWN IN CHICAGO.

The Schaffners were married in San Francisco on Aug. 24, 1927, by Justice William H. Langdon of the Supreme court. Mr. Schaffner at that time was a director and junior member of the clothing firm, but since then has retired from active business with the company. He still holds his directorship and is a large stockholder.

In Chicago Mrs. Schaffner was active in charitable and club activities. They formerly lived at 39 East Schiller street. In recent years she and her husband have divided their time between New York, Chicago, and the west coast. Mrs. Joseph Schaffner, 4819 Greenwood avenue, mother-in-law of the missing woman, was said at her home last night to be seriously ill.

Mr. Batter Is Dead, but His Spirit Goes On

The theme of the bizarre funeral services held last night in a chapel at 810 North Clark street over the body of Harry Batter was, "The drinks are on Harry."

Harry was a long haired radical, soapbox orator, and hobo, who died in the county hospital Saturday night. He had been burned when a can of gasoline exploded as he was starting a fire in his kitchen stove at 357 West Chicago avenue.

"Everybody drink and be merry, for that was Harry's wish just before he died," announced Dr. Ben Reitman, president of the Chicago Hobo college, who was master of ceremonies at the services. Batter's body lay in a casket beside which stood Dr. Reitman.

The Lady Gets Her Wish.

"Where's the bartender? The lady in the back wants a drink of wine," some one in the rear of the chapel shouted. There was a clink of glasses and bottles as several self-appointed bartenders went to the aid of the thirsty lady.

"Harry had several insurance policies, but all except one lapsed," explained Dr. Reitman. "Just before he died he asked me to see that part of the insurance money was used for a celebration at his wake."

"Here's to Batter, dead or alive," came another shout. There was a cheer and the bartenders were kept busy filling empty glasses.

Next Speaker Departs.

It was announced that the assembly of some 50 would join in song as the next speaker had gone to a nearby tavern for more liquor. The mourners joined in the song which was: "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum."

It was suggested that a prayer be said for the departed comrade. This started a discussion as to the propriety of prayer. The tension was relieved at this moment by the entry of the next speaker, loaded with bottles.

After the drinks were passed around again it was agreed that the "Hobo's Prayer" could be read without disrespect to the dead.

The Next Speaker Speaks.

The next speaker at last got his chance. In bombastic tones he characterized the departed as a "sponger and a good for nothing devil, but good at heart."

"He was a Socialist agitator, a wobbly, and a hobo," said the speaker, "but what we liked in him was the fact that he was a good drinker and if he could look out from the casket now he would certainly enjoy this party."

The lady in the rear who had been calling for wine became maudlin. She persisted in interruptions and in referring to the dead Batter as "the baron." Efforts to "shush" her were unavailing until Dr. Reitman took command of the situation with an important announcement.

Harry's Last Wish Revealed.

"Harry, before he passed on," said the doctor, "asked me to be executor of his will. It was his wish that every person who attended his wake and who needed the money be given 25 cents."

A rush for the coin was brought to order by the bartenders who passed out drinks first.

The ceremonies terminated with the announcement that there would be short services at 10 this morning at the chapel, the body to be taken to Waldheim cemetery and cremated.

Dr. Reitman said the ashes will be spread over the graves of the Haymarket riot anarchists.

EUROPA AND 2 OTHER LINERS AID IN RESCUE

Race Through Gale to Sinking Boat.

Known to Chicago

The freighter Sisto was familiar to Chicago waters, according to the records of Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs. The ship cleared out of Chicago several months ago, Czarnecki said.

ABOARD THE S. S. EUROPA, At Sea, Dec. 18.—A thrilling rescue of the entire crew of sixteen men from the battered, sinking freighter Sisto was accomplished tonight in view of virtually every person aboard this big, luxurious German liner, one of four vessels which wheeled from North Atlantic sea lanes in response to a frantic S O S.

Men and women in evening clothes, bundled in greatcoats against a snarling wind which lashed up mountainous seas, crowded breathlessly to the Europa's rail to watch the drama enacted about 650 miles north of the Azores.

Use Great Searchlights.

Powerful searchlights from our bridge and from the British liner Aurania illuminated the rescue work of the New York, a German vessel en route from New York to Hamburg. A tiny lifeboat put out from the New York's side, bobbing corklike in the tossing seas. It headed for the wallowing Norwegian steamer Sisto, her cudder, bridge, and lifeboats washed away and her superstructure battered in one of the Atlantic's worst storms. She had been at the mercy of the seas for nearly 24 hours.

When the tiny craft from the New York reached the Sisto cries of relief came from the Europa's passengers.

When the lifeboat undertook the return journey the suspense was lived all over again. All that could be seen was an occasional flash of an oar in the beam of the Europa's strong lights, so heavily laden was the eggshell craft.

All 16 men were finally put aboard the New York, and the elation on the Europa was as great as if each watching passenger had effected the rescue single handed.

Dramatic Race to Rescue.

The race of rescue ships to the side of the Sisto, in response to her calls for help, had been dramatic in the extreme.

Profound anxiety swept through the Europa's dining room, filled with passengers in full evening dress, when the big ship turned her prow toward the stricken freighter. Her engines throbbing under forced draft, she pushed forward through terrific waves.

Soon in the distance passengers and crew caught a glimpse of another ship hurrying to the scene. Then another, and still another, until four vessels had encircled the helpless Sisto—besides the Europa, the New York, the Aurania, and the oil tanker Mobiloil.

The New York, which reached the scene ahead of the Europa, was first to put its boats overboard. The other vessels stood by, ready to lend a hand if necessary. The Europa's big rubber boat had been made ready during the 140 mile run from its regular course, but it was not needed.

Mr. Gannett, whose eyewitness account of the rescue of the crew of the Sisto appears above and in the Associated Press newspapers today, realized every newspaper man's dream when he found himself at the scene of the dramatic news event. Mr. Gannett, publisher of a chain of newspapers in New York and other states, was a passenger aboard the liner Europa on his way home after a European visit.

Liners Veer from Lanes.

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The mighty parade of trans-Atlantic traffic veered from its lanes today to swing to the rescue of sixteen frantic sailors lashed to the superstructure of the foundering 1,120 ton Norwegian freighter Sisto, helpless in a savage North Atlantic storm.

The British tanker Mobiloil stood by all day, but, because of the raging seas, was unable to accede to the pleas of the freighter's crew to be taken off. The tanker tonight had nearly exhausted its fuel supplies by pumping oil into the sea in a desperate attempt to calm the mountainous waves that pounded the Sisto.

The Hamburg-American liner New York, the North German Lloyd Europa, the Dutch ship Statendam, the President Harding, the Aurania, Manhattan, and American Banker all swerved from their courses and crammed on full steam in a rush toward the stricken vessel.

Radio after radio message crackled through the storm torn air telling of repeated preparations by the master of the Mobiloil to attempt to launch lifeboats and take off the crew of the Sisto. Each message was followed by a silence and then a later one asking the master of the Sisto if he could last longer.

Supplementing these was a 2:45 p. m. message from Capt. Theodore Koch of the New York, Europe-bound, saying:

"If you think it's safe to stay we will wait till weather has improved. Are you willing to leave the ship as soon as weather has improved? If not I must proceed."

Another message indicated the New York should have arrived at the scene, where the Mobiloil was standing by, about 3 p. m.

Rescue Attempt Abandoned.

The series of messages from the Mobiloil reached a crescendo at 11:55 a. m. when Capt. George Girling, the master, radioed that within the hour an attempt would be made to take off the hapless sailors.

An hour later an intercepted message from the Mobiloil said:

"Have you any fear for your vessel's safety until morning?"

This was taken to indicate that, if at all possible, the rescue attempt would be postponed until the sea calmed.

Series of Storms.

The storm that crippled the Sisto is another in a series of raging hurricanes that have whipped the North Atlantic during the last week and in which fifteen of the crew of the foundering British freighter Usworth and two sailors from a rescue ship were drawned when a lifeboat capsized.

The Sisto, built twenty years ago in Bergen, Norway, left Quebec Nov. 23, one of the last ships to depart before ice closed the St. Lawrence for the winter, with a mixed cargo, predominantly lumber, taken on at Detroit, Cleveland, and Quebec.

9 Rescued Sailors at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Nine seamen rescued from the sinking freighter Usworth landed tonight from the Cunard-White Star liner Ascania, thankful for the skill of the liner's skipper and the heroism of a lifeboat's crew.

The officer who had steered a tiny boat across 100 feet of storm lashed water to their rescue confessed that he had been frightened as never before in his life. This was Third Officer E. R. Pollitt, who headed the volunteers in rescuing the survivors last Friday.

"The worst part was coming down the great side of the Ascania," he said. "At any moment we felt the boat was going to be dashed to matchwood."

He did not mention—others of the crew did—that a 90 to 120 mile gale was blowing and that waves were running 30 to 50 feet high.

Fine New Postoffice, but No Place for Mere Letters

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's 6 million dollar postoffice was built after months of planning, but it took John Citizen only a few minutes to discover that you can't find a "letter drop." There are depositories bearing signs, "special delivery," "air mail," and "letters in bulk," but none apparently was designed for the fellow with only one letter to mail. The architects forgot all about it. The postmaster promised to do something about it right away.

HELD TO JURY IN ROBBERY.

Joseph Czernik, 25 years old, and Joseph Repsius, 28 years old, both of Phoenix, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $10,000 each by Police Magistrate Joseph Flaherty of Harvey on the charge of robbing a barbacue stand in Hazelcrest.

FLY IN RECORD PLANE TO MIAMI IN JUST 10 HOURS

Prove Aviation Shakes Off Weather Shackles.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and the Florida Flyer, Eastern Airlines record breaking Douglas DC-2 airliner, arrived here at 6 o'clock Chicago time tonight carrying the first passengers over the new direct airline between Chicago and this resort city. The flight was a pre-inaugural trip since regular service, the first ever to link the Great Lakes and Caribbean waters by air, will open Thursday.

Today's journey was made in ten hours elapsed time, of which eight and a half hours was actually spent in the air. It was made by a group of Chicago newspaper men and virtually amounted to a practical demonstration of how modern commercial aviation has freed itself from the bonds of weather.

Perfect Flying Despite Fog.

For fully five of the hours spent in the air the big 14 passenger Douglas was droning through mist that all but obscured the wing tips. Yet at no time were pilots Bob Chews and E. C. Davis even a mile off course. They said the long intervals of "blind" flying were "entirely routine." There passengers came to the same belief after they came out of the fog to hit Louisville, and Atlanta "on the nose."

But an air commerce inspector at Atlanta told the whole story when he said: "Weather like this would have kept every plane on the ground over the whole Chicago-Miami route two years ago. At the beginning of 1932 we didn't think planes ever could fly with safety in this sort of stuff."

He pointed to the 500 foot ceiling, the drizzle of cold rain, and included, in an upward sweep of hand, the thick cloud banks piled up to 15,000 feet.

"Now it is the sort of thing the clean, high speed transports take in their stride. If they didn't or couldn't, don't believe we would let them fly."

Skies Clear on Take-off.

Skies were clear as, at 8 o'clock on the head, the Douglas taxied into the wind at Chicago. A moment later and the ship was climbing to the south, straight into the teeth of a four mile head wind that was freshening. The two 710 horse power Cyclone engines were turning at 1,700 revolutions per minute, and, with the propellers in low pitch position, the nine ton plane was climbing at the rate of 700 feet per minute.

At 4,000 feet Pilot Chews leveled off. A moment earlier he had shifted into high pitch and throttled back to 1,600 revolutions. The indicated air speed was 162 miles an hour.

Fifteen minutes later, over Indiana, a thin mist rolled between the plane and the ground. The passengers liked it because it was close enough to the plane to allow them to gauge the speed at which they were traveling. Soon, however, it obscured the earth and the ship sped along above a white rolling mist, its aluminum wings glinting in the sun.

Run into Fog Banks.

At Louisville the weather was reported thick at Atlanta, but upon resuming the journey the plane ran into solid banks of mist. Pilot Chews elected to fly through instead of over and he plunged into the mass at 6,000 feet. The motors were throttled back to 1,550 revolutions and the air speed dropped to 140 miles an hour.

For an hour and 40 minutes the going was totally blind. The pilots watched the artificial horizon and the bank and turn indicator to maintain the ship on even keel. The gyro compass and the magnetic compass kept them on their course.

Flying on the radio beam and receiving half hourly weather reports, the pilots calculated their position by their speed and by the clock. Having reached Atlanta, although there was no indication they had done so in the obscuring mist, they nosed down.

Decides to Climb Over It.

During luncheon the ceiling lifted slightly, but after a conference with Capt. Rickenbacker the pilot decided to climb up over the weather and fly directly to Miami instead of stopping at Jacksonville.

After twenty minutes of climbing the altimeter read 8,000 feet and there was no indication that the top was near.

Co-Pilot Davis cheerfully lit a cigaret and watched Chews flying the ship. "I guess there's no ceiling at all to this," he confided. Another ten minutes of silence and the altimeter read 11,800 feet. Then the sun broke through and the ship leveled out.

Until the end of the trip the big plane sailed along, half in, half out of the mist. Occasionally there was a slight roll. The head wind died away as the Georgia state line, unseen below, was passed.

HEAT WAVE STRIKES LITTLE AMERICA; 37 ABOVE ZERO; ICE ACTS

Because of the thaw, regarded as unseasonable, the ice in the Bay of Whales began to move seaward. Cracks opened up in the new ice south of the mouth of the bay and a new, wide crack appeared not far from the mouth of Ver Sur Mer inlet.

Hundreds of tons of ice, built up by winter drifts, began silently loosening from the Ast cliff at the bay. The seals, which for several months have been lying in colonies on the bay ice, delivering and caring for their young, are vanishing deeper into the ice pack to get away from the killer whales which roam the cold waters in packs.

PARCEL VOLUME INCREASES 25% IN MAILS HERE

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen made public yesterday figures showing that the parcel post business during the first fifteen days of December this year is 25 per cent greater than in the same period a year ago. First class mail increased 3 per cent in the same period, while money taken in increased 12 per cent. There was an increase of 1,126,200 pieces of outgoing first class mail over last year's business, an increase of 136,110 in the number of outgoing sacks of parcel post; an increase of 4,213,200 in the number of incoming pieces of first class mail; an increase of 28,104 in the number of incoming sacks of parcel post, and an increase of $212,548 in money taken in.

BLAME UNHAPPY LOVE AFFAIR FOR HIBBARD SUICIDE

Parents Name Chicago Girl in Case.

An unhappy love affair with a Chicago girl was disclosed yesterday as one of the probable causes of the suicide of William Gold Hibbard III., member of a prominent Chicago family. Hibbard's body was found inside his automobile in a private garage at Delaware, O., 25 miles north of Columbus. Death had been caused by carbon monoxide fumes.

Hibbard, who was 33 years old, had been traveling in Ohio for a varnish company. He apparently had been dead for several days and evidence found in his rooms at Delaware, indicated he had made a previous attempt to end his life. Windows and door casings had been sealed with adhesive tape but a defective gas jet apparently had upset Hibbard's plans, according to Lynn Black, chief of the Ohio state highway police.

Parents Hurry to Ohio.

Notified of their son's death, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, 1301 Astor street, hurried to Delaware and arranged to have the body returned to Chicago for burial. The father is chairman of the board of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., wholesale hardware company, and the family has been active in Chicago society for three generations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard read two notes found in their son's rooms. Both referred to an unhappy love affair with a girl identified only as "Margaret," whom the parents said was Margaret Ludden of Chicago and Mineral Point, Wis. Coroner James Parker, who returned a verdict of suicide, also quoted Mr. Hibbard as saying, "I can't understand his motive."

Says Farewell in Note.

In the first of the two notes, a rather incoherent farewell to his supposed sweetheart, Hibbard wrote:

"Margaret: I love you, but am weak. therefore never worthy as I have said time and time again. I got drunk and didn't send reports. Q. E. D. would be fired. No marriage disgraced Q. E. D. Results. Be happy, but think of your Gold once in a while. Try to help dad. I love you. YOUR OWN GOLD.

"P. S. Have no regrets for my leg. I just never will be right. No cripple for you, darling. I love you."

The other letter, to his father, asked that some household silver which the son owned be sold, and a ring or bracelet be purchased for "Margaret," who from the context of the note was known to members of the Hibbard family. It also asked that a picture of the girl be buried with him.

Finances Block Marriage.

Previously a friend of young Hibbard had refused to identify the girl in the case further than to say that she lives in Chicago and that Hibbard had been in love with her for several years but had been unable to marry for economic reasons. Hibbard had been estranged from his father, the friend said.

Hibbard was divorced several years ago by his wife, who was Marjorie Estee of Montpelier, Vt. They eloped and were married in 1922, when both were attending eastern schools. They had two children, William Gold Hibbard IV., 10 years old, and Lydia, 5, who are with their mother. She is remarried and lives in Greenwich, Conn.

IT IS PRONOUNCED "QUINTUPLETS" AND NOT "QUINTUPLETS"

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—It's taken them a long time to discover it, but the "word sharpshooters" who go around making bets on pronunciations have discovered a new vehicle for making easy money.

The "gag" is to have the victim try pronouncing "quintuplet," the word the Dionne family made famous in Callander, Ont.

Both Webster's and Funk & Wagnall's dictionaries prove to the victim that he should have pronounced it with the accent on the "quin" and with the "u" in the second syllable like the vowel in "rug."

EDUCATION BOARD PRAISES MAYOR'S SCHOOL POLICIES

The board of education yesterday presented to Mayor Kelly a formal resolution praising him for his school policies and expressing the board's appreciation for his efforts toward the financial rehabilitation of the school system. James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, made the presentation at a meeting of the city council.

The resolution declared that through the mayor's efforts the public schools of Chicago have been kept open, teachers and other employés paid, five high schools built, and the credit of the school system restored.

Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st] introduced a motion thanking the board members individually for their part in the rehabilitation of the schools. It was adopted unanimously.

The council and the school board approved resolutions restoring to the schools eighteen parcels of property pledged as security for the $22,300,000 federal Reconstruction Finance corporation loan granted to the schools last August. The properties, valued at $632,842, are now available as school sites. The RFC had previously agreed that other lands pledged were sufficient security.

QUESTIONED IN KILLING.

Tony Sienkowski, 2349 West 19th street, was arrested yesterday for questioning in the death of Stanley Swiontek, 39 years old, 5227 West 53d place, who was struck and killed early yesterday during a drinking party at 2355 Cullerton avenue.

MARIE LOUISE'S DIARY BRINGS $2,450; REVEALS HER QUEENLY MODESTY

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The diary of the Empress Marie Louise, covering the years 1810 to 1813, was reported to have been sold at auction today for £490 [approximately $2,450]. The name of the purchaser was not disclosed.

One section of the diary records an amusing sidelight on Marie Louise's modesty. The empress set forth that while visiting the war vessel Charlemagne at Cherbourg, she was compelled to ascend a ladder, the steps of which were widely separated.

As a result, she wrote, so much of her royal leg was disclosed, she vowed she never would board a battleship again unless garbed in trousers.

BOY, 15, STARTLES JUDGE; TELLS OF 50 BURGLARIES

Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Town Hall court listened in amazement yesterday while Benny Wadington, 15 years old, 2336 Cullom avenue, told of committing 50 burglaries.

The boy was arrested on suspicion Saturday by the North Damen avenue police. He admitted selling stolen radios to Harry J. Becker, 24 years old, 1447 North La Salle street, and Joseph Sott, 25, of 4920 North Western avenue. The boy appeared as a witness against the two, who are charged with receiving stolen property. They denied knowing the radios were stolen.

The boy told Judge McCarthy that he ran away from home six weeks ago and began his burglaries. His loot ranged from household furnishings to coins from pay telephones.

MARTIN INSULL TO GIVE HIS OWN DEFENSE TODAY

Jury Is Expected to Get Case by End of Week.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Martin J. Insull will go on the witness stand in the Criminal court of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington this morning to tell the jury which is hearing the state's embezzlement charge his own story of the events which led to the fall of the great Insull financial house of sand.

The particular part of this financial tragedy which is laid at his doors is the embezzlement of $344,720 of the funds of the Middle West Utilities company, of which he was president in 1931.

Task o. Martin Insull.

It is his task to convince the jury that when he ordered the payment of this money for stocks which he was forced to take out of his private stock trading account he was doing something not alone for his own benefit but for the benefit of the companies which he controled and the hundreds of thousands of stockholders dependent on his actions.

The amount involved is small in comparison with the millions and billions discussed in the Insull trials and hearings, but it touches the mental attitude of the Insull group at a critical time, and the result of this story and this trial may have a controling influence on other pending Insull prosecutions.

The state, which closed its case yesterday, considers that in this specific criminal charge it has struck at a weak point in the Insull armor of corporation law, and has proved the case against the defendant.

Brief Defense Promised.

Martin Insull will be the chief witness in his own defense, which his attorney, John E. Northup, promised will be brief. It is planned to get the case to the jury at the end of this week. Judge Harrington ordered a session of court for tonight.

Samuel Insull sat in the courtroom yesterday waiting for his brother to testify, but Martin was kept off the stand as the attorneys fell into disputes over the testimony of Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of the Middle West company. Samuel in all probability will not be called as a witness by the defense, although it was stated in the opening address to the jury that he knew of the transactions in question. Samuel Insull Jr. may be a witness.

A motion for a directed verdict of not guilty was filed by the defense during the day, but it was overruled without argument.

Delaware Charter Cited.

The main point aimed at by the defense in its early evidence was that the Delaware charter of the Middle West company permitted its officers to buy and sell stocks, and that the officers did not have to account to the corporation for any profits. The rights of the stockholders to object were waived by the terms of section 9 of the charter.

This charter and also a resolution of the directors along similar lines were brought out through the testimony of Mr. McCormick. It was also shown through this witness that in October, 1931 [the month of the alleged embezzlement], the Middle West company had investments of $2,752,000 in stocks of Corporation Securities company and Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Stocks Taken by Syndicate.

These are the same stocks that figure in the embezzlement charge, and it was shown that the company in the end only had to put $61,200 into these stocks as a result of the Martin Insull private account transfer. The rest of the $344,720 was taken up by subsidiary companies.

It was shown by the state that on the day a syndicate was formed to buy the stocks they had already gone below the participation price. The defense replied, from stock market records, that a week later the stocks had increased in value.

Several character witnesses were called by the defense. The first was Tom R. Wyles, secretary of the steel plate fabricating industry code, a neighbor of Insull in Ravinia. He said Insull's reputation was "very good." Kenneth Curtis, president of the Curtis Lighting company and of the Electric Association of Chicago, described Insull's reputation as "the highest I know of any business man in Chicago."

Dr. John P. O'Neil, 215 East Chestnut street, personal physician for Insull for 20 years, said he had never heard Insull's character questioned. The defense succeeded in bringing out that Dr. O'Neil had been a large holder of Insull stocks.

INSULL BANKRUPTCY TRIAL POSTPONED AS 9 PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Samuel Insull and eight co-defendants appeared yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and pleaded not guilty to charges of violation of the bankruptcy law. The trial was continued indefinitly under an agreement between prosecution and defense that the case may be called on five days' notice by the government.

CHARGE INSULL CONCERN BROKE SECURITY LAW

Insull, Son & Co., Inc., subsidiary of the defunct Insull Utility Investments, Inc., violated the investment laws and thus voided agreements signed by subscribers to its securities, according to answers filed in the Circuit court yesterday to 44 suits to collect $200,000.

Harry A. Bigelow, trustee for the subsidiary, filed the suits last June, seeking to collect sums ranging from $1,000 to $11,444 on stock subscriptions in a $30,000,000 Insull stock syndicate that was liquidated in 1932 with a loss of $4,577,945.

The 44 defendants admitted signing the subscription, but all maintained that the company had not informed them of its manipulations of the stock market "against public policy and the securities laws," and therefore the agreements had no force in law.

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The Louisiana house of representatives rushed 33 more of Senator Huey P. Long's dictator bills through to passage at the rate of one every three minutes today after the Kingfish had been denounced as a "political madman and a modern Nero," and his submissive legislators had been termed his "putty faced stooges."

The time would have been even faster had not Representative G. W. Lester, West Felinciana parish administration opponent, taken up 20 minutes to flay the Louisiana "bad boy" and his cheerfully yielding lawmakers. Throughout the tirade Long, dressed in a brilliant pink shirt, grinned steadily and remained silent.

Backs Down on School Bill.

Lester's excoriation was prompted by his discovery of a "joker" in one of Long's "harmless" bills. The "joker" would have given the Kingfish control over the state's 15,000 school teachers.

Although Long backed down on the bill after the oral assault, his "stooges" passed it in its original form regardless of an announcement by Representative N. S. Hoffspauir, one of Long's floor leaders, that it would be amended in the senate to delete the clause giving Long control of the teachers.

"Aw, that ain't nothing," Long said after the bill attracted attention. "That ain't no new power. The state had that power all along. The state board right now has to approve the qualifications of all teachers."

A provision in the apparently harmless bill would place the hiring and firing of school teachers at the whim of a Long controled state budget committee. The clause had gone unnoticed until yesterday because of the mass of legislation the senator had dumped into the special session of the legislature.

Few Dissenting Voices.

When Long first arrived on the floor he found too many representatives asking questions about the measures to please him. He at once began circulating among his followers and the questions, principally for information, soon subsided.

Lester's outburst was almost the only opposition the Long forces encountered after that except for the few dissenting votes the old regular anti-administration delegation managed to work up against the dictator bills.

A group of Long followers tried to challenge Lester, but after he engaged in an oral duel with Representative I. W. Sharp, other administrationists were stopped from speaking by Long's floor leader.

Assails Long as "Vicious."

"We as legislators are called upon to take from the people the last vestige of their local political rights as guaranteed by the federal and state constitutions," Lester shouted to the house.

"Those bulwarks of our democratic government, the courts, the law enforcement offices, and now the schools are to be surrendered to a viciously autocratic and tyrannical administration for the selfish gain and political preferment of the faithful."

HARRY PUSHES A DOORBELL IN QUIET OAK PARK

The Things That Happen Then Quite Upset Him.

After this, Harry Kane, 34 years old, 709 South 7th avenue, Maywood, will investigate carefully before he puts finger to a doorbell.

On Monday night Mr. Kane's wife asked him to call for her at 1122 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park, where she had work as a maid. Mr. Kane felt no misgivings when he set out on the mission.

He knew that Woodbine avenue was one of the nicest of Oak Park streets. And he had heard Oak Park mentioned by a member of the Lions club as "the most beautiful village in the world."

Mr. Kane Presses the Bell.

By a slight error in reckoning, however, Mr. Kane arrived at 1126 Woodbine avenue instead of 1122. He didn't notice the difference and set his finger confidently to the bell.

The response was immediate. A large man tore open the door and, without preliminary, struck Mr. Kane on the head with a blackjack. A second man, described by Mr. Kane as a grim fellow, also came out and pointed a shotgun until Mr. Kane retired from the scene.

Feeling at least that he was not welcome, Mr. Kane had his head repaired and then reported his experience to an Oak Park policeman. Together they went back to 1126 Woodbine avenue and peered at the door.

"O!" said the policeman. "That is where Ralph O'Hara lives."

Introducing Mr. O'Hara.

Mr. O'Hara is a business agent for the Motion Picture Operators' union and is often having tiffs with people. On March 24, 1933, he shot and killed Fred Oser, leader of an insurgent faction of the union, in the union headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue. He was acquitted on his claim that he fired in self-defense.

Police efforts to find any one at the O'Hara house have been futile. Mr. Kane said last night that when and if they do find any one there, he will be glad to identify his assailants and sign a complaint.

"Mr. O'Hara must have been expecting a couple of other fellows," said Mr. Kane.

FREAK ACCIDENT IN TRAFIC COSTS WOMAN AN ARM

Mrs. Margaret Fleming, 60 years old, of 8333 South Hermitage avenue, lost an arm last night as the result of a freak automobile accident. She was standing on the edge of a safety island at 81st street and Ashland avenue. A car, driven by Frank Rabs, 54 years old, of 2120 Belmont avenue, sped past and the handle of the car door struck Mrs. Fleming's arm, injuring it. An amputation was performed at the Auburn Park hospital.

Jeanette Schneider, 6 years old, one of fourteen children of Edward Schneider, 2004 Washington avenue, Wilmette, was seriously injured yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Carl Braun, 9118 La Crosse avenue, Niles Center, at Ridge and Lake avenues, Wilmette.

No traffic deaths were reported in Cook county yesterday and the toll so far this year stood at 1,204.

'I HATE MOTHER,' VANDERBILT GIRL SAYS TO JUDGE

Secret Records Bared by Appeals Court.

which she has no independent means or income of her own to pay.

"Your petitioner further alleges that many of the companions and friends of Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and whom she has been bringing to her houses in Paris and Biarritz, are of such moral character and bad habits and conduct as to endanger the morals of the aforesaid infant, Gloria Laura Morgan Vanderbilt; that during the time the infant was living in Biarritz, France, her mother indulged in the same extravagances and consorted with and brought to said infant's home many persons of evil repute and bad moral character."

The child's testimony was said to have had a powerful influence upon both Justice Carew and the Appellate division in their decisions.

Scared, Ignored, She Says.

Little Gloria said in her testimony that she was "scared" of her mother, who "never was nice to me." When they lived in Paris and England she seldom saw Mrs. Vanderbilt because "they used to go out to parties and things." The child's testimony, in part:

Q. [by Justice Carew]—Do you want to stay in the country? [At Mrs. Whitney's home at Old Westbury.] A.—Yes, I never want to live in the city.

Q.—How would you like to live with your mother in the country? A.—No. Never. I always want to live with my aunt.

Q.—You have lived a long time with your mother. A.—Yes, but I hardly ever saw her—anything of her. She has never been nice to me.

Q.—You lived with her for six or seven years in Paris? A.—But I hardly ever saw anything of her.

Shows Further Dislike.

The questions and answers continue, making Gloria's views still clearer:

Q.—I think your mother would get you a pony. A.—No, I never want to go back to her. Do I have to?

Q.—I think you will want to. A.—No [tearfully].

Q.—It is not that you have to. I think you will begin to love her and want to go back. A.—No, I won't.

Q.—My little girl—I used to be away a long time when I was in Washington. I used to be away all week; and I used to come home and she used to be glad to see me. A.—Yes, but probably you were nice to her.

[Justice Carew served many years as a representative in congress before he was elected to the Supreme court and evidently he was referring to the reaction of his own daughter at the time of his homecomings from Washington.]

Says Mother Was Too Busy.

Q.—How were they not nice to you? What did they do that was not nice? A.—Well, they used to take things away from me and in the morning she would not let me come in her room. She used to say she is busy.

Q.—Whom do you mean by she? A.—My mother.

Q.—They always bought you nice clothes, toys, dolls, fairy books, fairy tales, and things like that, didn't they? A.—Sometimes, hardly ever. In England they hardly ever used to pay any attention to me. They used to go out to parties and things.

Q.—Well, they were grown up people and children ought to go to bed early. Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise. Did you ever hear that? A.—Yes.

Q.—When you grow up you will be able to go to parties and dances.

Says She Feared Mother.

In the course of the record the child identifies letters which she had written to her mother and these letters always closed with many cross marks and circles, which she said represented kisses and hugs. She said she sent similar letters to her aunt, but she said she meant the kisses and hugs sent to her aunt, but was not sincere in that respect in letters to her mother. She said she was afraid to tell the truth in letters to her mother, because "she might do something."

"Now, little Gloria," Nathan Burkan, counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, said to the child, "in one of your letters to your mother from Old Westbury you wrote: 'If you love me as I love you, no knife can cut our love in two.'"

"Yes," the child replied. "Well, I put that there because she said: 'You are soon to live in New York with me,' and that was about the time I was most scared of her."

About Lady Milford-Haven.

With respect to the accusation that she had been found in an unconventional situation with Lady Milford-Haven, Mrs. Vanderbilt said in her affidavit:

"Lady Milford-Haven is related by blood and marriage to members of the royal family of England. She bears a fine reputation. She is a decent, respectable married woman who has two grown children of 15 and 17 years and as uncontradicted testimony shows, she is living very happily with her husband."

Mrs. Vanderbilt pointed out that her child had had playmates who "belonged to the highest families in England."

Included in the record presented to the Appellate division were a number of letters which the child wrote to her mother and grandmother.

Gloria Ill; Mother in Paris.

A letter written to the grandmother, Mrs. Laura K. Morgan, reads:

"Dear Nanny: I love you so much and I love the cards you sent me. My mother was in Paris enjoying herself while poor me was unhappy in England. [Sic]. My cold is better and my temp has gone to normal and the doctor lets me get up for a little while.

"Good-by, Nanny, dear. Love.

"GLORIA."

Another letter addressed to the grandmother under date of Dec., 1931, follows:

"Dear Nanny: I received your letter and your cable. I am writing this letter in bed to you, as I have a bad throat. I hope that you will excuse my letter. I want to go to New York. Tony's nurse is treating me very badly and sometimes I cry."

RUMANIA ROCKED BY SCANDAL OVER KING'S LOVE LIFE

Movement Grows to Oust Carol's Mistress.

VIENNA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The unofficial throne of Rumania's uncrowned queen rocked ominously tonight as enemies of Mme. Magda Lupescu, King Carol's red haired mistress, continued their newest drive to oust her.

Carol, however, gave no sign that he was disposed to desert the daughter of a Jewish junk dealer for whom he once foreswore his rights to the throne.

Maniu Leads Attack.

Heading the list of those fighting to get the woman out of Carol's affection was Juliu Maniu, leader of the Peasant party, who prepared an address for delivery to the parliament which was not delivered but which said he supported Carol's bid for the throne in 1930 only because Mme. Lupescu solemnly promised to leave Rumania.

A sharp counter-attack, delivered in the senate by former Premier Nikolai Jorga, criticized Maniu for "dabbling in gossip unworthy of statesmen and characteristic of knaves and servants" and defended the king's right to "love some one who is helpful and devoted to him."

To the attacks on Mme. Lupescu from her foes in Rumania, meanwhile, was added the exhortations of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania. From her self-imposed exile in Belgrade she bombarded her royal son with letters warning him not to put Lupescu's love above the safety of the dynasty.

Says King Is "Human."

The bearded former premier Jorga, Carol's one time tutor, defended him passionately in his senate speech, roundly upbraiding those who tattle gossip about the dynasty, which, he said, "must be not only politically respected but humanly understood."

If the king sinned, he said, it was because he is only human.

"Those who do not sin," he added pointedly, "usually do not because they are not able."

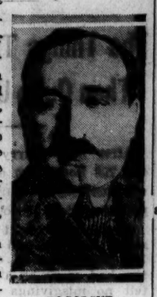
Jugo-Slav Cabinet Resigns; Struggle for Power Begins

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 18.—Jugo-Slavia is without a government tonight as the first phase of a dramatic struggle for power in Belgrade began with Prince Paul, head of the regency, and Foreign Minister Bogoljub Yevtitch, on one side, and the fire eating Gen. Peter Zivkovitch, retiring war minister, on the other.



BOGOLJUB YEVTITCH.

Yevtitch, in complete understanding with Prince Paul, resigned early today. His resignation was apparently intended to precipitate events. At first it was not accepted by Premier Nikola Uzunovitch, also an adversary of Prince Paul, who called in his cabinet for a long consultation.

Watch Outcome with Anxiety.

Later Uzunovitch and the entire cabinet resigned and consultations were going on tonight preliminary to the formation of a new government. All central Europe is watching the outcome of the struggle with anxiety to see whether the Serbian military party and the partisans of Gen. Zivkovitch or the more liberal and moderate elements represented by Prince Paul and Foreign Minister Yevtitch will win.

Gen. Zivkovitch is described by his political opponents as being Balkan-minded and hostile to an understanding with Italy, and an adversary of Hungary, who would take aggressive measures should he come to power.

Paul More Liberal.

Prince Paul and Yevtitch are described as being more European minded and ready to come to terms with outside neighbors such as Italy and also to grant more liberal representation to the other elements within the Jugo-Slav nation such as the Croats and the Slovenes.

In this connection it was noted that Father Anton Koroshetz, recently liberated leader of the Slovene Clerical party, and Alexander Svanojevich, head of the old Serb Radical party, were among those who were called into conference by Paul.

The immediate cause for Yevtitch's resignation today appeared to be disagreement over the manner in which he presented to the league of nations the Jugo-Slav case against Hungary charging complicity in the murder of King Alexander.

Hailed by Throngs.

Upon his return to Belgrade from Geneva Yevtitch was hailed by throngs as "the victor of Geneva." for obtaining a league resolution requesting Hungary to investigate and punish officials found guilty of aiding terrorist activities directed against Jugo-Slavia.

The cabinet, however, indicated to Yevtitch that he had not accomplished his task as well as he might have done.

PARAGUAY SENDS LEAGUE REFUSAL OF PEACE TERMS

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Paraguay cabled a rejection of the league of nations' latest peace plan to Geneva today and probabilities of a fight to the finish with Bolivia in the grim Chaco jungles seemed stronger than ever. Bolivia's acceptance of the plan had been based provisionally upon Paraguay's acceptance.

The opposing armies are facing each other westward of the 62d meridian, the recently victorious Paraguayans menacing Bolivian positions even beyond the limits of the Chaco, in the Bolivian provinces of Tarija and Santa Cruz.

The Paraguayan rejection said certain conditions would make it impossible to discuss urgent matters like the return of Bolivian prisoners, "which by number and quality constitute an army very superior to that which Bolivia now has in the Chaco."

BRITAIN FREES FASCIST MOSLEY OF RIOT CHARGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—A directed verdict of not guilty was accorded Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of British Fascists, and three of his Black Shirt followers at Lewes today on a charge of riotous assembly. Justice Branson criticized the police "for not always giving evidence with accustomed fairness."

Justice Branson was about to direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty when the foreman passed up a paper saying the jury considered that no case had been made for the prosecution and that there was no necessity of hearing the defense.

The Fascists had been accused of slugging members of a peaceful crowd at Worthing, south coast resort, on Oct. 9. Justice Branson refused to condemn the police to the costs, as the defense had asked.

Court Frees Policeman in Accidental Wounding

Thomas Normile, 44 years old, 7931 South Wabash avenue, a suspended policeman from the Stanton avenue station, was freed yesterday of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon by Judge Gibson E. Gorman. Normile, who was assembled with more than 150 other policemen on reserve duty in the detective bureau on Nov. 24, fired two shots into the floor after some one threw a firecracker at his feet. The bullets ricocheted and fragments slightly wounded six policemen.

HEMSLEY, BRITISH CHIEF OF POLICE IN SAAR, RESIGNS

First of Foreign Military Forces Arrive.

SAARBRUECKEN, The Saar, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Capt. Arthur G. Hemsley, giant chief of the Saar civil police, submitted his resignation today as an aftermath of Sunday's street fight involving Capt. James Justice, another British member of the force and his close friend.

CAPT. A. G. HEMSLEY.

Col. Geoffrey G. Knox, British president of the league of nations commission governing the Saar, had not accepted Hemsley's resignation late tonight.

He was expected to decide Wednesday whether Nazi charges that the police chief danced on a café table at a night club party prior to the street incident in which Justice was badly beaten after his gun wounded one man waranted Hemsley's dismissal.

Tommies Locked Up.

As feeling over the affair subsided, thirty British Tommies—the first contingent of the league's first international army that will keep order in the Saar during the plebiscite period—arrived in the basin and were promptly locked up in a hotel to prevent their mixing with the populace.

The Tommies arrived unannounced and marched to their hotel before dawn, so that the Saarlanders, who will vote Jan. 13 on the question of their future national allegiance, knew nothing of their presence until late afternoon when they appeared at cafés in small groups. They were under orders forbidding them to talk or drink beer with others than their buddies.

The main body of British troops which will compose part of the international army of 3,500 is expected to arrive at Saarbruecken Friday.

The first contingent of Dutch troops was to leave Amsterdam for Saarbruecken Thursday. A detachment of Dutch marines will leave Saturday.

Sweden's Force Primped.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Swedish tailors tonight put finishing touches on brand new natty gray uniforms for the "army" of 250 men Sweden is sending to help police the Saar for the plebiscite.

Not since the Napoleonic wars of 1814 has the peaceful Scandinavian nation sent troops so far beyond its borders. Bands, flowers, and great crowds will speed the little force as it departs on a special train Thursday.

Italian Troops on Way.

RUMOR OF HITLER BEING WOUNDED DENIED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has not been wounded, it was officially said today, nor has any one shot at Der Fuehrer.

Those were the denials Nazi officials had ready for rumors that the German leader had been near assassination.

"Ridiculous inventions," the reports were termed.

The rumor that Hitler was dead reached Berlin today almost at the same time from three such widely separated nations as Austria, Russia, and Holland.

[The newspaper Linzer Volksblatt of Linz, Austria, published reports, the source of which it said was "trustworthy," that a German girl recently shot and wounded Hitler. The marquess of Donegall, writing in Sunday's London Dispatch, chronicled reports that Hitler's plane had been attacked from the air while he was flying over east Prussia. Rumors were even rife in New York yesterday that Der Fuehrer had been shot and wounded.]

"If the saying is true that people wrongly reported dead or wounded are assured of a long life, then Der Fuehrer will live to the age of Methuselah," an official spokesman commented.

New Italian Province

LITTORIA, Italy, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today extolled Italy's military power as the guarantee of its agricultural tranquility. He spoke at the inauguration of the country's ninety-third province—Littoria—a farm land reclaimed from the marshes between Rome and Naples.

Il Duce referred proudly to the vast reclamation project and added that Italy "must be strong from a military viewpoint so that this gigantic work shall not be disturbed."

"The plow made the furrow," he said, "but the sword defends it. Both the plowshare and the sword are of steel tempered with the faith of our hearts. Now you understand why you have heard the voice of cannon thundering beside my voice."

Littoria, a desolate swamp land four years ago, today is occupied by 60,000 former service men and their families. They dwell in modern farmhouses in which they have a proprietary interest and may eventually become the owners of the fertile acres they till.

26 FOOT TREE FOR ROOSEVELT HOLIDAY FETES

Berlin, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A 26 foot Christmas tree, gift of New York state to President Roosevelt, is on its way to Washington today to be set up in the White House.

New York foresters picked the finest balsam of Christmas tree size that could be found in the state's game refuge at Cherry Plain.

Nearby grew a smaller balsam which was cut for Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Mr. Roosevelt's successor as New York's chief executive. The governor's balsam is 18 feet high, but will have to be trimmed down to 16 before it can be set up in the antiquated executive mansion at Albany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Sawed off shotguns and machine guns, those favored weapons of American gangsters, will be barred to their British emulators if recommendations made today to the home office by the firearms committee are adopted.

In the last three years nine gangsters, who are on the increase in England, have been caught using sawed off shotguns. The submachine gun also is coming into favor with British bandits.

The firearms committee urged total prohibition of the sale or possession of "continuous fire" small arms unless authorized by naval, military, or air authorities.

"There can be no legitimate use in the country for such an extremely dangerous and deadly type of weapon," the committee said.

As for sawed off shotguns, it urged that the shortening of the barrel of a smooth bore gun to less than twenty inches be made an offense punishable by three months' imprisonment or a fine of $250 or both.

The committee also urged a new appeal to all Englishmen to give up firearms except sporting guns, but including firearms held as trophies.

That stricter action is being taken to check crime was indicated by the fact that a number of rifles offered for sale in the belongings of the late Maj. J. E. Fox, former mayor of Croydon, were seized today by police for fear that they would fall into criminal hands.

2 Russian Bank Clerks Get Death for Looting Safe

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Two bank clerks were sentenced to death today for the theft of 300,000 rubles from the Suchansky State bank. They were charged with stealing the keys to the safe from the cashier, who was sent to prison for three years for carelessness in guarding the state's money.

WOMAN HANGED IN ENGLAND FOR KILLING HUSBAND

King Refuses to Act and Poisoner Dies.

BULLETIN.

HULL, England, Dec. 19—(Wednesday) — (AP) — Mrs. Ethel Lille Major, 42, was hanged at Hull prison today for the murder of her husband, becoming the first woman England has executed since 1926.

HULL, England, Dec. 19.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Lille Major, 42, her last hope gone when appeals to King George and Queen Mary failed, faced the gallows today for poisoning her husband, a truck driver, with whom she had lived 17 years.

A barrage of last minute telegrams asking the king to save the convicted woman came to nothing soon after the executioner, whose identity was kept secret, arrived at Hull. Mrs. Major, convinced that all hope had gone, bade farewell to her aged father and her 15 year old son.

Lord Mayor Stark of Hull, who had addressed his last appeal to Buckingham palace, received a message just before midnight telling him that his appeal had been transmitted to the home secretary's office.

Shortly thereafter the home secretary's office returned this answer: "The decision of the home secretary is already known." This referred to the finding of the home office that, despite a jury's recommendation for mercy, there was no grounds for clemency in Mrs. Major's case.

Lord Mayor Stark in his appeal to the home office had said:

"For the sake of humanity I implore you to reconsider your decision. The heartfelt plea contained in this telegram is that of the 300,000 inhabitants, and particularly of the entire female population, of this great city. The impending execution is most distressing to the thousands of women who live near the prison."

Mrs. Mary Hatfield, first woman member of the Hull city council, also telegraphed King George for mercy. She said the thoughts of the impending execution cast gloom over the merry Christmas season.

As death drew nearer Mrs. Major sat disconsolate in her narrow cell, hoping against hope she would be saved at the last moment.

"I'm innocent," she said.

Doomed to die also is another woman, Lydia Binks, who was convicted with Frederich Rushworth for the murder of a child buried alive at York.

The last woman hanged in England was Mrs. Louise Clavert, who died June 24, 1926, for strangling her landlady in Manchester.

ARMY OFFICER'S PROPAGANDA FOR MUNITIONS TOLD

Quiz Bares Article to Spur Foreign Sales.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Employment of a ranking American army officer to write propaganda for the Remington Arms company to increase its foreign sales was revealed today before the senate munitions committee.

The author was Lieut. Col. Townsend Whelen, who still is in the service but who is expecting to do some work for the arms company upon his retirement a few months from now. He was requested to write the article in a letter which frankly described it as "propaganda" and the company's attitude as "entirely selfish."

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt was given what was described as an optimistic report on possibilities for an international agreement providing stringent control of the munitions trafic.

Tells Hopes of Arms Treaty.

The report was given the President by Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland, who was this country's spokesman in presenting American arms control proposals before the steering committee of the Geneva disarmament conference.

"There are real grounds for hope in the accomplishment of a treaty dealing with the manufacture of and trade in arms," Wilson said afterward. "This hope is justified by the fact that since the discussions began in the disarmament conference there is a greater measure of accord on this particular matter than on any other phase of disarmament."

The committee today launched an inquiry into the source of gangsters' machine guns by directing the Winchester company to produce all records of their machine gun sales. This was done over the protest of company officials that they did not manufacture such weapons.

Nye Demands Records.

The direction came from Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Rad., N. D.] after introduction of correspondence between the Winchester company and others over the sale of machine guns and gun barrels that could be used for such weapons.

Delving into the hiring of Lieut. Col. Whelen to write articles on munitions, the committee learned that the officer was compensated for an article for publication abroad, which Remington officials said they thought never was published, and other writings at a small hourly rate.

Whelen declined a position with the company, the committee was told, because "soreheads in congress" had enacted a law cutting off the retirement pay of army officers taking employment with firms selling to the government.

However, it was revealed that upon his retirement Whelen expects to open an office in Washington as a consulting ordnance engineer, in which capacity he feels he can "go anywhere and do anything" the company desires and still retain his retirement pay of $375 a month.

Du Pont Explains Charts.

Other evidence revealed that a second army officer, Lieut. B. R. Chadwich, has used the stationery of the war department in soliciting the Remington Arms company for advertising in the Army and Navy Journal.

Committee investigators received a series of charts from Irenee du Pont, official of the Delaware material concern, which he explained as showing that the price charged the government for gunpowder during the world war actually was below the prewar rate despite a tremendous jump in quotations on the raw materials from which explosives were made.

GREATEST LABOR FIGHT IN SPRING, LEADER PREDICTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A prediction that the United States would suffer next spring the greatest industrial disturbance in its history was made today by Francis J. Gorman, organization director of the United Textile Workers.

Gorman said in an interview that labor, unless conditions changed soon, must launch a "finish fight" against industries now regarded as hostile to trade unionization.

At the same time the chieftain of the textile workers confirmed reports that an alliance might be formed among unions of textile, steel, automobile and tobacco workers to combat "an alliance already made by manufacturers in these industries to resist labor's claims to its rights under the National Recovery Act."

Gorman said that "under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers an agreement has been made that amounts to an employers' combination against labor."

"It is apparent that the employers are going to fight more bitterly against labor than ever before, and what labor must do is to give them a good fight."

Honor Chicagoans at Military School

CADET B. B. ABRAMS.

CADET MACDONALD LOWE.

Carolina Military College Honors 2 Chicago Cadets

Two Chicago youths have been honored at The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., military college, it was announced yesterday. They are Cadet Bernard B. Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Abrams, 1263 Pratt boulevard, and Cadet MacDonald Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Lowe, 380 Hazel avenue, Highland Park. Cadet Abrams has been given a captaincy in the cadet corps. He is the first cadet at the college to be an editor on all four of the student publications. Cadet Lowe has been elected captain of next year's football team.

PLANS PREPARED FOR 1,600 JOBS, DERN REPORTS

Ready to Proceed if U.S. Furthers Building.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Studies and reports on 1,600 engineering projects with an estimated cost of 8 billion dollars have been prepared by the war department, in case the government should decide to proceed further with a building program to spur employment and recovery, Secretary Dern has told President Roosevelt in his annual report.

The section of the report dealing with the civil activities of army engineers, made public today, stressed that when a big scale construction program was decided upon by the administration the war department was prepared to go ahead on authorized projects without delay, because of its advance planning.

Dern Describes Plans.

"A considerable number of these projects," said Dern in discussing the plans for the 1,600 works, "have estimated benefits substantially greater than the estimated costs. In many cases the question must be answered whether the federal government should finance them in whole, in part, or not at all."

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, total expenditures on all civil works of the army engineers, both under the public works program and under the normal activities of the war department, were $158,149,798.39, Dern reported. Employment was provided for 76,623 persons and, with indirect employment included, work was given to more than 200,000 persons.

Cites "Continuing Benefits."

"While the work being performed has great value as a relief and recovery measure, it is at the same time rapidly pushing to completion navigation and flood control projects, which, under ordinary circumstances, would not have been finished for many years, and which will be of continuing benefit to the economic life of the nation," Dern said.

Among the war department civil works activities is the large scale plan for improving inland waterways and bringing to the interior the benefit of cheap water transportation. This includes improvement of navigation on the Mississippi from the Twin Cities to the mouth, similar improvement of the Missouri from Sioux City to the mouth, development of the Illinois river for navigation, and improvement of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway to bring ocean ships to the lakes.

TESTIFY REDS STIR TROUBLE IN U. S. ARMY, NAVY

Witnesses Tell of Russian Plots.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Attempts by communists to spread dissatisfaction, mutiny, and rebellion among the nation's armed forces were reported today by army and navy officers to be causing real "concern."

They asked the house committee investigating un-American activities to approve a law permitting punishment of those who urge any soldier or sailor to "violate his oath of allegiance."

John W. McCormack [Dem., Mass.], chairman, reported that various remedies were being considered by the committee, but none had been agreed upon.

The communistic army-navy campaign was described by Commander V. L. Kirkman of the navy as carefully planned and supervised from headquarters in New York City. Other witnesses have asserted that the New York headquarters took orders from Moscow.

Even Attempt Sabotage.

"The present drive that is causing us concern," Kirkman testified, "takes the form of spreading subversive propaganda by organized groups among the organized forces in an endeavor to incite the personnel to dissatisfaction, disaffection, disloyalty, and, in some cases, actual sabotage."

He submitted a number of exhibits—leaflets and pamphlets purportedly from communistic sources and circulated in the navy—which, he said, "actually incite to mutiny, rebellion, sabotage, and assassination."

As to the methods of getting "propaganda" into the hands of sailors, Kirkman gave this detailed version of one system:

"Small groups of, say, two men and three girls will come aboard ship with the regular crowd of visitors and sightseers. Men of this group will circulate about the decks, stuffing their handbills into boats, behind ventilators, and so on, where members of the crew eventually find them. . . .

Girls Try to Win Sailors.

"Meanwhile, the girls of the group—chosen for their good looks—will be picking out promising appearing enlisted men, engaging them in conversation with the object of making dates with them ashore and working on them there to convert them to the 'cause' and thus gain a recruit within the ship's company."

STEEL WORKERS AND OPERATORS STILL UNAGREED

President's Efforts Fail to Bring Accord.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's personal intervention in the troublesome steel labor situation today failed to bring any agreement between steel mill owners and their workers.

"No final decision was reached," said a formal White House statement after the President had called leaders of the steel industry and of organized labor into a conference at noon.

Negotiations between the steel operators and labor will continue through the national steel labor relations board, the White House statement said. This board, consisting of Judge R. H. Stacy and Admiral Hugh Wiley, has been endeavoring for weeks to bring together workers and employers in the industry.

Split in Bargaining.

Workers' representation in collective bargaining is the bone of contention between the industry and organized labor. The industry, long a traditional foe of organized labor, is reputed to be willing to recognize the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, an American Federation of Labor union, as representing its members in collective bargaining. But the steel operators insist that other labor groups, even though they are in the minority, also be represented.

This stand has thrown the industry into conflict with the famous "majority rule" dogma of the national labor relations board. The board has held that under section 7-A of the NRA employers may bargain only with the union which represents a majority of the workers, leaving minorities without representation.

President Roosevelt is believed to have demanded today that the industry abandon its insistence on minority representation and accede to majority rule. This demand is understood to have broken up the meeting.

Board Submits "Formula."

"A formula" to solve the difference between the unions and the steel industry has been worked out by the steel board, but as yet it has not been perfected to a point where both sides can agree to it, the White House statement said. The nature of this formula was not disclosed. The brief White House announcement, issued after the conference, was:

"The conference discussed the language of a formula for an agreement covering a time period of six months. No final decision was reached. Further conferences will be held between members of the national steel labor relations board, representatives of employers and employés."

Those at Conference.

Those attending the conference were Myron Taylor of the United States Steel corporation, Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel corporation, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Michael Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers; Nathan L. Miller, counsel for the United States Steel corporation; Charleton Ogburn, counsel for the Amalgamated; Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrady, Judge Stacy, and Admiral Wiley.

Failure thus far to settle the method of labor representation has completely blocked the arbitration work of the steel board. Steel workers in several plants, including the Gary plant of the Illinois Steel company, have asked the board for elections at which collective bargaining representatives can be selected. Before granting any of these requests the board is seeking an agreement with the industry in the hope of avoiding a later fight in court.

Roosevelt Considers Study on Cost of Electric Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today was considering undertaking a survey of the cost of electric power being bought throughout the country by the federal government to determine whether existing rates are too high. This was disclosed after the White House nimbly sidestepped another invitation to test one of its policies in the Supreme court.

Last evening Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Edison Electric institute, presented a 5,000 word memorial to the President pleading that the government unite in proceedings to bring about an early decision on the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority. The plea was based on the argument that the TVA is a "strangulation" of private enterprise by government competition.

Staf Works Late.

The President did not answer the memorial himself but turned it over to Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission. Power consumption at the commission's offices leaped as McNinch and his staf worked through the night to prepare an answer, knowing their expression would be considered as defining the administration position.

"In all the history of the American people," the McNinch answer read, "no parallel for such a proposal can be found. . . . The call is not for the government to halt, but for the industry to catch step and move forward along progressive lines.

"The institute has, of course, a legal right to promote litigation to test the act creating the TVA or any other statute, but will make no substantial progress toward placing the industry on a sound and permanent basis until it cleans its own house, reduces excessive rates to consumers, and eliminates the malpractices and abuses which are responsible for its present condition."

The announcement of the contemplated survey was seen as serving notice that the government intends to follow the TVA yardstick in purchasing power. It was also seen as a defiance of Mr. McCarter's gauge to government competition.

Third Evasion of Test.

The dodging of the Supreme court test is the third move of this nature by the government. The administration avoided a threat of the Western Union Telegraph company to carry a fight against the NRA to the Supreme court by providing no code for the industry. When a similar threat was made by a group in the cotton garment industry the administration meted punishment by taking them from under their code authority.

The President was prompted to reveal his consideration of the power cost survey on learning that Maurice P. Davidson, commissioner of water, gas, and electricity in New York City had rejected bids of private power companies for 1935 needs because he considered the rates excessive.

Invites La Guardia to Parley.

Knowing that Commissioner Davidson has made a study of power rates, the President invited him to confer at the White House tomorrow. Mayor La Guardia, who fancies himself a champion of low power rates, was asked to come with his commissioner. Also to be present at the conference is Rear Admiral Rueben E. Bakenhaus.

White House attachés explained the Bakenhaus invitation by recalling that while the President was assistant secretary of the navy during the world war a successful movement was undertaken by the navy to get cheaper electric rates. The drive was conducted by Admiral Bakenhaus, then attached to the Brooklyn navy yard.

The admiral, according to the President's recollection, brought about a cut in the yard's bill from $900,000 to $300,000. He made an extensive study of power costs and is still engaged on the subject.

Howard L. Scott Chosen Recorder of Lake County

Howard L. Scott, postmaster at Fox Lake for the last 20 years, chairman of the Republican central committee of Lake county, was elected to fill a vacancy as recorder of deeds yesterday by the Lake county board of supervisors. He will serve out the two year term of Lewis O. Brockway, who died on Thanksgiving after having held the position since 1900. Mr. Scott was elected over John J. Hogan, town clerk of Waukegan township, by a vote of 17 to 16. He will continue to serve as postmaster of Fox Lake until his successor is named.

Order Lieut. Col. Duckwall from Panama to Duty Here

Lieut. Col. Bertram F. Duckwall of the army medical corps, who has been on duty in Panama, has been assigned to duty with the organized reserves in the Sixth corps area here, according to word received yesterday from the war department in Washington. Born in Indiana forty-five years ago, Lieut. Col. Duckwall was graduated from the University of Michigan medical school in 1911, and in the same year joined the medical reserve corps.

13 MILLION STILL LIKE OLD DEAL, SAYS DR. WILBUR

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Far from discouraged at the results of the November election, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university and Herbert Hoover's secretary of the interior, said in an interview here tonight the election "showed 13 million people still believe in the basic things we call American."

Dr. Wilbur, here to address the Linn County Medical society, said the Republican vote was remarkable in view of the fact that nothing has ever had so much publicity as the New Deal.

Dr. Wilbur declared that Uncle Sam was so busy swallowing one concoction after another, designed to bring him back to immediate and vigorous health, that he has not had time to get well.

RAILS MAY JOIN INTERURBAN MEN IN COAST STRIKE

Three Roads Affected if Trouble Starts.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The possibility that a threatened strike of workmen of the Pacific Electric Inter Urban system in southern California may bring a sympathetic walkout in portions of three great transcontinental railroads took tangible form today.

Although the exact limits of the sympathetic strike, which would affect the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, and Union Pacific railroads at the height of the Christmas trafic rush, were not defined, authority to call it was placed in the hands of D. A. MacKenzie.

Might Extend North and East.

MacKenzie, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has hinted that although the sympathetic strike at first may only be in the Los Angeles area, it might possibly extend as far as Portland, Ore., Salt Lake City, Utah, and El Paso, Tex.

Seeking to dispel the gathering storm clouds, the national mediation board, here from Washington, called fresh conferences between the union representatives of the Pacific Electric system and company officials.

Union officials and heads of the Inter Urban system, which serves Los Angeles and adjoining communities, carrying upward of 150,000 passengers daily, apparently have reached an impasse in their negotiations.

Union Makes Concession.

The latest concession was made Saturday by union men who agreed to reduce their basic wage increase demands from 72 cents an hour to 62½ cents an hour. The Pacific Electric has said it was financially unable to make any increases in pay.

W. O'Rourke, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said if and when a sympathy strike was called, it would affect only the three trans-continental systems, but not any of their subsidiary or linking lines.

The threat of a strike on the Pacific Electric system developed a month ago along with strike talk among the workers of the Los Angeles railway, which operates buses and street cars within Los Angeles.

"I GOTTA DRAG" TAGS LEAVE PARK CHIEFS UNMOVED

Commissioners of the Chicago park district declined yesterday at their regular meeting to take out memberships in the "I Gotta Drag" club. Samples of automobile shields and stars, emblematic of their office, were shown to the commissioners, but no orders for delivery were forthcoming.

"I don't believe in stars and shields," said Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district. "I don't want to become a member of the 'I Gotta Drag' club, but the other members are free to do as they think best."

Commissioner Martin Kennelly moved that the board dispense with the stars and shields; Commissioner Harry I. Joseph seconded the motion, and President Dunham and Commissioner Stephen I. Witmanski voted affirmatively with their colleagues.

SANTA IS HONOR GUEST AT MANY JOYOUS PARTIES

Adults and Children Find Things Exciting.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Kris Kringle, whiskers and all, called on the Rotary club of Chicago yesterday at its annual Christmas party in the Hotel Sherman and gave the Rotarians a surprise, springing a line of decidedly modern patter. Kris Kringle, they discovered was Sophie Tucker in disguise.

Jean Paul King, radio announcer, acted as master of ceremonies as 700 gift bags of merchandise manufactured by Rotarians were distributed.

An adequate supply of willing guests for holiday parties was assured yesterday by the announcement of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, that public schools would remain closed from Friday evening until Jan. 7.

Kiwanians Entertain Children.

At the Drake hotel fifty children of the North Central Kiwanis club were guests of their fathers, and with a great deal of excitement hailed Santa when he strode into the luncheon room with a real pack on his back full of toys for all. As a part of the celebration members of the Gladys Hight School of Dancing gave a special program.

Another stop Santa made yesterday was at the Salvation Army headquarters, 719 North State street, bringing Mrs. Santa with him. The pair rode up in a sleigh drawn by a white horse generously decorated with bells and such, and neither Santa nor the horse seemed to mind the absence of snow.

The sleigh was filled with toys to go to underprivileged youngsters dependent on the Salvation Army for their Christmas cheer.

Event for Civil War Vets.

On Christmas day 3,000 dinners will be served to needy families and to inmates of the homes and institutions of the Salvation Army, while on Monday afternoon two parties will be held for 1,000 youngsters, one at 1514 Madison street and the other at 3053 Normal boulevard.

Civil war veterans, their wives, and the widows of their comrades will sit down to a Christmas dinner at noon today in the Capitol building as guests of the Elizabeth Kipp tent No. 16 of the Daughters of Union Vetrans of the Civil War. Also, today will be a Christmas play to be given at 12:30 p. m. in the Christopher School for Crippled Children, 51st street and Artesian avenue, by players from the Morgan Park academy. Tomorrow at 1 p. m. a group from the Evanston Kiwanis club is to present an entertainment there.

Tomorrow morning the Peterson school Parent-Teacher association will distribute toys, nuts, and candies to youthful patients of the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

BOY SCOUTS TO BE GOOD FELLOWS

Cold Figures Show Spread of Warm Spirit.

Tangible evidence of the growth of the Good Fellow movement, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to banish bitter disappointment from as many needy homes as possible on Christmas morning, is shown in comparative figures for the years 1932, 1933 and 1934.

The figures, viewed coldly, may represent returning "good times"—when people feel they can contribute more to charity simply because they have more. And again these figures may reflect an improvement in humanity—a sign of increased pity of man for his less fortunate brothers.

The first twelve days of the 1932 Good Fellow campaign showed that 353 Good Fellows had agreed to take 585 families and that cash received totaled $223.71. This cash contribution is made by persons who desire to remain anonymous to the family and the baskets are delivered by employés of THE TRIBUNE.

Encouraging Gains Listed.

During the corresponding period of 1933 a total of 521 Good Fellows signed up to make 643 families happier on Christmas morn. Cash contributions came to $476.34.

But the most encouraging and heart warming gain occurred in the first twelve days of the current drive. During that period 665 registered, a gain of 27 per cent over the preceding year; 782 families were taken, a gain of 21 per cent; and cash contributions totaled $1,082.06, or a gain of 127 per cent over the same period of 1933.

Many Hundreds Still Needed.

But don't give up, Good Fellows! THE TRIBUNE can direct you to more than 2,000 needy families—the goal—and all are in actual want. There is still plenty of time and much good work to do. Pick up your telephone and call Good Fellows' headquarters, Superior 0100, or fill in the coupon in the adjacent column. You will be given the name of a deserving family.

Touching appeals for a Merry Christmas continued to pour into the Good Fellow headquarters yesterday. One twelve year old boy wrote:

"Won't you please try and make my brothers and sister a little happy this Christmas? My dad has been out of a job for a long time and we don't know what Christmas is any more. My mother and two brothers and sister are sick in bed and we don't get enough to eat. Half the time we have no warm clothes to wear."

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN, 86.

Mrs. Lillian Gilbert, 86 years old, 124 North Parkside avenue, died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 6 when she fell in her home.

ICKES CANCELS CASH FOR FIVE ILLINOIS JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Ickes today announced the cancelation of five loan and grant allotments for non-federal construction projects in Illinois. The five projects were to have cost almost two million dollars.

The largest of the rescinded projects and loan and grant of $1,790,000 to the city of Joliet for improvements in the water system, canceled the because the city has not executed the bond contract and grant agreement sent out from Washington July 24. The city of Batavia requested cancelation of a $21,000 loan and grant for repairing and widening a bridge.

School district No. 122 of Woodford county asked cancelation of $24,000 allotted for building a high school gymnasium. School district No. 125 at La Salle made the same request on a $22,000 allotment for a new building. At Wheaton a grant of $115,000 for a grade crossing separation was rescinded because the project was defeated at a bond issue referendum.

Secretary Ickes announced allotment of $889,000 to the state of Illinois for five highway improvements, including the grade separation structures, and $145,700 for seven highway improvements in St. Clair county.

Freed of Taking Money to Procure HOLC Loan

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday found Morris Zutman, 711 South Central Park avenue, not guilty of violating the Home Owners Loan corporation act by accepting money for helping a property owner negotiate an HOLC loan. The case was tried without a jury. Judge Barnes entered a not guilty finding after Zutman testified that $100 he obtained from Nathan Brodkin, 1823 South Clifton Park avenue, was for services unassociated with the HOLC loan.

YULETIDE SALES GAIN 16 PER CENT OVER LAST YEAR

Best Business Since '29, Says Roper.

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—A country-wide increase in Christmas sales of 16 per cent over a year ago was reported today by the National Retail Dry Goods association in a survey covering the holiday trade of member stores in seventy cities from Nov. 30 to Dec. 15.

Simultaneously, in Washington the nation-wide advance in holiday retail business was reported to President Roosevelt by Secretary Roper at the weekly cabinet meeting.

"I reported the greatest retail Christmas business since the boom year of 1929," the secretary of commerce said. "We have received reports that in some cities stores are being closed ahead of usual hours because of the press of shoppers."

All Sections Show Gain.

Increases reported by the retail association, putting holiday trade on the best basis since 1931, ranged from 2 per cent in Binghamton, N. Y., to 20.5 per cent in Norfolk, Va., and 20.2 per cent in Dallas, Tex. The gain in New York City sales was reported as 11 per cent, and Chicago's increase was 17.5.

"Stores in the south and southwest," the association reported, "piled up the greatest gains, but there was no section in which substantial gains were not registered.

"New England department stores showed an increase of 10 per cent; middle Atlantic states, 11.5 per cent; the middle west, 17 per cent; the south, 20.8 per cent; the southwest, 24 per cent; the far west, 15.5 per cent, and the Pacific coast, 16 per cent.

Find Shoppers in Better Mood.

"Store after store stressed that shoppers this year are in a better shopping mood, that there apparently is more money, and that customers are coming closer to meeting their Christmas wants than in any of the three previous years."

Pointing out that the period Nov. 30 to Dec. 15 was compared with the period Dec. 1 to Dec. 16 last year, the association said this was done because both contain three Saturdays and an equal number of shopping days. The organization added:

"With an extra Saturday in the first half of December this year and only two Saturdays last year, reports based on sales from Dec. 1 to 15, as compared with the same calendar period in 1933, would have shown higher figures."

Fire Attacks Industrial Building; Damage $25,000

Fire last night attacked a six story building at 111-13 South Jefferson street, housing six small industrial concerns. The blaze was brought under control with damage confined to the third, fourth, and fifth floors. Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated the damage at $25,000. The fire started in a storeroom of the Reedy Gum company, occupying the fourth floor, firemen said.

NRA SETS HEARING ON DECORATOR PACT FOR CHICAGO AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—A hearing in Chicago on Jan. 7 to discuss the proposed labor agreement covering painting, paper hanging, and decorating in Cook county has been announced by the NRA.

The proposed agreement, arranged under the provision of the construction industry code which allows regional wage agreements, has been negotiated by the Painting and Decorating Contractors' association and the district council of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators & Paper Hangers.

GREAT BENEFIT SHOW TONIGHT AIDS CHILDREN

With 90 per cent of the seats in the Chicago stadium sold for the performance tonight of "A Night of Stars," the outstanding event in Mayor Kelly's Christmas benefit program, officials yesterday predicted a happy Christmas for 50,000 poor children of Chicago.

"We're expecting a capacity crowd," came the report from benefit headquarters. "We've sold out the $1, $3 and $5 seats, and all we have left are a few $10 seats and $100 boxes."

When the curtain goes up at 8:30 tonight, a spectacular pageant of stars will begin. From W-G-N will come Quin Ryan, who will open the show, and a host of radio entertainers; from Chez Paree will come Sophie Tucker and her show and from the French Casino, Johann Strauss and his troupe.

Frank Smith is chairman of the entertainment committee, while Charles Niggemeyer is producer. Mayor Kelly is chairman of the benefit drive, Chicago's Own Christmas benefit, which has a goal of $200,000. The proceeds will be used to purchase shoes and clothing for needy children.

CHRISTMAS SONG WILL HALT CITY'S BUSIEST CORNER

The hurrying cross streams of trafic at State and Madison streets, hub of the nation's trade marts, will pause at 11 o'clock Monday morning while an assemblage of carolers, believed to be the largest ever congregated in this country, raise their voices in the beautiful hymns of Christmas.

Last minute shoppers will be invited to join their voices in the mighty pæan, as Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, "grand old lady" of the opera, leads the carolers. Invitations have been sent by the State Street council to Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, prominent churchmen, and other leaders to watch the musical program from a reviewing stand on the southeast corner of the intersection.

Flat cars trimmed with festive decorations will be run up and down State street by the surface lines to carry the different choral groups. More than fifty choral societies have already responded to invitations of the council.

U. S. to Warsaw Flyers Indicted in Liquor Case

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Joseph and Benjamin Adamowicz, Brooklyn flyers who made an air trip from New York to Warsaw last summer, were indicted in Brooklyn federal court today on a liquor charge. They were accused of conspiring to possess and operate what was described as possibly the largest illegal still ever seized by government agents on Long Island.

Attorney William Oakes Kills Himself in Office

Attorney William Oakes, 52 years old, who lived at the Hayes hotel, 6401 University avenue, shot and killed himself yesterday in his office at 3018 East 91st street. He left a note for his wife Edith. Mrs. Oakes said her husband had been despondent over financial reverses.

TWO SHOPPERS NEGLECT SANTA AND GO TO JAIL

Two young men with novel ideas of a short cut in Christmas shopping and mistaken conceptions of Santa Claus were arrested last night after police interrupted their plans because they neglected to pay for their merchandise.

William Hampe, 27 years old, 2026 North Clark street, an assistant buyer at a State street department store, and Reginald Gano, also 27, 6317 Kenwood avenue, were the two held.

For a week the pair were successful in persuading two loop stores to send merchandise to hotel rooms which they rented for the purpose, charging the intended gifts to the accounts of two out of town customers of the stores victimized.

The young men used three hotels, the Berkeley, Hays, and Clayton, for their activities, but last night Policemen Howard Harder and John Noonan of the detective bureau, with two store detectives, Herbert Warner and N. Zeller, caught up with them in the Berkeley. They seized merchandise valued at $200 in addition to the two men.

New York Sets Up 17 Old Auto "Cemeteries"

U. S. RELIEF CASH SPENT TO TEACH RADICAL NOTIONS

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson Tells of Co-operative Drive.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Carl Hutchinson of the Chicago Theological seminary told yesterday how federal emergency relief funds are being used for rural adult education in the field of consumers' coöperatives. As a rural research expert on leave of absence from his seminary for first hand study at Albion, Ind., where he is director of recreation for Noble county, Mr. Hutchinson related how many rural churches have been revitalized as informal centers of instruction under the FERA.

The more outspoken socialistic pastors and the leaders in the church youth movement, known for its radical trends, hail the coöperative as the answer to "the private profit motive. They expect the coöperatives to be an important factor in sounding the death knell of the capitalistic system. They assert that the "consumers' economy" on which the coöperatives rest, must supplant the present capitalistic "producers' economy," if a Christian social order is to be erected.

Believes Movement Nationwide.

The Chicago seminary expert said that churches as such are not recognized as FERA educational centers, yet more and more rural churches are taking advantage of the liberal FERA terms providing adult education. He said that three or four churches in Noble county have set up such schools within recent weeks, and added that this development apparently was going on steadily throughout rural America generally.

Mr. Hutchinson described the vast new network of rural instruction for adults as being fabricated through cooperation of three main agencies. These are the FERA, the Farm Bureau Coöperative association and the extension services of the various state agricultural schools. Of the three, only the Farm Bureau Coöperative association, while encouraged by the United States department of Agriculture, depends for financial support on the local communities, Mr. Hutchinson pointed out.

Busy in Ohio Congregations.

The whole New Deal, Mr. Hutchinson said, is the general subject of instruction in the rapidly expanding adult education system. In the country, he asserted, particular emphasis naturally has been laid on rural economics with the projects and program of the Agricultural Adjustment administration forming the spear head into this subject. Conservation of natural resources, local and national, and recreation round out, he added, the general layout of subject matter.

In Ohio, Mr. Hutchinson said, cooperatives formed subjects even of more intensive studies under FERA instruction than in Indiana. He cited the program of the Federated Church of North Jackson, O., as an example.

Courses Offered for Adults.

Under leadership of the pastor, the Rev. James D. Wyker, the North Jackson church has sponsored use of available FERA teachers and the following courses have been announced:

"Progress and philosophy of cooperation, coöperative production, cooperative marketing, coöperative purchasing, coöperative insurance and cooperative credits. History of various types of recreation, group singing, group games and game making."

A bulletin of information pertaining to Ohio FERA adult schools states that "the study of the history, purpose and philosophy of the various phases of the coöperative movement will be discussed in detail," and "will include discussions of some phases of agricultural economics as well as of the work of national, state and local coöperative institutions. The course of instruction has been outlined by agricultural extension specialists, state vocational agricultural leaders, emergency schools representatives and state farm bureau officials."

How Teachers Are Obtained.

Concerning teaching staffs for the FERA schools, the Ohio bulletin makes the following statements:

"Funds were obtained for the hiring of teachers through the county relief director and county emergency school chairman who serve under the state director of Ohio emergency schools. Teachers are hired on the basis of a three hour teaching period each day for five days per week. Classes were held at a time during the day or evening best suited to the student group in each community, generally in the regular school building."

Mr. Hutchinson declared that new life developed in rural churches making use of such courses of study, "which," he said, "look forward to setting up consumers' and other coöperatives." The greatest interest in the church as a center of the new instruction and later as a foundation for organization of coöperatives, has been aroused among younger people.

Some Merchants Attack Policy.

Mr. Hutchinson said that some opposition to the teaching and development of coöperatives has arisen among local merchants, but for the most part the tradesmen had not voiced their opinions on these projects. Some merchants, he aded, have looked with great appreciation on what FERA schools are teaching.

Reference was made to the findings of the September Methodist Youth conference at Evanston. Mr. Hutchinson said findings of that conference in favor of sponsoring coöperatives' projects by church agencies were in line with what are now becoming actualities in many sections. The Evanston youth conference overwhelmingly favored socialism as the economic system in least conflict with the teachings of Christianity.

Denies Propaganda in Illinois.

M. E. Penny, educational adviser of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said yesterday that he is not encouraging studies of coöperative movements in FERA schools in this state. He said that a few of the schools in the state have set up courses similar to those in Ohio and Indiana, but for the most part studies in other fields have been advocated. Mr. Penny stated that this position in the matter had been taken because "he did not want the FERA schools to be attacked as centers of socalistic and communistic propaganda." He added that churches are sometimes used as instruction centers in this state.

DROP EXTORTION LETTER CHARGE AGAINST HARRIS

A charge of sending an extortion letter through the mails, filed against Edmund R. Harris Jr., Baltimore architect, was dismissed for want of prosecution yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The motion was made by Defense Attorney John Elliott Byrne and was concurred in by Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher, who presented authority from Washington for the move.

Harris was indicted in October, 1933, on a charge of demanding $5,000 from Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, defendant in million dollar alienation of affections suit, brought by Mrs. Howard L. Willett, wife of the teaming company executive. The alienation suit was dismissed when Mrs. Willett obtained a divorce.

The government charged that Harris sent an anonymous letter to Mrs. Hall in which he offered to testify for her in the alienation suit in return for $5,000. Attorney Byrne stated yesterday that he was ready to bring handwriting experts into court to prove Harris did not write the letter.

GIRL WITH POKER SAVES HER FATHER FROM SUITOR'S FIRE

Dixon, Ill., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—An iron poker in the hands of Dorothy Marsh, 16, saved the life of her father, James Marsh, last night when Laville Shank attempted his life.

According to the police, Shank had been ordered to keep from the Marsh home because of his attentions to a younger sister of Dorothy.

Shank arrived with a revolver and shot Marsh, who attempted to disarm him. As Shank attempted to fire again, Dorothy knocked him out with a poker. Sherif Miller arrived and seized Shank. He is under $5,000 bonds charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

MAYOR'S STREET REPAIR PROGRAM SETS NEW MARK

Work Is Equal to 91.92 Miles of Roadway.

Street repairs under Mayor Kelly's program this year have exceeded in extent those of any year since the city vehicle tax was established in 1908.

This was revealed in a report made yesterday by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. Up to Dec. 8, it shows, 1,617,938 square yards of asphalt repaving had been done in Chicago this year. This is 400,000 yards in excess of the total for any previous year except 1931, when 1,516,518 square yards were laid.

Even though NRA code requirements have increased the cost of materials from 9 to 92 per cent over last year, the 1934 cost per square yard is near the record low for the last seventeen years, the report shows.

Cost Per Yard Rises.

This year's cost was $1.41 per square yard, as compared to the record low of $1.35 in 1933. The highest unit cost was $2.52 in 1930, and the average for the sixteen years preceding 1934 was $1.89.

Hewitt pointed out that this year's street repairs, if stretched into a thirty foot pavement, would make a road 91.92 miles long. Demand for materials has kept the city's three asphalt plants working near or over capacity most of the time.

No less than 30 gangs have been at work making the repairs this year, and recently the number was increased to 36, Hewitt said. The number of men per gang has been reduced for economy, and foremen now are getting better efficiency from their crews. Another economy effected by the city under Mayor Kelly was a reduction of the cost of hiring trucks.

Asphalt Price Stays Down.

All materials in the asphaltic mixtures used have been increased this year except the asphalt itself, Hewitt pointed out. It was only by economies in other directions, he said, that it was possible to hold this year's square yard price increase to 4½ per cent.

The mayor's street repair program is predicated on the theory that money paid for the vehicle tax should be spent for the benefit of owners of automobiles, trucks and other vehicles that are taxed, Hewitt said.

"I know of no reason," he added, "why the 1934 performance should not be duplicated in 1935, and year after year. Autoists who pay the tax are entitled to the repairs."

25 CITY SCHOOLS JOIN CRUSADE TO BAN TOY GUNS

Falling in line with the no-toy gun policy adopted by the Parent-Teacher association of Ryerson school, Lawndale and Huron streets, more than twenty-five public schools of Chicago have decided to have anti-gun campaigns this winter, Mrs. Rose Durso De Simone, who started the movement, announced yesterday.

"Nearly every mother in the city is in accord with our movement," said Mrs. De Simone, under whose direction as president of the Ryerson P.-T. A., some 2,000 Ryerson pupils destroyed their toy weapons in a bonfire on Dec. 11. "All realize that letting boys develop gangster ideas by playing with toy guns must be stopped."

Mrs. De Simone has received letters from parents and teachers throughout the country praising the movement. She has also received a letter of commendation from President Roosevelt.

The success of the crusade at Ryerson school is shown, she says, in the fact that all the children and their parents have signed anti-gun pleuges.

"The feeling is so universal," Mrs. De Simone said, "that no merchants in this district are displaying toy guns, slingshots, or water pistols in their windows."

Motorist Rescues Trucker from Drowning in Milk

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Arrival of a passing motorist saved Glenn Chrystler from drowning in milk from his overturned truck today near Sturgis. The unconscious driver was pulled from the wreckage as hundreds of gallons of milk poured into the ditch in which he lay.

NEW YORK CITY SCRAPS STREET CARS FOR BUSES

Five Cent Fare Will Be Retained.

New York City during 1935 is to see the scrapping of $31,000,000 worth of old street cars and track which will be supplanted by 638 buses of an improved type. The fare on the buses will be the same as is now being charged on the street cars, 5 cents for a continuous ride, with a a 2 cent charge for transfers. The standard bus charge in most cities is 10 cents.

Details of this project were discussed yesterday by John A. Ritchie, president of the Chicago Motor Coach company. He is chairman of the boards of the Fifth Avenue Coach company and the New York Railways corporation which operates a dozen New York City street car lines. These companies are behind the plans to motorize the car lines.

Move in the Modern Trend.

The project is looked on as a major move in the trend from electric street railways to bus transportation, according to Mr. Ritchie.

In contrast to transit improvement plans of New York City, it was pointed out that Chicago has been unable to persuade its surface lines interests to buy modern equipment with $19,000,000 which long ago was set aside for that purpose. The money is lying idle in banks, while bondholders' committees discuss reorganization.

The New York buses will be of the single deck type, and will seat 40 passengers. They will have entrances at the front and exits on the side toward the rear for speedy loading and unloading.

Oldest Car Line to Go.

The first major change is to occur on the Fourth and Madison avenue line about Jan. 15, when 77 buses of the new type will go into service on a nine mile stretch. They will replace 69 electric street cars now operating on an eight mile stretch. This change seems significant to Mr. Ritchie, who recalled that the Fourth and Madison line was the first street car line in the world. It was the original horse car line, going into service in 1832.

The motorization will then proceed through 1935 on the other eleven lines of the New York Railways system. Some of the motorization plans are subject to reorganization litigation, which is scheduled to be cleared by November, 1935.

When the bus project is completed, according to Mr. Ritchie, there will remain only 241 street cars operating on about 30 per cent of the mileage once served by electric surface railways on Manhattan Island. In 1907 there were 3,280 street cars. By 1932 these had dwindled to 827 as a result of the use of private automobiles, subways, and motor coaches.

Franchises Are Exchanged.

Another feature pointed out by Mr Ritchie, in the shift from street cars to buses, is the exchange by the New York Railways system of perpetual franchises for bus operation franchises not to exceed a period of 25 years. He estimated that the number of passengers who formerly used the street cars would increase from 10 to 15 per cent on the buses.

"In this modern age of comfort, convenience and expedition, the street car cannot possibly expect to hold its place in the general scheme of modern transportation," said Mr. Ritchie, who recently ordered 100 new double-decked buses for Chicago.

"The general public feeling is that street cars are an impediment to trafic, that they are slow, noisy, uncomfortable, that they are unable to receive and discharge passengers at the curb, and that they constitute a hazard."

SARASOTA HAVEN FOR ART LOVERS, FLIVVER NOMADS

Travelers of Wealth Are Attracted Also.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sarasota, Fla., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—This gulf coast winter resort of 10,000 population attracts "tin can" tourists from all parts of the United States and travelers of wealth and culture from all parts of the world as well as the usual run of northerners on vacation.

The John and Mabel Ringling Museum of Art here has one of the most valuable collections in this hemisphere. The circus-oil man and his wife in the last thirty-five years have acquired 700 originals by the greatest masters. The gallery has been evaluated variously from 20 to 30 million dollars.

Connoisseurs, critics, and artists from Chicago, New York, and Europe come to this semi-tropical town each winter to view Rembrandt's "Descent from the Cross," Carlo Dolci's "Holy Virgin," Ruben's Tapestries, and other such treasures.

Small Admission Levied.

The museum, which charges a nominal admission, is on the outskirts of the city. The architecture of the building is Italian renaissance, twenty-two rooms surrounding a court.

A view of the court and its formal Italian garden is one of the place's outstanding attractions. There is a cloistered porch supported by eighty-one ancient marble pillars. The top ballustrade is surmounted by seventy-six lifesize statues. In the terraced garden, with formal flower beds and grass plots, are rare old fountains and statuary.

The other extreme of Sarasota is found in its tourist camps. It is dubbed the T. C. T. C., the "tin can tourist camp," because each February between 1,500 and 2,000 highway nomads hold an informal convention on these grounds. There were about 100 or 125 house cars and house trailers there this afternoon when it was visited by THE TRIBUNE roadster on its tour of Florida winter resorts.

Circus Winter Home.

On the same side of the city is Ringling Brothers and Barnum-Bailey combined circus winter home for its 400 menagerie animals, 40 elephants, and 70 horses. This, too, is open to the public for a nominal charge. S. W. Gungumpertz, general manager, said the "gate" was 30 per cent above last year's figure for this date.

The chamber of commerce, as in other Florida resorts visited on this tour, reported that travel this winter was exceeding boom era volumes.

THE ONLY TRUCK AT ANY PRICE THAT GIVES YOU ALL THESE FEATURES

New Comfortable Coupe Type Cab

Welded all-steel construction. Real passenger-car comfort for the driver. Adjustable driver's seat of tilting-back type. Passenger-car-type instruments grouped directly in front of the driver, with dispatch box at the right of the instrument panel. Safety glass is standard equipment throughout. Triple ventilation includes: (1) Clear-Vision Ventilation in door windows; (2) easy-opening windshield operated by a single center control; (3) large screened cowl ventilator. Seat width increased to 48¾ inches. Plenty of leg room and elbow room. Interior of cab completely lined with attractive, durable pebble-grain material. Insulated roof and dash. New 18-gallon fuel tank with conveniently located filler cap.

New Quick-Stopping Rib-Cooled Brakes

Cast alloy iron drums with integral cooling ribs dissipate heat faster. Drums will not "bell-mouth." No "fading," even when making a series of quick stops in rapid succession. Newly designed brake mechanism makes stopping quicker and smoother with heavy loads. Longer life between brake adjustments.

New Truck-Type Heavy-Duty Clutch

New design assures much longer clutch life, minimizes slippage and permits smoother engagement. Lower pedal pressure at idling speed. Weights on outer ends of clutch release levers increase plate pressure by centrifugal force as the speed of the engine increases. Improved ventilation makes clutch run cooler. Diameter increased to 11 inches. Larger frictional area. Vibration dampener eliminates synchronized engine and axle noises.

New High-Efficiency Cooling System

Larger water pump impellers circulate more water per minute. Six-blade 15-inch fan draws more air through radiator. Radiator 2¾ inches wider, 15% more radiating area. Water jackets extend full length of cylinder walls and along upper part of crankcase, keeping both engine and oil at efficient operating temperatures.

New Crankcase Ventilation System

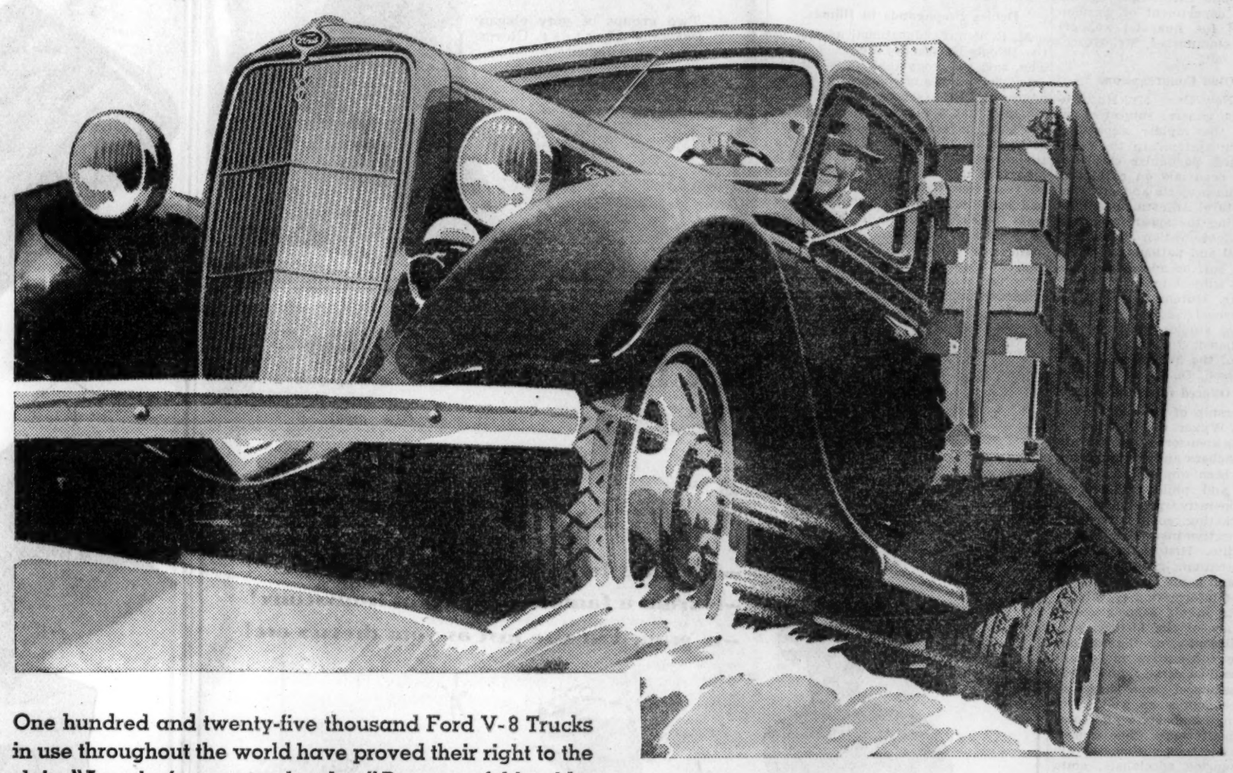
Directed-flow crankcase ventilation reduces corrosion and oil dilution by removing acid fumes, water vapor, unburned gasoline and other impurities.

V-8 Performance with 4-Cylinder Economy

The Ford V-8 truck engine develops more than 80 horsepower. Uses no more fuel than a "four." Dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. Light-weight, cast alloy pistons. Exhaust valve seat inserts. Heavy-duty copper-lead connecting-rod bearings. Special truck-type cylinder heads.

Low-cost Engine Exchange Plan. Full-floating Rear Axle with Straddle-mounted Driving Pinion . . . Full Torque-tube Drive Permits Free-shackling of Semi-elliptic Rear Springs . . . Deep, Rugged Frame with no "Kick-up" . . . Oilless Front Spring Shackles . . . Baked Enamel Finish . . . Deep-skirted Fenders Match Colors of Hood and Cab.

THE NEW 1935 FORD V-8 TRUCK

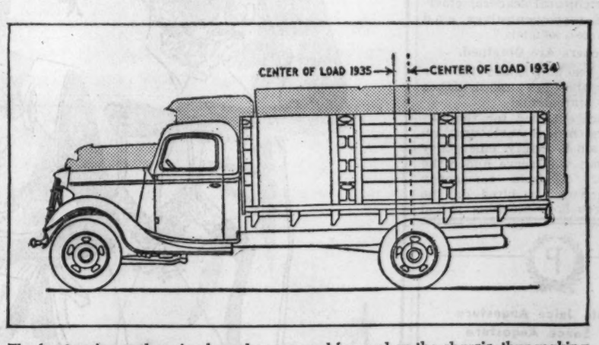


One hundred and twenty-five thousand Ford V-8 Trucks in use throughout the world have proved their right to the claim "America's great truck value." Because of this widespread acceptance, the entire production of Ford Truck engines is of the V-8 type.

To the proved design of the Ford V-8 Truck have been added the advantages of NEW load distribution which improves braking efficiency and results in more uniform tire and brake wear . . . NEW brakes that make stopping quicker and smoother with heavy loads . . . a NEW, larger clutch which operates on an entirely new principle . . . NEW Clear-Vision Ventilation, adjustable seat, wider cab and many other features that improve driver comfort . . . SAFETY GLASS IS STANDARD THROUGHOUT AT NO EXTRA COST . . . NEW cooling efficiency results from larger radiator and water pump impellers . . . NEW crankcase ventilation reduces corrosion and oil dilution . . . NEW skirted fenders and NEW cab design materially improve appearance.

But from your point of view, the most important question is: "What will this new truck do for me?" Your Ford dealer is ready to answer that question right NOW. He is so proud of this new truck . . . he is so confident of V-8 performance and V-8 economy that he will gladly arrange an "on-the-job" test for you if you are in the market for a new truck. Ask your Ford dealer to let you try a 1935 Ford V-8 Truck with your own loads . . . over your own routes . . . with your own driver at the wheel.

Then ask the price! Such performance and economy at a price so low will convince you once and for all that this 1935 Ford V-8 Truck is now more than ever AMERICA'S GREAT TRUCK VALUE!



The front spring and engine have been moved forward on the chassis, thus making it possible to move the body further forward. This arrangement reduces the amount of body overhang, permits more room in the cab, and moves the load-center forward. The distance from back of cab to center of rear axle is increased 6½ inches. This new load distribution results in more efficient braking and more uniform tire and brake wear.

MAYOR FORSAKES HOPE OF ADDING TO POLICE FORCE

Economies Block Step; Public's Aid Asked.

Chicago's need of a substantially enlarged police force is pressing, but under the city's economy program additions to the department are impossible, Mayor Kelly asserted yesterday in an appeal to the public to help stop the sale of liquor to minors in Chicago taverns.

"We certainly need 2,500 more policemen for 1935 and could use 5,000 more," said the mayor. "Unfortunately, however, we must cut our cloth to fit our purse. That is one of the reasons we are asking the public to help us by reporting to Police Commissioner Allman or to myself any tavern selling liquor to children."

Prepare Budget for Hearing.

The 1935 budget meanwhile is being prepared by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the council finance committee, and his staf for a public hearing Jan. 2. Adoption by the aldermen is expected Jan. 4.

There are 6,327 on the police department pay roll at present, counting clerks and other workers, in contrast to 6,712 in 1929. The patrolmen now number less than 5,200 and in 1929 there were 5,425.

According to the survey published in 1932 by Bruce Smith of the institute of public administration of New York, Chicago needs 14,000 policemen. New York, with 18,000 policemen, uses the "night stick" method, which brings half a dozen policemen to the scene to the aid of a comrade after he has tapped on the curbing with his club. In contrast, the Chicago policemen, scattered at wider distances, blow a shrill whistle, and they are lucky if one comrade answers the call.

Little Change in Budget.

The 1935 budget, as it is now being written, differs little from the 1934 budget. The fifty-two pay deduction for police and firemen and the 78 day deduction for other employés will continue in effect.

For corporate or operating purposes the city is planning to spend $45,100,000 during 1935, an increase of $350,000 over this year. The increase is due to the cost of holding the city primaries and elections for mayor and aldermen.

To balance these appropriations the budget will set forth revenue of $27,836,000 in taxes and $17,285,000 in miscellaneous revenue, or a total of $45,121,000.

BAIATA NAMED IN BARBER'S SUIT TO HALT PRICE WAR

Suit for an injunction charging violation of the barbers' code and asking that 12 cutrate loop barbers be restrained from continuing in a price war was filed yesterday in Superior court by the Master Barbers' Association of Chicago, numbering approximately 3,000 members. The bill asks that the cutrate shops be enjoined from reducing their prices below the minimum code rates of 25 cents for a shave and 50 cents for a haircut.

Named as a defendant in the suit with the others is Joseph Baiata, ex-convict, under indictment on charges of embezzlement in an alleged plot to loot the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard and the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company of Springfield, Ill. Baiata is charged with having begun the price war three years ago when he purchased three loop barber shops under the name of Chesterfield Barber Shops, Inc.

The suit alleges that Baiata fraudulently induced between 300 and 400 journeyman barbers to invest anywhere from $100 to $500 in his shops on the promise of substantial dividends. Baiata's tactics in cutting prices, the bill charges, demoralized the industry.

LINDY WITNESS

MISS BETTY GOW.

COUNTY SPENDING CUT 9 MILLIONS IN THREE YEARS

Benefits of Economy Drive Shown.

In the last three years, expenditures from the corporate fund of the county government have been reduced by $9,507,923 in comparison with the high level of expenditures of 1931, according to figures compiled yesterday by Lee J. Howard, county auditor, and M. J. O'Connor, deputy controler.

The county's corporate expenditures in 1931 were $21,885,628. A continuance of expenditures at that rate would have brought the total for the four year period 1931-1924, inclusive, to $87,542,512, the figures show. Actual expenditures, including unpaid bills, are listed for that period at $78,034,589.

Economies in the operation of the county functions were responsible for the decrease, Mr. O'Connor said. These economies began in 1932 with a 15 per cent pay cut for employés.

Every other year the county is allowed a 4 per cent increase in the tax rate for election expenses of nearly $1,500,000. In 1931 the county did not have this expense. In 1932, when this election cost was included in the budget, the expenditures were cut to $19,627,661, and in 1933, the next non-election year, the corporate expenditures fell to $17,521,300.

In the same four year period the county paid out $12,939,346 in bond principal and interest, refunded approximately $2,000,000 of bond maturities, and now is in default on $6,514,000 of bonds. In the last year it has reduced the amount of tax warants outstanding by $523,131, from $5,030,610 to $4,507,479.

The county's bonded debt as of Dec. 1 this year was $42,152,360. Four years ago it was $33,790,000, according to the figures, but in the meantime, Mr. Howard said, the county has sold some $14,000,000 worth of poor relief and nurses dormitory bonds.

BETTY GOW ON WAY TO TESTIFY AT LINDY TRIAL

Mrs. Morrow Also to Be Important Witness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—With her name omitted from the passenger list and her departure surrounded with the greatest secrecy, Betty Gow, former nursemaid of the first born son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, left Southampton Tuesday on the Aquitania for New York.

Smuggled on Board.

It was revealed this morning that the precautions were taken at Miss Gow's own request. She was smuggled aboard the liner, rushed into a cabin and locked up while a stewardess mounted guard to hold off any unwanted interviewers.

It is understood that upon the arrival of the Aquitania in American waters Miss Gow will be transfered to a police launch to be taken ashore.

In Glasgow, Scotland, it was insisted that Miss Gow had not yet departed, but would leave Saturday, probably on the Duchess of York.

Mrs. Morrow to Testify.

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow is expected to be one of New Jersey's most important witnesses in the trial, it was learned today.

The maternal grandmother of the kidnaped baby, widow of the late United States ambassador to Mexico, will be called to prove that the body of the child found near the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell was really the Lindberghs' first son.

From Mrs. Morrow's testimony the state hopes to prove beyond the shadow of a doubt the corpus delicti—an all-important point in the murder trial.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Joseph Breen, 45 years old, when arrested as a robbery suspect, gave the police his address as 6108 Dorchester avenue and it was so printed in THE TRIBUNE. Mrs. Jennie Breen, who lives at that address, says Joseph Breen has never lived there.

FORMER CO-ED TO GET SANITY HEARING TODAY

Mrs. Jane Emery Newton, 26 years old, former University of Michigan co-ed, now the wife of a Negro communist here, will be given a sanity hearing in the Psychopathic court today. Dr. Francis Gerty, head of the psychopathic hospital, last night had not received a complete report from the psychiatrists who have examined her. Their findings will be made known in court today.

Mrs. Newton's father, Col. John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, who is now in the real estate business in Grand Rapids, Mich., declared yesterday that he would stand by his daughter.

"Although we have been estranged, I always have been and always will be ready to help her," he said. He indicated, however, that he would not be present at today's hearing.

Mrs. Newton's husband, Herbert, will be arraigned before Judge Thomas Green in the Renters' court this morning on a disorderly charge arising from his attempt to reënter an apartment from which he had been evicted.

SIX HIJACKERS AND TRUCK OF BUTTER SEIZED

Six alleged hijackers sat in the detective bureau last night and 21,000 pounds of butter they are accused of seizing Monday night near Snyder, Ind., were recovered. Snyder is 35 miles east of Indianapolis.

The butter, worth $6,000, was en route to Cincinnati from Chicago in a truck of the Chicago-Cincinnati Trucking company, 2240 Kies place. After capturing it six meen proceeded back toward Chicago, but the truck broke down near Chicago Heights. They telephoned to the Chicago Heights Trucking company, 1536 Union avenue, in the suburb, which carted the 300 tubs to its warehouse.

The trucking concern officials became suspicious and called police yesterday.

Joseph Barone, 45 years old, and his son, Dominick, 22, of 146th street and Spaulding avenue, Midlothian, came in to pay the trucking charges and were arrested. So was Thomas Biliotl, 31 years old, 2113 Market street, Blue Island, driver of the truck which was taking the butter from the warehouse.

At Barone's home police found Walter Follmen, 33 years old, 4711 Kenwood avenue; Oragio Epstein, 42, of 3536 East 95th street, South Chicago, and Antone Portell, 32, of 1614 Peoria street. Then police recovered the butter in a boiler room on the south side to which most of it had been taken, and in the wafehouse where 72 tubs remained.

Five men riding in a small sedan last night hijacked a truck containing $5,000 worth of butter and kidnaped the driver and helper on the western outskirts of Downers Grove. Two of the bandits drove away in the truck while the other three forced Thomas Covelli, driver, and Ralph Bonfiglio, his helper, into their machine. Several hours later the two were released on Ogden avenue, a mile and a half east of Downers Grove. The truck belonged to Harry Burkhardt, 2515 West Roosevelt road, and was en route to Chicago from Iowa.

COZZI IDENTIFIED BY TWO AT JAIL POISONING TRIAL

Lawrence Cozzi, 25 years old, was identified by two prosecution witnesses yesterday as the man who delivered a package containing poisoned hamburger sandwiches to the county jail for a prisoner. The sandwiches caused the death of Rocco Pisano and the severe illness of several other prisoners. Cozzi is on trial in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen before a jury qualified to inflict the death penalty.

The prosecution moved swiftly in the presentation of its evidence after the jury was sworn in yesterday. The chief witnesses were Charles Engelmeir, a guard in the receiving cage at the jail, and Miss Georgiana Marks, 19 years old, who said she was a friend of a prisoner working in the bundle cage at the time the poisoned sandwiches were delivered. Both identified Cozzi as the man who handed in the package addressed to Harold Clifford, and requested that it be hurried to him.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide." — Chicago Tribune.

FOR A LAKE FRONT AIRPORT.

The age of air transport is with us. Another great advance in the mobility of mankind is well under way and its progress is more rapid than that of any preceding. To exploit this development calls for quick and clear thinking and imaginative grasp of possibilities—in a word, foresight of the best. Communities that fail to see and seize opportunity now will long, perhaps forever, lag behind the more alert communities in one of the most vital factors of a city's prosperity, its transport facilities.

An essential among these facilities is the terminal. In the age of air transport the community that promptly establishes adequate airports will take the lead in the new age opening so swiftly before us. Chicago has an incomparable situation from the standpoint of transportation and is the greatest railroad center in the world. It should be and can be, if it acts promptly and wisely, the greatest center of air transportation. To this end it must have adequate air terminals, adequate in location, size, and equipment. This is the most important question today in the program of Chicago's future development. It should be addressed at once. But it is not merely a question for Chicago. The development of Chicago as a center of air transport is of national importance. Inadequate facilities in Chicago will retard and obstruct the development of air transport throughout the country, since Chicago is the natural center of the main air thoroughfares east and west, north and south. There should therefore be not only vigorous initiative and wise planning in Chicago but effective and liberal aid and coöperation from Washington.

With this conviction THE TRIBUNE adds today a new plank in its program for Chicago and it might well be added to our platforms for the nation and for the midwest, for it concerns them both. The plank is: A Lake Front Airport.

Steps already have been taken for the realization of this project. Application was made by the city authorities to the federal government for a grant of $2,580,000 and a loan of $6,020,000 from the Public Works administration to make a 200 acre landing in the lake at a point 1,600 feet east of Northerly island in line with 16th street. The new island would be made by dumping sand inside pilings in the manner in which our lake shore parks are being extended. The field would be triangular in shape, the base parallel with the shore, and it would be connected with the mainland by bridges.

With this field Chicago, in the opinion of leading experts in aviation development, would possess the finest airport in the world. Its location would be the most convenient of any of the airports now existing or likely to be established, and convenience of location is a prime merit in any terminal. It would be only ten minutes by motor from the business district, the postoffice and the railroad terminals. The present airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue is 55 minutes from the loop, and the island field would thus reduce transfer of passengers and mail by 45 minutes. As speed increases and schedules are shortened, this saving will increase in value. Even now the time taken in making the round trip from the present airport to the postoffice is as long as it takes to fly from Chicago to Detroit, Cleveland, or St. Louis.

The present field would not be surrendered, but maintained for repair shops, sport events, training and military use. The island airport would be used as a passenger and mail terminal only.

The project is now in controversy. Hearings have been held and objections developed. THE TRIBUNE has taken advice upon these objections and considered them. In its opinion they are all answerable. There is the objection that the island port would be too close to the high buildings along the lake front. Department of commerce and other experts deny this. There is a distance of nearly two miles between the end of the runways and the first buildings on shore. This would give ample room for existing types of transport liners to gain 700 to 1,000 feet of height before turning down the lake shore. Another objection is that there would be low flying over the city. Experts point out that all approaches would be made from the lake. Planes would be turned into the runways at less than a mile from the field. Another objection is that frequency of fog and bad weather would diminish the use of the terminal. The weather bureau experts find that conditions at the airport at 63d street and at the lake site are virtually the same.

In short, experienced flyers dispose of the practical objections and laymen may well rely upon the judgment of men whose own safety and private advantage are directly concerned in the conditions at every terminal.

But there are also alleged objections from the general public point of view. One is that the beauty of the lake front will be impaired. There is no disputing matters of individual taste, but in THE TRIBUNE'S opinion the island airport instead of impairing the beauty of the lake front may and will be made to enhance it. The plans already tentatively drawn provide for the design of necessary structures in harmony with the architecture of the nearest lake front buildings, the Planetarium, the Shedd memorial, and the Field museum. Turf and landscaping will give an attractive setting and the beauty of arriving and departing planes will be a constant delight to the observer whose mind is not closed to this new beauty.

An objection that the port would result in a noise nuisance has been supported by an organized propaganda, but stands on very shaky legs. A humanitarian aspect is given it by the fact that there are hospitals along the shore and the landing and taking off of liners will, it is alleged, disturb the quiet of patients. That these hospitals were located on one of the great railway entrances of the city, where trains of passengers and freight pass day and night, throws a peculiar light on this protest. The nearest to the island will be about a mile distant and the others are considerably farther away. No increase of city noises is to be welcomed in any part of the city, but the objection must be weighed against other considerations even on the basis of present conditions. But these conditions are changing almost day by day. The noise of the airplane already has been reduced and aviation engineering insures progressive reduction. In determining the location of a terminal future development must be taken into account. The noise argument is trivial.

The airport project will be self-liquidating through the proposed charges, in the judgment of men who have examined the financial factors. It will provide, according to estimate, employment for about 45,000 workers for a period of 21 months—28,177 directly and nearly 17,000 indirectly.

In short, the arguments and facts favorable to the island airport, it seems to THE TRIBUNE, heavily outweigh the objections which have been raised, and it is of great importance, not only to Chicago but to the expeditious development of a national arterial system of air transport, that the project should not be defeated by ulterior politics and personal prejudices. The best technical judgment approves it and the most weighty considerations of aviation progress support it.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR DEATH TRAPS.

The authorities of the state responsible for the planning and construction of our highway system must share responsibility for the appalling casualty record as long as they fail to build elevated highways where trafic is heavy; that is, through the cities, especially Chicago. Political tactics have perverted and defeated sound planning and expenditure ruthlessly in the past, and, while present practice has improved, it leaves much to be desired. Death traps are tolerated and the casualty records have not only remained high but have recently risen. If the depression is conquered, as it can be if the native energies and intelligence of our people are allowed to operate with reasonable freedom, motoring will increase and with it the need for better safeguards.

MARRIAGE AS HOLLYWOOD SEES IT.

A movie star after thirteen days of the married state has filed a bill for divorce, including a petition for the allowance of $1,200 a month alimony and $5,500 solicitor's fees. The bill declares that the petitioner ceased to live with the respondent after eight days, and the husband's offending is alleged to have been sullen and morose conduct and permitting his family to interfere in his marital affairs.

For these hardships endured for a whole week the fair petitioner asks the court to award her the tidy income specified in the bill. What the court's conscience is moved to decree remains to be seen, but in the opinion of a good many old fashioned laymen the petitioner will hardly be considered as having been married at all. Hollywood's conception of the formality of marriage seems to be peculiar to itself. It is not a conception which conduces to the ends of matrimony as understood elsewhere.

A JOHNSONIAN ANTHOLOGY.

[The Minneapolis Tribune.]

An extremely interesting anthology could be compiled from the published utterances of Gen. Johnson on the NRA.

Because such a monumental work might logically conclude with the general's acid comment of Monday, we are moved to submit the following crude outline for what it may be worth to the aspiring anthologist:

Gen. Johnson on Aug. 4, 1933: "Our plan is working. We are getting results."

On Aug. 5, 1933: "Don't trifle with the Blue Eagle. In the confusion of the early days a man may get away with it. But the day of reckoning against an aroused public opinion is sure."

On Aug. 26, 1933: "The millwheel in the eagle's claw may grind slowly, but it will grind exceedingly fine."

On Nov. 22, 1933: "The self-serving attacks on the NRA have failed. Confidence in it is growing as the industries get the full benefit of the codes."

On July 14, 1934: "The record of the NRA today is one for Americans to take pride in. Once the confusion stirred by the yapping and hullabaloo of die-hard critics is pushed aside we have the cold hard facts to point to."

On Oct. 15, 1934: "If I had the job to do over again I'd resign the first day."

On Dec. 10, 1934: "The NRA is as dead as the dodo, which is not only dead but extinct."

As to what the anthology should be titled we have no very definite opinions. But if Gen. Johnson were naming it the suspicion must exist that he would look with some favor on the simple legend: "From Blue Eagle to Dodo Bird, or a Recovery Rhapsody in Blue."

TOO SUDDEN.

It was a social event. The young man had just been introduced to the young lady and after a brief and awkward silence he ventured:

"You are from the west, I understand."

"Yes, from Indiana," she replied. "Hoosier girl."

The young man started and flushed deeply. "Why—er—really," he stammered, "I—I don't know—that is, I haven't quite decided yet."—Front Rank.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE AVIATION EXPERTS say that within two years we'll see regular passenger service by flying boats over the Atlantic, flights with sealed cabins into the stratosphere at a height of 40,000 feet above the earth, and the landing in safety of fast, heavy transport airplanes in the densest kind of fog. And they'll do these wonders and many more. And so, while the airships are making all this wonderful progress, may we not reasonably hope that a drivers' license law will be passed in Illinois? Within five or ten years, let us say. We move slowly and with great dignity out here in Illinois.

A COUNTRY CORRESPONDENT reports that burglars in his town stole a stove and a ton of coal. Country correspondents aren't what they used to be. They've lost their snap and sparkle. Just a few years ago when burglars stole a stove in a small town it was always red hot and smoking like sixty. Now the correspondents meekly say they got away with a ton of coal in addition to the stove. Bah! Is fine writing, is imagination, is the joy of all poetry gone from the world?

BALLADE OF RAGGED DREAMERS.

Cold, dismal winds of Autumn drearily blow
Through the deserted Square. The arc lights high
Shine in the night like lonely lamps that glow
In a dark, windy vault. Black storm-clouds fly
Fantastically across the gloomy sky
Like weird and ominous portents of despair.
And soon the remnants of our little band
Will be upswept and scattered here and there
Along the lonely highways of the land.

Here in this terrace when the moon hung low
In summer evening we have raised a cry
For the sublimer age, that men may know
Fulfillment of the Dream before they die.
Here in this city, where the lost souls sigh
For poor, dead dreams that once made life seem fair,
We spoke of an ideal, and tried to bear
The vision like a torch in lifted hand,
And now that winter's near we must repair
To the long, lonely highways of the land.

Custodians of abandoned hopes, we go
On our high mission down the roads that lie
In dusk and shadows. From the dreams we sow
Heroic deeds may blossom by and by,
Heroic hearts may rise up to defy
The dark, despotic powers everywhere.
Let us, then, save the hopes that men forswear;
Let us in darkness lift a burning brand
That will give hope to mankind as we fare
Along the lonely highways of the land.

Comrades, be of good courage though you share
Not endless is the night in which we stand.
But golden flames of sunrise yet will flare
Beyond the lonely highways of the land.

AND NOW ROME forbids the tooting of automobile horns. London moved first, and the idea is spreading. I'm waiting to get that guy who turns loose blasts on his auto tooter worthy of the foghorn of the biggest ocean liner when he leaves his girl's house on our street somewhere around one o'clock in the morning just by way of saying good-night once more. There are a lot of indignant citizens in that neck of the woods who would just love to wish that bird good-night with a brick.

WILD DEER AND WOLVES have been reported roaming around among the farms and close to cities in Illinois, New Jersey, and other highly developed regions. It is declared by the wise, who understand all these things, that people are abandoning the farm and the small town and trekking to the cities or to Florida, California, and other places where they think living will be easier. And as civilization recedes the wild beasts of the forest come stealthily in, returning to the land of their savage ancestors. Shucks! let's give it up as a bad job and sell the land back to the Indians.

to mention the matter again, but in a day or two, or three at most, the entire edition of the Linebook of 1934 will have vanished from the marts of trade. And then—tut, tut, tut!—try and get 'em! And I don't want you to be left out. But goodness! there's not a moment to lose. Make it snappy!

AND THERE MUST HAVE BEEN PEOPLE looking into the newspapers yesterday who suddenly grew pale and fainted dead away. They were the Bone Dry Old Guard, who had come across the item that the White House would serve beer on Christmas. Oh, the horror of it! Beer at the White House! Wait now until you see some of the 18th amendment true blue Prohibitionist newspapers print the story about beer at the White House under the headline, "The Demon Rum Again Triumphant." For even a glass of buttermilk, if served across the bar, is branded by the truly good (and very dry) as the Demon Rum.

THE ONLY TROUBLE about being a communist in Russia seems to be the uncertainty of the thing. You never know in the morning whether you are going to be called over to a restaurant at noon to have luncheon with Comrade Stalin or whether you'll be stood up in front of a stone wall and shot by a firing squad. Or both. R. H. L.

MASTOID INFECTION.

THE outer portion of the mastoid bone may be readily felt if the fingers are placed behind the ear and passed along a bony ridge. If we could lift off the cover of this bone we could see that it is filled with what are called mastoid cells, which connect with one another and with the middle ear, forming a part of the system of sinuses in the skull. In appearance these cells somewhat resemble a honeycomb.

Why nature provided the mastoid cells is not clear. Neither is it understood just why they connect with the middle ear. As far as is known they have no function to perform in relation to hearing. Perhaps they exist for the purpose of warning us that good hygiene of the nose and throat is imperative.

These important cells are lined with the same sort of mucous tissue that continues upward along the Eustachian tube from the throat into the middle ear and that extends into all the cells. In many areas this lining presents numerous folds that form veritable pockets and are likely to harbor infection. In other words, drainage of pus from infected mastoid cells is difficult and circuitous. With the swelling that accompanies infection, pockets may be completely walled off and drainage through the middle ear and the Eustachian tube entirely stopped.

When the mastoid cells become infected drainage takes place first into the middle ear. From the middle ear the pus must either flow down the Eustachian tube, which is usually swollen in the presence of infection, or burrow to the outside of the body by rupturing the ear drum. All too often pus pockets form within the mastoid cells themselves and in order to escape must burrow through the mastoid bone. Unfortunately we cannot control the direction of burrowing pus. The force may be directed inward and sooner or later involve an important blood channel or the coverings of the brain. Although the diagnosis may be made on the appearance and general symptoms of the patient, X-ray plates are frequently of value.

Mastoiditis nearly always follows an acute infection such as scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, influenza, an acute sinus infection (the common cold), or tonsilitis.

The symptoms of infection are earache, bulging of the ear drum, a discharge of pus from the external ear due to rupture of the drum, tenderness over the mastoid bone, and pain when the external ear is touched. Occasionally a facial paralysis is noted. While many of these symptoms may accompany infection of the middle ear only, yet in any ear infection mastoid involvement should be considered. In earache or discharge of pus through the ruptured ear drum such symptoms as headache, dizziness, vomiting that has no relation to food, convulsions, and chilliness must be regarded as of outstanding importance.

The temperature in mastoid disease is erratic and must not be relied upon to indicate the severity of the infection. In young children it is often high, but may not go over 102 degrees F. Many mastoid infections appear to be attended with no fever whatsoever. The pulse is frequently much more rapid than would be indicated by the height of the fever.

If the mastoid cells are involved and if the patient is toxic and ill as shown by other obvious symptoms, the mastoid cells should be opened surgically. If this is not done the infection may extend to the brain with resulting meningitis or brain abscess. Continued infection within the mastoid cells may seriously endanger hearing, whereas early removal of pressure and drainage probably will preserve it.

Prevention consists in the proper care of colds, of acute infections, and of sore throat. Should earache develop call a physician, as hearing is in danger and a possible long illness in prospect.

STOMACH DISTRESS.

A. L. H. writes: I had an attack of angina pectoris nearly two years ago, and have had subsequent attacks of less severity. I also have high blood pressure, for which I have been treated. The systolic pressure has come down to 160 and the angina has not given me much trouble lately. At the present time I am made quite uncomfortable by nausea after breakfast [not after other meals]. It lasts two or three hours. I am constipated and have to take laxatives all the time.

REPLY.

There is possibly a passive congestion of the mucous membrane of the stomach. This may be due to many causes. Lack of power on the part of the heart and lack of tone of the stomach wall [failure to empty] are two possibilities. Try omitting breakfast. Instead, drink a cup or two of warm [not hot] clear tea.

Your blood pressure is at a fairly satisfactory level and your absence of anginal pain should encourage you. Your physician should keep track of your condition in order to rule out essential disease of the stomach.

CHILD HAS RHEUMATISM.

Mrs. R. A. writes:

My daughter, 9 years old, has been troubled with rheumatism for the last five years. For four years the joints of the knees were painful; now also the joints of the arms are involved. Tonsils and adenoids were removed at the age of four. The source of infection has not been located. There is no fever or swelling, but the child continues to complain of pain. How can I prevent infection when it has not been located? Can nothing be done?

REPLY.

There are two sources that must be investigated carefully: One, the intestinal tract, and the other, the urinary tract. The urine should be microscopically examined for the presence of pus, and a bacteriological study of the stool should be made. If streptococci are found in abundance in the stools, the intestinal tract should be the point of attack. Many cases of rheumatism in childhood come from intestinal infections.

EFFECT OF LIGHT.

Mrs. L. S. writes: Would the infra-red or the ultraviolet lamp be more beneficial in sinus trouble?

REPLY.

Infra-red yields heat and has no other value. Ultraviolet stimulates circulation and has a tonic effect on the whole body. Use ultraviolet.

FILING OF WILL.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An estate of less than $10,000 [no real estate, bonds or securities], consisting of personal property, jewelry, paintings, and cash, was left by a sister [a widow] to her only brother by will. No other close relatives exist and the brother is named as executor without bond. 1. Is it compulsory to file this will with the Probate court? 2. Must an attorney be engaged to handle the matter? 3. How can the executor, who, as stated, inherits the property, obtain the moneys on deposit in the bank? W. S.

1. The Illinois statute expressly requires the filing, but we know of no cases in which a penalty has been assessed where all of the parties concerned desire to waive probate.

2. No necessity for probate or for the employment of an attorney appears from the facts that you state.

3. Offer to give the bank an affidavit as to heirship and as to the payment of debts. If they are not willing to waive probate, then probate will be necessary.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT LIEN.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had a lien drawn on some property in March, 1934. The owner of this property had his mortgage renewed in August, 1934. 1. Can he do this if there is a judgment lien on his property? 2. The judgment note was made out for only one year. 3. What steps can I take to make the owner take up his note? R. U.

1. Yes, your judgment lien would be subordinate to a prior mortgage and most so-called renewals are in effect merely agreements that the existing mortgage shall be continued.

2. The note itself is not a lien. If you have taken judgment that step supersedes the note.

3. The ordinary step is to place the instrument in the hands of an attorney for collection.

UNPAID DEBT.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother loaned a man some money, but the man died. He had plenty of property. 1. This case was brought to court and it has been in court now for four years. 2. Is there anything we can do about it. 3. We have an attorney, but he said that we have to wait a while. We have been waiting for three years now. We also loaned money to a woman who has lots of property. I have a note. She hasn't paid interest for three years. 4. I wonder if it would be better to have a lien on the property or keep the note. S. V.

1. It is not clear whether you mean the probate proceedings have been pending for four years or that you filed a claim which has been pending for four years.

2. If you have filed a claim and it has been allowed, then presumably you will ultimately be paid if the assets are sufficient. If you wish to exert pressure to cause the estate to be closed, you should get in touch with the clerk of the court.

3. He is in a better position to advise you than we are.

4. The ordinary course is to place such an instrument in the hands of an attorney for collection.

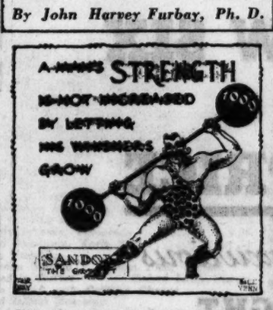
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



The idea that there is any relation between one's strength and the length of one's whiskers and hair probably has been implied from the account of Samson. There are prize fighters and football players today who believe that they are stronger when they let their whiskers grow. Scientists have carefully investigated this subject and have found no evidence whatever that there is any relation between the two. The United States army regulations require the soldiers to shave regularly.

RELIEF IN RICHLAND COUNTY.

Olney, Ill., Dec. 15.—I am a farmer of Richland county, Ill. We had a good crop this year, in some instances, really an overproduction. At least half the 14,000 population of the county are farmers. Of these, there are about 500 on relief of whom one-third or more are farmers. Some have good farms, paid up or nearly so. Most of them have a good many milk cows, 2 to 4 head of horses, 200 to 300 or more chickens, hogs, and a good car. What is wrong with our administration paying a bonus to destroy crops and hogs while supporting wealthy farmers? In our county there should not be one farmer on relief, as we had a season which gave plenty of growth for everybody that would work. Some of those farmers who are taking relief should be sent to the penal farm, and those who recommend them for relief should be replaced with men that have good sense. SIMON HAENGGI.

CHEAPER FARES BUT NO TRAINS.

Vandalia, Ill., Dec. 14.—Now that THE TRIBUNE has dropped from its platform the slogan "Speed up passenger train service," I suggest that it add to this platform "Restore local passenger train service." Since the railroads in the corn belt have reduced the passenger train fare to two cents a mile they have given the traveling public little or no chance to patronize them. Here in Vandalia, Ill., we are located on the original land grant line of the Illinois Central railroad about midway between Sioux City, Ia., and New Orleans. The year 1934 was the first in over eighty that we have been without passenger service on the Illinois Central, the service being discontinued when the fare was 3.6 cents a mile. Now that the rate has been lowered to 2 cents a mile we are still without passenger train service. There are many of us who prefer the railroad to the highway and bus lines, but since the railroads offer no accommodations we are still unable to do business with them.

There is little doubt among us traveling men of what THE TRIBUNE accomplished in the drive for faster passenger train service, as one may easily see that through train service has been speeded up to almost every point of the compass. TRAVELING MAN.

PIG CHECKING.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 13.—There are twenty federal compliance men checking up the farmers' pig in this county, and it seems to be the general impression here that about two qualifications are necessary to secure these high salaried positions. The applicant should be able to count up to about fifty, and probably must furnish proof of being "a lifelong Democrat since 1932." UNEMPLOYED.

A TEXAN SURVEYS THE NEW DEAL.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 14.—Under the Roosevelt New Deal, which is trying to bring back prosperity by preventing production of wealth, Texans have been robbed of their right, guaranteed in their own state constitution, freely to produce, refine, and market their own petroleum.

Under the Roosevelt New Deal, Texans have been robbed of their right freely to plant, gather, and market the crops best adapted to their lands.

Under the Roosevelt New Deal, Texans, hitherto free men and women, have been reduced to the status of wards of the federal government.

Under the Roosevelt New Deal, at least 100,000 men and women have been robbed of the jobs they would have held if Texas land owners had not been lawlessly denied their right freely to produce, refine, and market their oil.

Under the Roosevelt New Deal, over 100,000 Texas farm families normally employed raising cotton have been robbed of that employment. Unable to find other jobs, most of them are now paupers on public charity. Other scores of thousands of families normally dependent on work in processing, handling, and shipping cotton and its by-product have been robbed of their employment. Hundreds of Texas businesses of every kind have been robbed of the reasonable prosperity they would have enjoyed if the people of Texas had been permitted freely to develop and market their great natural resources.

Texas more than any other state has been betrayed and plundered by the Roosevelt New Deal. New Deal charity extended to Texas is insult added to injury.

If Texas does not go Republican in 1936, as a new declaration of independence, the holding of a centennial in that year to celebrate the original declaration of independence from Mexico will be a hollow mockery. FRANK PUTNAM.

THE SALES TAX.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Yesterday I purchased at one store in four different departments two items at 19 cents each, one at 25 and one at 26 cents. The total was 89 cents, but to each check was added a 1 cent tax, making the total tax 4 cents.

It did no good to protest. The clerks had their instructions.

Why are the department stores allowed to exploit the public in this manner under the guise of collecting a 2 per cent tax? Why should a taxpayer not have recourse against the state when he can show he has been compelled to pay taxes far in excess of the amount collectible by law? K. K.

BROOKLYN POLICE TO QUIZ BURNS IN $427,000 HOLDUP

Believe Dillinger Gunman Can Help Find Gang.

A Brooklyn, N. Y., police official was on his way to Chicago last night to question Joseph Burns, escaped Indiana penitentiary lifer, on the $427,000 armored car holdup in Brooklyn last August. Indications were yesterday that Burns, who was captured by police and postoffice inspectors Sunday, will be sent back to Michigan City within a few days to resume serving his life sentence.

Deputy Inspector John J. Ryan of Brooklyn said the indications are that neither Burns nor Tommy Touhy had any connection with the robbery. Twelve men, he said, were involved in the holdup and all were known. However, Lieut. John Osnata was ordered to Chicago to question Burns in the chance he might know where some of those suspects are.

"State Can Have Him."

"Burns is a tough customer and has told us little of value," said Walter Johnson, chief postal inspector. "We are convinced that he knows but little of any crime we are investigating, and as far as we are concerned the state can have him."

Mr. Johnson said also that repeated questioning of Burns had failed to substantiate reports that Burns and Tommy Touhy, brother of Roger Touhy, who is now serving a prison sentence for the kidnaping of John Factor, had united to head the remnants of the Touhy and Dillinger gangs.

"Burns and Touhy knew each other," he said, "but I am now satisfied that they never worked together. He has told us little. This department would like to apprehend Touhy, however, as he is wanted in connection with the Charlotte, N. C., mail robbery of September, 1933."

Barce Goes Back Home.

J. Edward Barce, deputy attorney general of Indiana, who has been in and around Chicago investigating the Michigan City penitentiary break in which Burns escaped, and the escape of John Dillinger from Crown Point, Ind., county jail, returned to Indianapolis yesterday. Accompanying him was his stenographer, Miss Genevieve Roth, who had been with Barce to type statements.

After Burns had been located and information obtained as to his recent activities, Supervising Captain John Stege, who, with postoffice inspectors, obtained the necessary information and arrested Burns, notified Barce. It was thought that Burns could give information aiding Barce in his investigations.

At no time did Barce or his secretary see Burns, Capt. Stege said. Barce was unable to give a description of the gangster.

Tells of "Gangster Rôle."

In Indianapolis, Barce told reporters that for several weeks he, dressed as a gangster, and his stenographer, posing as a "gangster moll" consorted with Burns and turned him over to police and government men. Postoffice inspectors were noncommittal when questioned about Barce.

"I don't know what he did on his investigation," one said, "but we and the police arrested Burns."

It was expected that Indiana police would arrive in Chicago today to wait until Burns is turned over to them for removal to Michigan City.

Another notorious hoodlum yesterday lost the final round in his battle for freedom. He was Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, former Touhy gangster. The Illinois Supreme court ordered his return to Elkhorn, Wis., to face charges of possessing a machine gun. The higher court decision upheld the dismissal by the Cook county Criminal court of the habeas corpus petition filed by McFadden to prevent extradition to Wisconsin.

LAWYERS DENY GETTING PART OF URSCHEL CASH

Oklahoma City, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Department of justice agents followed devious trails in the far reaching investigation of the $200,000 Charles F. Urshel kidnaping, refusing to call the case solver although 16 persons have been convicted and still another has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.

Two defense attorneys in the case, indicted on charges of receiving part of the ransom, were free under bonds.

Laska Attacks Charges.

In Denver Attorney Ben B. Laska pleaded not guilty. He was released on $18,000 bond, United States Judge J. Foster Symes reducing $50,000 to that amount. Laska issued a denial after he was released. "Parts of this story are so insane and asinine that they don't require any explanation," he said.

"The statement by Edward Feldman that he gave me $30,000 and I never even counted it or looked at it is one that doesn't require a denial. I know positively that boy didn't know anything about what was Urshel's money or any money obtained by Bates from any other criminal source. I probably will ask a change of venue from Oklahoma to Denver and I will be counsel in my own defense."

Another Lawyer's Denial.

James C. Mathers, 30, partner of his widely known father, James H. Mathers, was freed from the Oklahoma county jail under a $10,000 bond after pleading not guilty. His bond was reduced from $25,000. His mother was one of the bond signers.

Remaining in custody here were Alvin H. Scott, whose offer to plead "guilty to what I know" was refused, and Mrs. Clara Feldman, who pleaded guilty, and Mrs. Feldman's son, Edward, whose information apparently played a large part in the indictments returned against the two defense lawyers.

One of the many angles of the case which federal agents still are seeking to explore is the hiding place of $44,000 of the ransom money still missing.

Margaret Hurtienne, Scott's housekeeper [some of the money was found in his woodshed] will be held "a day or two yet" for further questioning, federal authorities said.

BUSINESS LOAN "DIRECTOR" HELD IN "FEE" INQUIRY

Suspect Once Linked to Mail Robbery.

George W. Becker, who before he legally changed his name from Hecker was convicted of complicity in the $286,000 Dearborn street station mail robbery of 1921, was in custody of the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office yesterday after investigation of his alleged "advance fee" racket. Held with Becker is his secretary, Mrs. Elsie Peabody, 33 years old,, a brunette who accompanied him here from his California home a few months ago.

The two were seized Monday night in a fashionable two story residence at 150 Oxford road, Kenilworth, which Becker leased for a year at $150 a month rental. The raid was made by Assistant State's Attorney William J. Lynch Jr., Investigator Eugene O'Connor and Sergts. Frank Reynolds and William O'Neill, who found that Becker had installed office furnishings in one of the rooms.

Wife in San Francisco, He Says.

Mrs. Peabody told the arresting officers that she has a 14 year old daughter on the west coast. Becker said his wife and two children live at 1516 Drake avenue in Burlingame, a suburb of San Francisco.

Becker admitted he had been involved in the mail robbery and that he had been imprisoned for desertion during the war. He insisted, however, that his ten years in California were "absolutely clean" and that he is a "consulting business engineer, organizer and financial director."

He was identified by Richard Stahler, 3444 North Marshfield avenue, a mechanical engineer, as the man to whom Stahler said he gave $100 on Nov. 15 as a fee for negotiating a loan for manufacturing and marketing two automobile accessories.

Tells Series of Letters.

Stahler thereafter received, he charged, a series of letters declaring that he had gambled on Becker's ability and preparing him for the failure to get a loan for his venture. Investigators found that these were a form letters Becker sent to all of his alleged victims.

O'Connor said there were also several hundred letters to the advertisements which Becker had inserted in the newspapers, offering to negotiate industrial loans. The authorities charge he collected his $100 fees and did nothing in return for them.

To his "clients" Becker gave copies of a booklet entitled "The Conquest of Fear," of which he is the author. Investigators found the following excerpt:

"Dishonest practice inevitably brings disaster; even though not recognized by wrongdoers, it is nevertheless true that the party indulging in such methods constantly undermines his own nature and permits the birth of fear thoughts."

TAKES EXCEPTION TO MRS. EX; HE'S EX-HUSBAND NOW

"I thought I'd married a broadcasting station," Seymour Ex, 3552 Lyndale street, told Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday at the hearing of his divorce suit.

"We were married in an elopement on May 9," Ex explained. "That made my wife's name Kay S. Ex. She broadcast our quarrels before others and finally she struck me in a bridge game on July 7. The next week she pushed me downstairs. Then she left and went to New York, I think."

"I think I shall make Mrs. Ex the ex-Mrs. Ex," Judge Finnegan said. He instructed Ex's lawyer, Milton J. Zacksman, to draw up a divorce decree.

HUBERT MILLIONS GO TO GROUP COOLIDGE PICKED

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—An accounting of the estate of Conrad Hubert, Florida philanthropist, who died Feb. 14, 1928, shows that fifteen institutions selected by the late President Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, and Julius Rosenwald have received a total of $4,600,000 and eight other institutions will soon receive a total of $1,000,000.

Payments of $500,000 have been made to the Beekman Street hospital, St. Vincent's hospital, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, Inc., and the Provident hospital of Chicago. The American National Red Cross received $375,000 and each of the following has been paid $250,000: Young Men's Christian association of Jersey City, Jewish Mental Health society of New York, National Committee on Mental Hygiene, Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and New York university.

The Children's society of New York has received $200,000 and the Young Men's Hebrew asociation in New York City, $175,000.

The New York Foundling hospital and the International Migration Service, Inc., American branch, each received $50,000.

The accounting contemplates the payment of other amounts, including $250,000 to the University of Chicago.

STEALS $2,300 BONDS BY TRICK ON SECRETARY

After getting a young woman secretary out of the way by a ruse a young man yesterday afternoon stole $2,325 in negotiable Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds from her desk in the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Washington street.

Miss Helen Wyatt, 22 years old, 6709 Blackstone avenue, the secretary and switchboard operator, told Central police she was seated at her desk near the vaults when the young man approached. He first asked for a telephone slug, and after making a call returned to her desk. Despite her protestations that it was not her job, he finally talked Miss Wyatt into going into the vault after a wallet he "left there."

When she returned after a fruitless search both the man and the package of bonds were gone. Miss Wyatt said he was well dressed, but spoke out of the corner of his mouth.

HUNT ROBINSON, STOLL KIDNAPER, AT MINNEAPOLIS

Disguised as Woman, Clews Indicate.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Thomas H. Robinson Jr., object of a nation-wide search as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Stoll, Louisville society matron, escaped a police trap here today and was being diligently sought throughout the twin city and environs tonight.

The success of the fugitive, a former inmate of an insane asylum, in escaping capture during the last two months since he obtained $50,000 for the ransom of Mrs. Stoll, is believed due to his masquerading in women's clothes.

Local authorities said they had definitly established that the young abductor had been in Minneapolis but that he had apparently escaped a trap Chief Michael Johannes had set for him.

The chief said detectives had been working on the case since a man believed to be Robinson attempted unsuccessfully to obtain medical attention at the Deaconess hospital here yesterday afternoon.

Seen in Automobile.

With police presumably close on the trail of the kidnaper, impetus was given the search today by the report that a man believed to be Robinson was seen driving an automobile on the outskirts of the Minneapolis business district.

The license plates on the car he was driving were those which had been on an automobile rented Saturday at Moline, Ill., by a person garbed in woman's garments. The operator of the Moline rental garage said he was certain the person who took the machine was not a woman.

Earlier Saturday the same applicant had appeared at the Davenport, Ia., garage of the chain rental service and had tried unsuccessfully to rent a car. Two employés said the person, whom they were certain was a man despite his feminine garb, resembled police photographs of Robinson.

Evasive at Hospital.

In addition to this information was the report of Sister Anna, superintendent of Deaconess hospital here, that a man resembling the much sought kidnaper came to that institution yesterday with a request to see a physician.

"The man had been in the lobby for a little while before I saw him," Sister Anna said. "He just said he wanted to see a doctor but wouldn't commit himself about anything. He was very evasive.

"When I told him he would have to explain what he wanted to see a doctor about so I could know who to refer him to, he said, 'Well, I'll go somewhere else where I can find a doctor.'"

Sister Anna said the man did not appear in need of a physician's services unless he was a mental case. She said he struck her as being a little "goofy." It was when she later saw a picture of Robinson in a department of justice circular that she noted the "striking resemblance" and summoned police.

As a result of the theory that Robinson is disguised as a woman, Berry Stoll, wealthy husband of the kidnap victim, today furnished department of justice agents with copies of the fugitive's photograph on which women's garments were superimposed by an artist under the direction of Mrs. Stoll.

A. P. LOSES SUIT TO KEEP ITS PUBLISHED NEWS OFF THE RADIO

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A ruling that news becomes public property after publication was made here today by Federal Judge John C. Bowen in dismissing a temporary restraining order obtained by the Associated Press against radio station KVOS of Bellingham, Wash.

The station had been restrained by the temporary order from reading Associated Press and local news items lifted from Bellingham and other member newspapers in programs broadcast by the station.

Judge Bowen's decision held that use of news by radio stations "does not involve the pirating by one news gathering and distribution agency of news reports of another such agency, as in the case of Associated Press versus International News Service. "This court holds that when general news furnished by complainant or local news claimed to be under its control as regards republication, has been printed in a regular issue of complainant's member newspapers, and that issue has been, in the ordinary course, published and distributed to the public, such news reports from that moment belong to the public, to use them for all purposes except for sale by a rival news agency to its news publishing members."

SUCH LANGUAGE! AND ON RADIO IT CAUSES TROUBLE

Without so intending, Harry Bramovitz, 3752 Sheffield avenue, may have called down the wrath of the federal radio commission on a Chicago station.

Bramovitz was a defendant in the Trafic court yesterday while the proceedings were being broadcast. He told how Policeman Alfred Miller of the Lincoln park force had handed him a ticket for driving an automobile with only one headlight. He said Policeman Miller had been drinking, "and you ought to hear what he told me."

"What did he tell you?" the prosecutor asked.

Bramovitz began repeating the policeman's alleged conversation, only to be hastily "shushed" by Judge John Gutknecht and others. A radio technician at the controls in a nearby room switched off the microphone. It was too late, however, for Judge Gutknecht's telephone was besieged with calls of protest from indignant housewives over Bramovitz's—or was it Policeman Miller's?—language.

New Slippers Get High Mark for Smartness

BY RHEA SEEGER.

With nine-tenths of your mind occupied with Christmas gifts and the giving, wouldn't you know some enterprising people would start a new shoe and slipper shop that no one can afford to miss seeing. Even though you insist upon being unselfish and buy only for some one else, the stunning lounging sandals and gorgeous evening slippers displayed will take care of the mood, and after the holidays you can buy for yourself.

It's a find for the shoe collectors who like short vamps and trickily designed slippers with high heels. A regular treasure chest of snappy young looking models for gay young shoppers. Street numbers that are inclined to be a bit extreme, but just the sort of brilliant flippant things every one notices.

Contrasts are featured, gray kid with gray suede with clever side lacings, brown with beige, and dull black with pale gray. Some of the smartest looking street oxfords you ever saw come in black and brown, and these with some knockout cream, or white and brown combinations are for the crowds of "going south" vacationists.

Evening slippers with the highest heels are giddy trifles but they will make the best party frocks. Until you have seen crimson linings in gleaming gold slippers, or pale blue satin linings in shimmering silver and pastel tinted affairs you will not have realized how utterly irresistible a well designed and very feminine dancing slipper can be.

There are all kinds of "dyeable" models in fabric and fancy lethers that can be tinted to match your pet frocks. You can find strap slippers that are just a maze of straps, and darn narrow straps at that, and you will find the kind that cover the toes and heels and are still decorative enough to please the most exacting young dancer.

All in all they are the most refreshing, daringly new footnotes to be found. Maybe this is because they were designed by a very famous young lady and not an old graybeard. Or, perhaps, they are the smart models they are because this same young designer has been so successful designing such slippers for famous stars of the screen and stage.

Fashion photograph. . . Tassels and cotton cord trim the slim daytime dresses for southern wear. This model is of dull white, finely corded silk fashioned with a high neckline held with cords of navy and white to match the belt. The short jacket is of navy trimmed with white bands. From a Chicago collection.

Predicts Philosophy That Gives Student Whole View of World

Prof. Edward S. Ames, head of the philosophy department at the University of Chicago, yesterday predicted the coming of an age of system building in philosophy in which the findings of science will be pieced together into a coherent world view. Dr. Ames spoke at the 178th convocation exercises at the university chapel.

Diplomas were awarded to 245 candidates at the quarterly graduation exercises. One hundred and thirty-seven men and 108 women were in the class.

"It will seem to many that the search for a vision of the whole of life is a presumptious and fantastic enterprise," Dr. Ames said.

"But there is at hand in the educational policy of this great university an impressive answer. Here under the "new plan" not only students who wish to become philosophers but every student is required to make a survey of the physical, the biological, the social sciences, and the humanities. As evidence that the requirement of such an inclusive vision of the forld is not chimerical, we have the fact that a large number of undergraduates have really achieved it."

Chicagoans to Spend Yuletide in Many Lands

Geraghtys in Mexico for Holiday Fetes.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

In snow banked northern cities and sun drenched Mexico, in cities and towns the world around, vacationing Chicagoans will pick up the refrain of Christmas carols this next week as they are sounded from home firesides and belfry tops. Translated in any tongue, Greek or Latin, French or German, the ageless tidings mean the same, "Peace on earth. Good will to men."

Preferring a winter to a summer holiday Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Patrick Geraghty are preparing to celebrate Christmas in Mexico City, where the holiday lengthens itself into a three weeks' festival of religious ceremonial, fun, and feasting.

Always ready for new experience, Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty hope to join one of the "peregrinos" [pilgrim marches] next Monday evening on Christmas eve, for these marches are one of the most significant features of the entire Mexican celebration. Neighbors band together and carry through the streets a board bearing statues of the Virgin and Child, Joseph, and an angel. Knocking at the doors of several patios, the troupe is turned away until at last it is welcomed by a host who, of course, has been expecting his friends all of the time. The holy family is settled in a place especially prepared and song and feasting get under way.

Some Mexicans, like the Spaniards, do their gift giving on Jan. 6 at the Fiesta de Los Reyes Majos. On the eve of this festival children put a basket or their shoes on the balcony and in the morning find them filled with toys and candy.

Charles Walker is another Chicagoan who will be having a Mexican Christmas, for he has gone south on a month's holiday from his duties at the Board of Trade. Both the Geraghtys and Mr. Walker are also interested in seeing some of the sights in and about Mexico City, including, of course, Cuernavaca, the favorite mountain resort of Mexico City's leisured class. The palace of Cortez, built in 1530, still stands there, and not far from it the hunting lodge of the ill-fated emperor, Maximilian.

In Mexico City itself the cathedral, Plaza de Santo Domingo, Plaza de la Constitucion, the heroic frescoes of Diego Rivera in the department of education buildings, and the market places are worthy of a visit. Another side trip takes in the sacred shrine of Guadalupe, where the original miracle cloth is preserved in a frame of pure gold inclosed by a silver railing . . . 14 tons of solid silver. The same trip continues to the ancient city of Teotihuacan and the pyramids, so old that their origin was already lost in time when the Aztecs appeared on the scene. These pyramids are the largest man made mounds on the continent.

Christmas day will find Mr. and Mrs. John Wentworth in Kingston, Jamaica, one of the ports of call in the West Indies holiday cruise of the S. S. Haiti, on which they embarked last Thursday in New York. Many a traveler has called Jamaica the loveliest isle in the western sea. Kingston, port of call also in most of the longer cruises to South America, is a city with intriguing shops, interesting natives, the fairyland Castleton gardens, and near-by Old Spanish Town.

There's an especial thrill even in the thought of exchanging Christmas greetings under the shadow of the Acropolis. This is the experience that awaits Mr. and Mrs. William B. Storey, whose Mediterranean cruise itinerary lands them in Athens, Greece, next Tuesday morning. They will drive through the Arch of Hadrian and visit the Tower of the Winds, the Acropolis museum, and the Theseum.

To pay Mr. and Mrs. Scott J. Dow a visit, St. Nicholas and his reindeer will have to slide down one of the smokestacks of the S. S. Lurline out in mid-Pacific. Residents of Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Dow are getting away from winter by embarking Saturday in Los Angeles on the Lurline for Honolulu. This means that Christmas day will find them just half way between the United States and the Hawaiian port. Follow passengers on the holiday cruise will be Judge and Mrs. Michael L. Feinberg.

DISCUSSION of the limited vocabulary Miss Stein seemed to have—or of which she makes use—brought up the question of the average vocabulary. As a standard of measurement, Shakespeare is said to have employed 24,000 words; and Milton, in his poems alone, 11,377. Victor Hugo used 27,000 in the two volumes of "Notre Dame." . . . There are more than 400,000 words in Webster's New International Dictionary, whereas in Noah Webster's spelling book of 1783, which was a kind of primer and first reader as well, there were fewer than 10,000. Statistics say that the vocabulary of the average American citizen is 10,000 words, and that of a well bred college graduate between 20,000 and 100,000.

TO count your own vocabulary, according to a method once outlined by L. M. Terman in a book, "The Measurement of Intelligence," get a dictionary of 18,000 words. Select the last word in every sixth column until you have a list of 100 words. Then multiply the number of these words you can define by 180.

If you're an average adult you should be able to define 11,700. If you're a superior adult, 13,500.

EVELYN MARIE STUART writes that, having heard that a certain Bohemian forum on the near north side could be counted on for a lively session and a chance to study types, she dropped in on a Saturday evening meeting.

"What was my surprise to note in the audience the largest sprinkling of the alleged rich from the gold coast that I had ever witnessed in a general gathering," she writes. "The topic of the evening was 'How to Live Without Money.'"

LEONID MASSINE, heir to the throne of Diaghileff; Massine, leading dancer and choreographer of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe and dark eyed subject for many portraits; Massine, the dancer who stopped the show in "Le Beau Danube" and in "Union Pacific" with his dancing, has been traveling about the country in an auto trailer. Moreover, there is a kitchenette and an ice box in the trailer and the great Massine himself cooks his favorite dishes. Mme. Massine, who also dances in the ballet which opens at the Auditorium the night after Christmas, came from the east in the trailer with her husband. There are two beds that become couches in the daytime, and there is a radio. And the great artistes are as snug as can be. Massine is at the moment in town, while his wife is with the company, and the truck was in Grant park at the last report. His injured leg is quite well again, but he is resting until the Chicago debut of the company in order not to take any chances of straining the muscles.

Good Morning!

You're not likely to go to town about "The Painted Veil" as a picture; but I DO think you'll be sold on Miss Garbo's performance.

The piece, adapted from the Somerset Maugham novel, is a rather ponderous affair, moving slowly along the tracks of the eternal triangle. It is completely unaffervescent and is clotted with close-ups of the heroine and the two men in her life. Interesting close-ups, however, of three popular people.

The story, located for the most part in Hongkong and the Chinese interior, concerns one Dr. Walter Fane, immersed in his work of helping teeming thousands, and so busy that he fails to give his wife the attention she craves.

But the embassy attaché, Jack Townsend, has lots of leisure, and it is not his way to let a lovely lady go unattended—despite the fact that he himself is married. His devotion finally wakens response in the lonely Mrs. Fane. . . .

Knowledge of his beloved's unfaithfulness and news that cholera has broken out in the interior come to Fane at the same time. He volunteers his services for the plague infested district and issues an ultimatum to his wife. He will give her a divorce IF Townsend will also get one and marry her. Otherwise she shall accompany him on his mission of, quite possibly, death.

Katrin flies to her lover, never doubting but that he is willing and eager to give up all for her. And makes the mistake of her life. He comes back at her with such hesitant phrases as ". . . My career. . . . Your reputation . . ."

Katrin and Walter go away from there. . . . Not wishing to make you too blue this holiday time I'll whisper that the ending causes you to believe that the future holds considerable happiness for Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fane.

Miss Garbo's interpretation of Katrin is artistic and sympathetic. There is, as always, an enchanting fluidity about all her motions, an effortlessness that makes her fit into every scene like a perfect painting in a perfect frame. She talks easily now, too, and she has learned to laugh, naturally and charmingly.

I liked Herbert Marshall much as her earnest, unhappy and eminently fair husband. George Brent is attractive as the other man. Jean Hersholt and Warner Oland are present capably—and too briefly!—in minor rôles.

The photography is very fine. Staging's effective and direction's commendable. There are some eye-dazzling scenes during the presentation of a Chinese festival, given, I believe, in honor of the occasion when the sun is supposed to have wed the moon.

See you soon.

Sunbeam League Will Hold Annual Toy Shower Today

The Sunbeam league will hold a general meeting and luncheon today at the Stevens hotel to which the members will bring toys to be distributed later among the children the league supports.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles G. Ayres had an afternoon reception today at her residence, for her son, Col. H. Fairfax Ayres, and his bride.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS Christmas season promises to establish a record in gayety, not only for the debutantes but for their younger sisters, girls of boarding school age. These sub-debs will have almost as gay and as full a holiday as the young women a year or two older.

Beginning Saturday noon with a winter sports luncheon that the George B. Masseys will give in their Winnetka home for their daughter, Phoebe, who is at home from Dobbs Ferry for the holidays, the sub-debutantes and their beaux will continue in a regular whirl through New Year's eve, when the Junior Assembly supper-dance will be held at the Casino.

Another party this Saturday is a dinner Mr. and Mrs. Donald Defrees will give for their daughter, Jean, a senior at Westover, before the Indian Hill club young people's dance. The Defrees will entertain about thirty guests in their Winnetka home.

Mr. and Mrs. Defrees are going to Miami Beach as usual this winter, leaving about Jan. 10. Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees will go south with her son and daughter-in-law, and Jean will join them there for the spring vacation. She will enter Smith next year.

Several sub-debs will be in the audience at the Princeton Triangle show Saturday night, for the Walter T. Fishers are giving a dinner for their daughter, Ethel—whose older brother is a student at Harvard—and the Lester Armours will be entertaining for their schoolgirl daughter, Betty.

Large Party on December 27.

The next large party for the younger girls is a dance on Dec. 27 at the Indian Hill club at which Miss Fisher, Virginia Creigh, Sally Jane Crowder, Annette Jones, Janet Musselman, Margot Webbe, Helen Shoemaker, Dorothy Wieboldt, Eleanor Wilson, and Nancy Wolcott will be hostesses.

Miss Shoemaker, who will return from Dana Hall tomorrow, and her parents, the Warren W. Shoemakers, will give a dinner at the club beforehand to which they have invited the nine other hostesses and several girls from town who will be spending the night in the country. They are Joan McArthur, Eleanor McClurg, Courtney Ann Reed, Nancy Otis, and Helen Ensley of Memphis, who will be visiting the John Hookers. Warren Shoemaker Jr., will return tomorrow from the Asheville school.

Miss Janet Gregory, the junior Stephen S. Gregorys' daughter, who arrives at home tomorrow from Chatham Hall, also will entertain at dinner before the dance on the 27th.

The annual subdebutante dinner dance will be held the following night, Friday the 28th, at the Saddle and Cycle club, and the next Monday brings the Junior Assembly. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger will give a progressive dinner, starting at the Bulgers', for their daughters, Frances Price and Katherine Bulger, before the Assembly. Miss Price is at home from Mt. Vernon seminary for the holidays and her brother, Edwin Jr., is here from Dartmouth where he is a sophomore. Miss Bulger attends Rosemont college.

Another large dinner before the Assembly is one the Charles Farwell Winstons, the Robert C. Orrs and the Stanley Keiths will give for their daughters, Anne Winston, Adair Orr and Betty Keith. The dinner will be given at the Casino. Miss Winston is at home from Foxcroft for the holidays, and Miss Keith will return from St. Timothy's. Miss Orr is a Latin School student.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cates' daughter Phoebe will arrive on Friday from Miss Madeira's school. There is a

Cabinet Dinner Opens Season in Washington

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave tonight the first state dinner of the season, entertaining in honor of cabinet members and their wives.

Secretary and Mrs. Hull, as ranking members of the company, led the line, Mrs. Hull going in to dinner with the President and Mr. Hull escorting Mrs. Roosevelt.

Others of the cabinet group, all of whom were present, were the secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Morgenthau, the secretary of war and Mrs. Dern, the attorney general and Mrs. Cummings, the postmaster general and Mrs. Farley, the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Swanson, the secretary of the interior and Mrs. Ickes, the secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Wallace, the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Roper, Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

They headed an interesting company of eighty guests, including among others the ambassador to Italy and Mrs. Breckinridge Long; the ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Alexander W. Weddell; William C. Bullitt, ambassador to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics; and the minister to the Netherlands and Mrs. Grenville Emmet.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet, who arrived yesterday, are overnight guests at the White House, together with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Braman of New York, Mrs. Donner Roosevelt and Mrs. Louis McHenry Howe, all of whom were present at the dinner and attended afterward the musical in the East room to which 200 additional guests were invited to hear a program given by Mme. Elisabeth Schumann, soprano, and Ernest Hutcheson, pianist.

The long dinner table in the state dining room, on which was used the historic gold service, candelabra and plateau dating from the administrations of Madison and Monroe, was decorated tonight with pink roses, snapdragons, stevia and maidenhair fern in gold vases.

In Wedding Party

Miss Margot Reid, pictured above, the middle one of the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, is coming home from the Concord academy to spend the Christmas holidays with her family. The gayety of the season will be increased for her by the wedding and its attendant parties of her sister, Mary Elizabeth, to Ralph F. Chatillon, on Jan. 5. Margot is to be maid of honor for her sister and the youngest sister, Joan, is to be a bridesmaid. Margot was impersonating Claudette Colbert at a charity benefit in Lake Forest last summer when this picture was taken.

Pirandello Coming to U. S. to Make Our Movies Intellectual

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Luigi Pirandello, winner of this year's Nobel prize for his unusual plays, plans to go to the United States next month and put "intellectual content" into the movies.

The Italian author came to Prague tonight for the première of his new drama, "Non Si Sa Come" ["One Does Not Know How"], in which the hero seduces the wife of his best friend and, although full of remorse, is slain by the latter.

SLAYING JURY FREES WIDOW OF EX-PASTOR

Votes Verdict of Temporary Insanity.

Lebanon Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Neoma Saunders was acquitted here this afternoon of the murder of her husband, Gaylord Saunders, former Methodist Episcopal minister at Wabash, Ind.

Not guilty because of temporary insanity was the verdict returned by the jury after an hour and thirty-five minutes of deliberation.

The jury in freeing the 35 year old woman said: "We the jury find the defendant committed the crime of murder as charged in the indictment and find that the defendant is not guilty of murder because she was of unsound mind at the time of the commission of the crime."

In signing her release, Judge Paul E. Laymon noted that although she was found not guilty because of unsound mind, she was examined by physicians he appointed previous to the trial and was found to be sane at the present time.

The minister was found shot to death last Feb. 2 in his automobile parked on an Indianapolis street. The state had charged Mrs. Saunders paid $10 for the shooting.

Taking the stand in her own defense, Mrs. Saunders denied the killing. The slayer was named by another defendant, Masil Roe, 20, under indictment as an accessory, as Theodore Mathers, 19. Mathers, jointly indicted with Mrs. Saunders, is to be tried later.

At the time of his death Saunders was a student at an Indianapolis embalming school, having resigned his pastorate at Wabash.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Payoff

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A fifth commercial program will be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting system, which has W-G-N as its western key station, beginning Jan. 2. The new show is titled, "The Life of Mary Sothern," a five a week daytime sketch that is already popular at WLW, Cincinnati, where it will continue to originate. "Mary Sothern" will be sponsored by the company which pays the bills for "Painted Dreams," a feature it will continue on W-G-N. The new program will be carried by all the Mutual stations—W-G-N, WLW, WOR and WXYZ, and by additional stations in Boston, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Other commercials on the Mutual system are "Lum and Abner," "Musical Memories," "The Lone Ranger," and "The Lamplighter," running a total of five hours a week. In addition W-G-N feeds the chain an hour and a quarter of the dance music of Jan Garber, Ted Weems and Earl Burtnett each week.

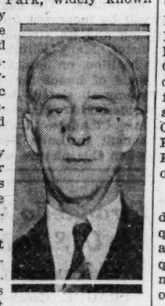
Maxine Gray, petite songster with Kay Kyser at the Blackhawk, will leave Saturday to join Hal Kemp in New York. Maxine will replace Deane Janis who is leaving the orchestra to go into a new musical comedy.

Albert Einstein will make one of his infrequent radio appearances on Thursday, Jan. 3, over NBC. . . . Dorothy Page, radio beauty, flew to Northampton, Pa., yesterday to visit her parents. . . . Same week Ferde Grofe starts playing at the Drake and over W-G-N he begins broadcasting for that Ironmasters commercial show on NBC. . . . It will be a merry Christmas in the household of Henry Klein, CBS continuity chief. The Kleins have just adopted a six weeks old boy from The Cradle.

Charlie Correll and Freeman Gosden [Amos 'n' Andy] are putting out quite a lot for neckties these days. For a long time they have practiced a quaint custom: When any one comments on their ties they take them off on the spot and give them to the admirer. Reports of this practice have been so well spread that no matter what the hue or stripe of a neckpiece someone is bound to comment on it. Don't blame them if they quit wearing ties altogether after today's TRIBUNE is circulated.

The Burlington, Wis., Liars' club will convene in local NBC studios on New Year's eve to tell the whoppers of the year. The champion liar will be named during the broadcast—and will be presented with a diamond studded medal. So says the president of the organization. That may, however, only be his personal contribution to the year's fabrications! Last year's winning tale concerned a peg legged cat that hid behind a post and clouted mice with the wooden leg.

DANA PIERCE DIES IN ATLANTIC CITY; SAFETY ENGINEER



DANA PIERCE.

Dana Pierce, 63 years old, 1215 Wade street, Highland Park, widely known electrical safety engineer in the field of fire and accident prevention, died yesterday at Atlantic City, N. J., according to word ceived here.

After an early career as teacher in eastern schools Mr. Pierce came to Chicago as director of the electrical department of the Underwriters' Laboratories. In 1923 he was named president of the organization. He was also a past president of the National Fire Protection association. In 1917-'18 he served as a member of the war industries board. His club memberships included Engineers, Lake Shore Athletic, Mid-day, and Briergate Golf.

Surviving are his widow and a stepson, Marston D. Young. Funeral services will be held Friday from the residence. Interment will be private.

John E. Wakeley, 42, Dies; Danville High Principal

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR MISS NELLIE C. CARPENTER

Miss Nellie Clark Carpenter, long a figure in Chicago social circles, who died Saturday in her apartment in the Hotel Drake, was buried in Graceland cemetery yesterday following services in the chapel.

MISS NELLIE CARPENTER.

At her own request she was buried in a slate blue ball gown that had belonged to her mother, Mrs. Augusta Alvord Clark Carpenter. Miss Carpenter had worn the gown several years ago in the rôle of a queen at a charity ball in the Coliseum.

Prominent socially as a younger woman, Miss Carpenter recently had lived in partial retirement, but had retained her place on the list for the Assembly ball. She had not missed this outstanding social event since her first attendance in 1871, when it was called "The Cinders." Complaining of illness, she was unable to attend the 1934 ball last Friday. She died suddenly Saturday evening.

She was born in New Bedford, Mass., more than eighty years ago, and came to Chicago as a young woman. She is survived by a half brother, Augustus A. Carpenter, 1130 Lake Shore drive, and a half sister, Mrs. John E. [Amy] Newell, Cleveland, O. She was a member of the Friday and Arts clubs.

ALEXANDER TODD LEAVES $23,000 TO THREE CHILDREN

The will of Alexander N. Todd, west side contractor and Republican politician, leaving an estate estimated at $23,000 to three children, Chester, Ruth, and Evelyn Todd, all of whom live at 5927 Washington boulevard, was admitted to probate yesterday by J. Walter Nielsen, assistant to the probate judge. Todd, a former member of the sanitary district board, served as Republican committeeman of the old 14th ward and later the 28th ward. He died on Dec. 13.

The following other wills were admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

ADOLPH KETZLER, died Oct. 24. Estate, $15,000; to brother, sister, brother-in-law and niece. Ernst Ketzler, brother, and Fred Basedow, co-executors.

TIMOTHY F. SULLIVAN, died Nov. 27. Estate, $11,000; to sister, nephew and two nieces. Marion Meany, sister, executrix.

SOPHIA SOFFE, died Nov. 3. Estate, $13,500; to two daughters. Ann Soffe Fox, daughter, executrix.

ANDREW J. COEY, died June 29. Estate, $10,000; to widow and executrix, Anna J. Coey.

LUKE BRISBOIS, died Nov. 25. Estate, $8,000; to two daughters and grandson. Bessie Kadlec and Margaret Nerth, daughters, co-executrices.

JEAN BRACQ, 81, PEACE SPONSOR, AUTHOR, IS DEAD

Keene, N. H., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Jean Charlemagne Bracq, 81, French author, international peace sponsor and professor emeritus of romance languages at Vassar college, died today at his home in West Keene.

He had participated in several peace conferences and was decorated twice by the French government. He served as a delegate to the international peace congress in Rouen, France, in 1903; the Hague in 1913, and the national peace congress at Nimes in 1904.

From 1885 to 1891 he was secretary of the American McGill association, Philadelphia. He was associate professor at Vassar college in 1891 and 1892 and professor of romance languages there from 1892 to 1918. He retired in 1918 and had since traveled extensively studying development of French-Canadian life.

WIDOW FILES SUIT TO SHARE ESTATE OF BRANSFIELD

Mrs. Annette Bransfield de Ronchi, 732 Bittersweet place, widow of Ignatius M. Bransfield, a contractor, filed suit yesterday in Circuit court asking that a post-nuptial agreement entered into with Bransfield be set aside and she be given her dower interest in the estate. Bransfield died in April, 1932, leaving an estate of $750,000. The widow remarried.

'CAMERA EYE' OF N. Y. POLICE DIES OF HEART ATTACK

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The shutter has clicked for the New York police force's famous "camera eye"—William P. H. Sheridan, the detective who never forgot a face.

Sheridan, who was 73, died yesterday of a heart attack. He has been in retirement for several years.

Adam Bruce Fahnestock, Inventor, Is Dead at 56

Manhasset, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Adam Bruce Fahnestock, 56, inventor of railroad equipment and one of the early developers of the motion picture machine, died today of pneumonia. Among inventions he claimed was a telegraphic autographic machine for transmission of pictures over telegraph wires.

PLAN OF BATTLE TO REMAP STATE BEGINS TO FORM

Unfairness of Congress Districts Pointed Out.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Clamor against the vest pocket borough system and taxation without equal representation at Washington is expected to lead to renewed effort for a congressional reapportionment in the next Illinois general assembly which meets on Jan. 9 in Springfield.

The present congressional districts are 34 years old. The shift and growth of population have thrown them out of plumb so greatly that some groups of citizens have more than six times as much voice in congress as have other groups. Some of the legislative leaders already are poring over tentative remaps, and redistricting is regarded as one of the leading items confronting the state lawmakers.

On the northwest side of Chicago, a population of 889,349 in the Seventh district elects one congressman, while in the adjoining Eighth district, along the river, 138,216 people have one congressman.

Situation in Chicago.

The Seventh is the largest district in Illinois and likewise in the United States, while the Eighth is the smallest in Illinois.

In the 34 years since the last remap, the tides of population have run in such fashion that they have knocked topsy-turvy the doctrine of equality of population as a basis for districts. Cook county has 10 districts, Lake county being included in the Tenth. In the five largest districts a combined population of 3,218,108 elects five congressman. In the five smallest districts, 863,402 people have five congressmen.

Downstate there is similar discrepancy. The five largest districts have a population of 1,532,303; the five smallest have 843,324. But they have equal voice at Washington.

How Seats Are Allotted.

In the last apportionment of seats in the house congress allotted seats to the several states on the basis of the 1930 census, and assigned one place for every 279,712 of population. Each state was given as many representatives in congress as the number 279,712 is contained in the state's total population, plus one if the fractional remainder was greater than one-half. Illinois has 27 seats in the house, and the failure to redistrict since 1901 is the reason two congressmen are elected at large in the state.

The following table shows the present Illinois districts with their population and the total vote each cast on members of congress in 1932:

	COOK COUNTY. Pop. [1930].	Vote [1932].
1	142,916	61,474
2	577,998	223,228
3	540,666	215,375
4	237,139	72,381
5	140,481	43,360
6	632,834	259,826
7	889,349	327,819
8	138,216	41,772
9	209,650	77,380
10	577,261	247,187
	DOWNSTATE. Pop. [1930].	Vote [1932].
11 [Elgin]	363,136	163,057
12 [Rockford]	292,023	122,700
13 [Galena]	178,198	79,575
14 [Rock Island]	199,104	93,360
15 [Quincy]	213,630	97,994
16 [Peoria]	253,713	112,751
17 [Bloomington]	175,353	80,782
18 [Danville]	225,604	103,270
19 [Champaign]	274,137	125,517
20 [Havana]	158,262	76,152
21 [Springfield]	233,252	110,741
22 [Belleville]	344,666	138,121
23 [Robinson]	213,567	100,436
24 [Golconda]	161,158	73,282
25 [Cairo]	258,341	107,866

Four years ago the legislature passed a reapportionment act. In this measure the metropolitan area of Cook, Will, Lake, and Du Page counties, with 57 per cent of the population of Illinois, was given fourteen districts, the rest of the state thirteen districts. This act was declared invalid by the Supreme court because of its inequalities which violated the principle of equal representation.

Inequalities Felt Downstate.

Two years ago the legislature had a battle over reapportionment which developed into several maps which looked like jigsaw puzzles and against which the cry of "gerrymander" was raised. This year some of the leaders express hopes that a remap may be passed.

As it stands, Cook and Lake counties, with 53 per cent of the state's population, have ten districts, and downstate has fifteen. The disfranchisement is felt downstate as well as in Cook county. The two smallest districts downstate [Havana and Golconda] combined have 319,420 population. They have two congressmen. In the East St. Louis district 344,666 people have one congressman. The Elgin-Joliet district with 363,136 people has one congressman.

Since the present districts were made in 1901 the population surge has been such that 61 of Illinois' 101 downstate counties had less population in 1930 than in 1920.

Variations of Population.

Fifty-five counties have less population even than at the turn of the century more than thirty years ago. But the districts remain the same.

Meanwhile Cook and Lake counties have the same old ten districts they had in 1901, although in 30 years from 1900 to 1930, their population increased by 2,212,281. In the same three decades the 15 downstate districts increased only 596,823 in population.

Senator Richey V. Graham's friends declared yesterday that votes are in sight to reelect him as president pro tem of the state senate. On the speakership, John P. Devine of Dixon and Thomas P. Sinnet of Rock Island increased their speed as downstate candidates. Leading the Cook county candidates is James P. Boyle, his closest rival being Benjamin S. Adamowski.

A survey of possible Republican mayoral and aldermanic candidates and policies has been started by a subcommittee of the Republican county organization.

YAWNING WOMAN SEEMS WELL ON WAY TO RECOVER

Sterling, Ill., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—After yawning almost continuously for eight days, Mrs. Harold McKee apparently was on the way to recovery today. Although she had been without medication for more than 28 hours, she suffered only a few mild attacks this morning and none occurred during the afternoon.

Barring an unforeseen relapse, she will be permitted to leave the hospital tomorrow or the next day, the attending physician, Dr. H. L. Pettit announced.

For the first time since her mysterious seizures began on Dec. 9, Mrs. McKee ate solid food today following a refreshing night of natural sleep. The physician attributed her return toward normalcy to the rest cure he had prescribed.

National attention was attracted to the unusual case when the woman began yawning as frequently as 12 times a minute after laboring under a nervous strain while caring for a sick husband and son in her home at Round Grove, Ill.

FARMERS URGE HIGHER PRICE ON DELIVERED MILK

A boost in the price of delivered milk in Chicago from 10 to 11 cents a quart was demanded yesterday by officers of the Pure Milk association, farmers' marketing agency, at a conference with the recently organized Chicago milk dealers' industry committee.

As a result of this proposed boost the farmers want the AAA license price which is paid to them increased from $2 a hundred pounds [4.3 cents a quart] to $2.25 a hundred pounds [4.86 cents a quart]. They also asked that stores set a uniform cash and carry price ranging from 9½ to 11 cents a quart, with a 1 cent bottle deposit.

Paul Potter, secretary of the milk industry committee, agreed with the Pure Milk association leaders that many and possibly all milk distributors are losing money at the present price of 10 cents a quart, but to the farmers' request for higher farm milk prices, based on the increased cost of feed, he replied that in the last year the cost of bottles and supplies used by the dealers has increased from 10 to 30 per cent.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, is stealing out of Russia, where he is known as Stefan Ivanovitch, when he sees a woman standing on a bridge, evidently bent on freezing to death. He has seen her before in the town and admired her. He offers to take her home, but she tells him she has nowhere to go. She is Elizabeth Radin, widow of an executed engineer. Though English, her husband was half Russian. Since his death she had cared for Commissar Petroff's aged mother. The mother died and Elizabeth had run off to escape the commissar. Stephen takes her with him.

INSTALMENT III.

PROTECTED.

A curtain screened the corner in which Elizabeth lay. From the other side of it came the sound of voices and the shuffling of feet. She raised herself on her elbow.

Stephen put his finger to his lips again. Then he pulled the sheepskin coat over her feet and disappeared on the other side of the sacking screen.

Elizabeth sat up and stared about her. The place was warm, and she was warm. Her feet flowed from the warmth of Stephen's hands. It was weeks since she had been warm like this. Mingled with the smell of oil there were other smells. The reek of food, damp sheepskins, coarse unwashed human beings, and rank tobacco all helped to thicken the atmosphere. But it was warm. It was most blessedly warm. She pushed the straw up behind her back and leaned against it. What was to happen next seemed to concern her as little as if she had been in a theater waiting for the curtain to rise upon the next act of some play the plot of which she did not know. She felt a faint curiosity, a faint thrill of anticipation, but no more. It was as if the events of that first act, in which she had herself sustained so tragic a rôle, had brought her to an end of her capacity to feel. She leaned back against the wall, a mere spectator now.

Then the sack was pushed aside and Stephen came ducking under the line. He had a bowl of steaming soup in his hand, and as the smell of it rose up into her nostrils Elizabeth felt a frightful pang of hunger. She could have snatched the basin from him and gulped like an animal, but she steadied her hands, and had parted her lips to say thank you, when he again laid a finger on his own. As she took the first delicious mouthful, he was speaking close to her ears.

"Don't speak. Your Russian won't pass muster. You'll have to be dumb. If anyone speaks to you, look vacant and shake your head."

A faint stab of fear pierced her indifference. Was he going to leave her? She looked at him across the bowl of soup with the question in her eyes.

"Come and look for yourself, then! I don't think much of Red Stefan's taste, I can tell you!"

He shook his head and put his lips to her ear again. His beard tickled her cheek.

"I won't be long. They won't meddle with you. They think you're my wife. Finish the soup, and I'll be back as soon as I can."

He waited till she had drunk it, and then pushed under the sacking again. One of the men in the room beyond said something which she did not understand, and the other laughed. Stephen laughed too, and then she heard the door open and shut again, and knew that he had gone. She found his words ringing in her head: "I'll be back soon." . . . "They won't meddle with you." . . . "They think you're my wife." . . . She pressed the straw into a pillow and fell asleep with her cheek on her hand.

She did not know how long she slept, but presently she was awake again. Looking down on her from over the top of the screen was a man with a wide pale face and ears that stuck out on either side of his head like bat's wings. She could see the lamplight through them, and the effect was fantastic in the extreme—the blunt, almost featureless face, crowned with a shock of fair hair, and those jutting blood-red ears. He called over his shoulder in a voice thickened with drink.

"Come and look at her for yourself then! I don't think much of Red Stefan's taste, I can tell you!"

Some one guffawed.

"Who's taking liberties? Who wants to take liberties either? Why, she's more like a bit of scraped bone than girl!"

Elizabeth heard the words and saw the face. She was still so dazed with sleep that she felt neither fear nor offense. She looked up with half opened eyes, and then she saw and heard something else. The door of the room was flung open. Some one came striding in, and over the head of the man who was staring down at her Stephen's face appeared. She had not realized how tall he was till then. He looked over the other man's head and, taking him by the bat-like ears, lifted him right off his feet. Elizabeth saw the white convulsed face jerk up, and down again. She heard his yell of anguish, the clatter of his feet upon the floor, and Stephen's great schoolboy laugh.

"Dance, little man, dance!" he said, and once again up came the face—up, and down again. Yell, scuffle, and laugh were repeated. There was the sound of a heavy slithering fall, and, still laughing, Stephen pushed under the sacking. With his fingers to his lips he said:

"He didn't frighten you?" And, as she shook her head, "He's like a bat—nasty, but harmless. He won't look at you again in a hurry. It's going to take him all his time being sorry for himself and telling the others how badly he's hurt. Now look what I've brought you."

He dropped a bundle on the floor, unrolled it, and showed her with pride a sheepskin coat and cap, and a peasant woman's skirt, blouse, kerchief and boots. The things were decent, but not new.

"Better put them on," he said, dropping his voice until it only just reached her. "You wan't want the coat in here, but you'd better get into the other things. Then give me what you've got on and I'll get rid of it."

She nodded, and he ducked under the sack and went out into the room. As she put on the things he had brought her, she could hear his chaffing the man whose ears he had wrung. He began to tell a story against him which made the other men laugh. There seemed to be two or three of them, and at least two women, from the voices.

Elizabeth rolled her old clothes into a tight bundle and waited for Stephen to come back. When he came he smiled approvingly, took her bundle, went off with it, and presently returned, breathing a little quickly as if he had been running.

"They've gone," he said at her ear. "I chucked them into the middle of the river beyond the ice. The current will take them away." He looked at her critically. "You haven't got the handkerchief tied right. It doesn't matter tonight. I'll show you how to do it in the morning. You'll remember not to speak—won't you? It's a whole heap safer for you—in fact it's the only way, because your Russian's really dreadful." He laughed a little. "It's dull for you, I'm afraid, not being able to speak. They've been congratulating me on getting a wife who can't give me a tongue-lashing."

Elizabeth smiled faintly. It warmed her to be near him. His good spirits, his strength, his easy friendly manner broke in upon the cold trance of loneliness and misery in which she had lived, moved and had her being for the last year. For his part, he was filled with a sense of triumph which he could hardly contain. To look at her sent tremendous currents of happiness swirling through him. He had got her, and he felt completely competent to keep her safe. She had taken off her cap with the other things which she had worn, and he could see her hair—dark hair, as fine as silk, very thick, and cut irregularly as if she had tried to do it herself. She had gray eyes with a ring of black about the iris, which gave them a starry look, and her lashes were very fine and soft, and as black as ink. The arch of the brows made him think of wings. She was much too pale—much, much too pale. That damned Commissar must have starved her. Her cheeks had no business to fall in like that. But what a lovely line from cheek to chin. Her lips should be red, not faint and pale. They looked as if they held secrets which they would never tell. They made you wonder what the secrets were—sweet, wild, mournful, tender. Well, some day she'd tell them—to him. He meant to see about that. He said abruptly,

"Will you have some more cabbage soup?"

Tibbett Signs Film Contract to Run 5 Years

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Current interest in musicals is bringing Lawrence Tibbett, opera star and hero of the well remembered "Rogue Song," back into movies as a permanent field. Twentieth Century productions announce that Darryl Zanuck has signed Tibbett to exclusive motion picture rights for five years and that the salary involved is "the largest ever paid an actor."

This may be a slight exaggeration for Constance Bennett received $300,000 per film for a limited time, about four years ago, and John Barrymore drew $375,000 for one film about the same time, while Will Rogers is said to have exceeded even that. But Tibbetts' salary is expected to exceed the $275,000 recently paid Greta Garbo for one M.-G.-M. film. Tibbett returns here shortly after New Year's and will appear in "Sing, Governor, Sing!" He's been out of films ever since "The Cuban" over two years ago.

The first time Edward G. Robinson, hero of "Little Caesar" and countless other gangster films ever really shot a machine gun was at Columbia studio recently in "Passport To Fame" in which he plays Jones, a harmless clerk who tries to capture a notorious outlaw.

Robinson was so rattled at shooting the gun he forgot to relax the pressure of his finger on the trigger and instead of shooting a short burst, shot the entire drum while he wrestled to hold the spitting, bucking weapon and keep it pointed at his screen enemy.

John Lodge has been playing Shirley Temple's father and Evelyn Venable's husband in "The Little Colonel" at Fox's. Lily, the 4 year old daughter of Lodge and Francesca Braggiotti, said wistfully to her daddy, "Now don't fall in love with Shirley, daddy. I'd be jealous."

Cecile Murray, 4½ years old, is being imported from New York to join "Our Gang," Hal Roach's comedy outfit. Several of the "gang" have grown so tall or otherwise so changed in characteristics that Roach studio is supplanting them with a number of new child faces.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Miss Pat Patterson is a fairly recent Hollywood recruit with a couple of good pictures to her credit. I was told that she is a man's type, so I thought I'd go find out what a man's type of woman is, although I presume man's taste is as varied as is that of the fair sex. Otherwise, so many different types of women wouldn't make the marriage grade. Anyway, it's good publicity if it can be said about you that you're the type men like. Not so?

Well, Miss Pat is exceedingly blonde with green eyes. [Maybe it's the green eyes, which she shadows with dark gray that gets 'em]. They're fascinating eyes, no doubt. She has an engaging way of making you feel you're telling her something, and if you think that doesn't go big with the boys, you're wrong. And a pair of ankles, my pals, that two thread, extra sheer hose are made for. "Enuff said" sez you "to explain the gal's appeal to men."

These more recent movieland recruits interest me no end. It's often ways they have with them rather than great beauty. Charms, graces, manner, personality. I suppose you call the sum total. Anyway, each comes along with something a bit different from the last one, which makes her interesting. And on which, I claim, the world is judging women today rather than on the old beauty scoring of feature, silhouette, and coloring perfection. Naturally, these girls have looks. They wouldn't get to first base if they hadn't. But it's something else that makes them "good box office," a point for other women to ponder well, since the rule is just as extant in nonprofessional circles. You note first how beautifully the English girl, Miss Patterson, carries herself. She tells you that in stage training in England they make you walk and walk on and off stage until you can do it without a trace of self-consciousness. The way a woman walks, she thinks, is terrifically important to a good impression.

She says that hands are trained for the charming gestures common to professionals. You're taught to use your hands in curves, so to speak, and then warned to forget you have hands. For that beautiful English complexion she gives credit to a parentally instilled habit of scrubbing with soap and water and rubbing and drying with a coarse towel. Girls trying to look like Joan Crawford or Garbo or any other screen favorite, Miss Pat thinks foolish in view of the fact that Joan and Greta and the rest of them are trying to look like nobody but themselves.

question now whether she will make her debut in Chicago or New York for the family is moving east after Jan. 1. Mr. Cates will go east permanently in a couple of weeks, but Mrs. Cates will keep the house open here for the remainder of the school year because of the younger childrens' studies.

The Vassar and Smith students and all of the boarding school students will be in town by Saturday, but the Bryn Mawr girls will not arrive until Sunday. Miss Jean Lamson, whose talented sister Virginia is passing Christmas in Paris, where she returned last fall to continue her sculpture studies, is among the unfortunates who will miss the Triangle show. Miss Eleanor Cheney and Miss Lucy Fairbank are others attending Bryn Mawr.

Miss Harriet Daughaday, Miss Miriam Fetcher, Miss Charlotte Chandler, Miss Jane de Peyster, Miss Nancy Brown, and Miss Nancy Burley are the debutantes who are returning from Smith, while from Vassar will come Miss Henrietta Boal, Miss Leslie Wilson, Miss Margery Preston, Miss Eleanor Kirkland, and Miss Harriett Street.

The debutantes arriving at home from Sarah Lawrence college tomorrow include Miss Marjorie Kelly, Miss Tayloe Hannaford, Miss Laura Bartlett, and Miss Barbara Bersbach. Miss Alice Bradley already is at home.

Miss Nancy Poole is a Sarah Lawrence subdebutante student who will arrive tomorrow for the holidays. Her younger brother Richard arrived at home from Hotchkiss a few days ago and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Murray Washburn Jr. have returned from their wedding trip and are staying in Lake Forest with the former Barbara Poole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole, until they can settle their town apartment. No one knows exactly where Ralph Jr., who is on a trip around the world, will spend Christmas.

Nicolson-Welles Wedding Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee M. Nicolson and their younger daughter, Caryl, left yesterday afternoon for New York to attend the wedding on Sunday of their daughter and sister, Miss Virginia Nicolson, to Orson Welles. Dr. Maurice A. Bernstein, young Mr. Welles' guardian, is planning to go east for the wedding, too, but he will leave later in the week.

The marriage of the young couple will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the residence of the bride's godmother, Mrs. Herbert Gay, in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., with just the immediate family and a few friends present.

Immediatley after the ceremony Mr. Welles and his bride will go to Rye, where they have taken an apartment in Blind Brook lodge for two months, anticipating, no doubt, that "Romeo and Juliet" will play in New York at least that long. Mr. Welles is playing Tybalt with Katharine Cornell in the Shakespearean play which opens in New York tomorrow night. Mr. and Mrs. Nicolson and Caryl, who goes to the University School for Girls, will return to Chicago on Christmas.

Gillette Plans Presidential Ball.

As soon as Christmas is over some of our best workers for charity will be called to service by Howard F. Gillette, who is Chicago chairman for the 1935 birthday ball for President Roosevelt. Mr. Gillette plans to make Chicago's celebration of the President's birthday this winter, Jan. 30, an outstanding one, and with his background of years of experience as one of society's most noted hosts and as an organizer of many successful affairs, both social and philanthropic, he would seem to be an ideal person to be intrusted with such a task.

His idea is to have dozens of parties, culminating perhaps in a gala program at the Civic Opera house, but plans are still too nebulous to make any announcement, he said yesterday, other than that Chicago will have a gigantic celebration. Henry L. Doherty of New York is chairman of the national committee of the 1935 birthday ball for the President.

Miss Elinor Rosenwald, 24 years old, daughter of the late Morris S. Rosenwald, investment banker and brother of the late Julius Rosenwald, will be married in Los Angeles on Jan. 2 to Dr. Joseph M. Harris, according to word received here yesterday by members of the family.

Miss Rosenwald's mother, now the wife of Dr. Vernon B. Herbst, of 4924 Woodlawn avenue, plans to leave for California with her husband the latter part of the week to be present at the wedding.

Miss Rosenwald said, according to dispatches from the coast, that her romance with Dr. Harris had begun several months ago when she went to California to visit her sister, Mrs. Reed Howes of Beverley Hills. The intention to wed was filed yesterday.

Tea on Friday for Ballet Group.

Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell, Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mrs. Francis S. North have issued invitations for a tea on Friday at 4:30 o'clock at the Casino. Leonide Massine and six of the ballerinas of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe will be present in their Boutique Fantasque [toy shop] costumes. This will be one of the ballets to be given on the opening night, Dec. 26, which is a benefit performance for the Women's Trade Union league.

Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, who has been on duty in Washington for several weeks, has returned to the Great Lakes station and resumed his command.

The annual children's Christmas benefit of the Church Club of Chicago for the Episcopal church's social service institutions to be held tomorrow evening in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. Approximately 1,000 needy children from the west and south sides will be guests at the party.

The Chicago Smith College club and the Evanston-North Shore Smith club will have a joint Chrismas luncheon at the Union League club at 1 o'clock Saturday, Dec. 29.

House Dress Slenderizes

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME ENSEMBLE.

Here is an attractive new house dress cut on slenderizing lines with pointed seaming to fit smoothly over the hips. The apron is as pretty as it is practical, and so easy to slip on when doing things about the house. Young brides are wearing the house ensembles in colors that harmonize with the color used in their kitchens.

The pattern, No. 3455, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure.

Nervous State to Be Detected in Handwriting

GRAPHOLOGY COUPON
Your Handwriting Analyzed

Know your assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions. Obtain a personal graphology chart. Here are the rules:
1. Clip this coupon, attach a sample of handwriting, and mail to Muriel Stafford, box 1539, Chicago Tribune.
2. Enclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Enclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope, folded once.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

Perhaps you are nervous only at certain times. Then your handwriting will be nervous at those times. Perhaps you are extremely high strung. You may have an inward tenseness and instability that you have learned to control outwardly. Your handwriting will reflect all this.

Whenever you find some one writing a jerky, uneven handwriting treat him gently and with tact. It may be a good thing to stay away from him if you are a bit "jittery" yourself.

Jerky writing is the first indication of a nervous state of mind. The more pronounced the jerkiness, the more nervous the writer. Many extremely clever people write this way. Their minds are so fertile and active that they cannot seem to strike a calm, emotional balance and so they are nervous writers. Lionel Barrymore's handwriting is a good example of this.

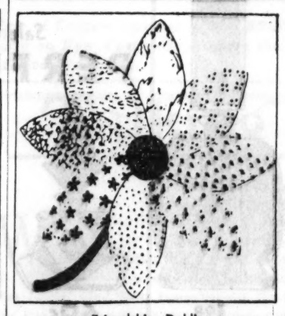
The small letters are variable and they slant in many directions. The base line is unstable. You could not draw a line under this writing and have every letter touch the line. In some handwritings such an indication might mean one of many things, but considering the fitful quality of the writing it means only a highly strung and nervous person in this case.

Myriad Colors Can Be Employed in Dahlia Quilt



Friendship Dahlia.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Friendship Dahlia" is a gay, colorful appliqué pattern and one in which a variety of materials may be used. In the early days of the quilt friends exchanged samples of figured materials in order that they might have many colors. It was considered most artistic to have no two appliqued dahlias alike.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY MARY MEADE.

Collecting cook books? Then here's a new one to add to your kitchen shelf —and to ring in often when meals cry for a touch of the unusual. "A Cook's Tour" has just been published by Mabel Severin Prout, director of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs. In one neat little volume it offers toothsome contributions from clubsters all over the United States as well as exotic dishes from eighty-two clubs in twenty-two foreign countries which are affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The book is printed by the Art Craft Press in Albion, Mich., and sells for fifty cents plus three cents postage.

At last—an American book for American readers which "tells all" about wines and a goodly smattering about beers, cocktails, brandies, liqueurs, aperitifs, and whiskies. It is "The Complete Wine Book," by wine authorities Frank Schoonmaker and Tom Marvel. Simon & Schuster, New York, are the publishers. The price is $2.50.

If you are interested in the congenial art of drinking, yet are an American with a modest income and a distrust of the elaborate "abracadabra" of wine drinking which is too often foisted upon the untutored, you will enjoy "The Complete Wine Book" for its simple yet witty style, its utter honesty, and its practical advice to those who wish to purchase and serve their wines and spirits without undue heartbreaks and pocketbook losses.

"Food Buying Today," by Alexander Todoroff. This small but compact volume is published by the Grocery Trade Publishing house, 755 North Central avenue, Chicago, and is offered for one dollar, postpaid.

"Food Buying Today" answers in simple, concise form nearly 700 practical food questions that constantly beset the homemaker in her daily jaunts after food. Questions concerning the grades and varieties of flour, rices, and cereals are discussed. The different types of fats and oils are explained. Things you've always wondered about levening agents are made clear. Sugars, sirups, spices, dairy products, fresh, dried, and canned fruits and vegetables, fish, meats, and bakery goods; all are held up for inspection, our common questions about them stated, and answer advanced.

"Food and Health," by Henry C. Sherman, is the latest addition to our library of dining lore. The publishers —the Macmillan company, New York. The price $2.50. Author Sherman is a professor of chemistry at Columbia university, who already has a well established reputation in the field of foods and nutrition. In explanation of his presentation of "another book about foods," Prof. Sherman suggests that so continuous and speedy have been our recent advances in knowledge concerning foods and their relation to family health, that the great need at present is for a work which compiles the latest that is known on these subjects and presents it in such a way that "dining for health" may become a simple and interesting business, with none of the restrictions or the fussiness that the term diet too often implies.

SOME PEOPLE THINK THEY DON'T LIKE HOTELS

They may come in dog-tired and growl at the elevator man —but the cheery greeting of their floor clerk—the airy, quiet rooms—the luxurious tub or shower—the serene sleep in a long, comfort-planned bed—and the thought that they're in the center of all business activity—quickly converts them to the Commodore. That's why particular people choose New York's most convenient, reasonable, fine hotel.

MORE ABOUT TWO BIDS.

The opening two-bidder can also use a later no-trump rebid to persist in the slam try undaunted by the responder's weak bidding. In that case it almost positively shows a high card, in fact, a doubleton which includes a high card [almost sure to be the ace] in responder's suit. This permits the responding partner to coöperate at that late stage in the slam try though his hand is worthless but for one king. For instance, I bid two diamonds on and the response is three clubs. Three hearts by me, three no trumps. Now I am still hopeful about a slam in diamonds or no trumps if my partner has K x x x x in clubs and not Q J x x x; while if he has the weaker of these two holdings, the hand is still safe at four no trumps or five diamonds, the latter being a bid I expected to reach when I picked up my hand. How can I convey to my partner that although I could not raise his clubs, yet the king of clubs is the key card for a small slam?

Sp.—K Q Di.—A K Q J x
Ht.—A K Q J Cl.—A x

By bidding four no trumps over his three no trump signoff you convey exactly this information. You say, "I had only two losers in my hand when I opened the bidding. Though you have denied support for either of my suits, yet I tell you I am willing to play at four no trumps even if you have nothing but Q J x x x in clubs. Plainly I have one loser in clubs and one elsewhere. If I had a singleton club I would not have bid four no trumps, but four diamonds; if I have x x in clubs, I have no other loser." This makes his duty very clear to the responder. If he has Q J x x x in clubs and nothing else, he passes [he has already denied x x x in diamonds since he did not show preference for diamonds as against hearts]. If he has a club holding such as K J x x x, which will afford at least a finesse to lose only one trick in that suit should opener's holding unexpectedly be only x x, then he should carry on with the slam try by bidding five clubs. Opener, with his three aces, can now bid six no trumps for him, and on the hand as given above the club finesse will be necessary only if the diamonds fail to break so that the small one becomes a loser and must be discarded on a club.

Sp.—A K Q J x Di.—A K x
Ht.—A K x Cl.—A x

Responder has

Sp.—x Di.—J 10 x x
Ht.—Q x x Cl.—K J x x x

The bidding goes: Two spades, three clubs, three no trumps. The latter bid is made for the reasons, and gives the inferences as to the club holding, which we have just explained. Now the responder realizes that since opener is willing to play at three no trumps merely from knowing about the biddable club suit, the queen of hearts will almost surely eliminate a loser for him; the J 10 of diamonds will provide finesse materials to operate against the king or queen, if needs be, requiring only one entry to take the finesse twice; and on this bidding the hand is almost certain to produce two entries, maybe three. Further, he again provides a club holding which offers at least a finesse to lose only one club trick, assuming two of opener's losers consist of two little clubs. That is to say, opener's bid of three no trumps sheds a revealing light on the importance of responder's red cards. It enables him to revalue the importance of his cards as a fine fit in no trumps is now apparent. He should, therefore, make a slam try at this point by bidding four no trumps over the three no trumps. "You have brought me to life; I have values in the unbid suits which are now revealed to me by your last bid as eliminators of your losers, and my club suit is not an utter minimum for the bid; it offers a finesse to lose only one trick in no trumps." Opener now bids six no trumps. If spades do not break, he can lose a diamond trick and still make six; otherwise he is finessing diamonds for seven odd. If responder had K Q x x x x or K Q J x x x in clubs, they should get to seven no trumps. Two spades, three clubs, three no trumps, five clubs, seven no trumps.

Trouble Brews When Parent Neglects Child

Indifference to Youth's Problems Dangerous.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We were talking in this column yesterday about the fathers—and mothers, too—who are "crazy about babies, but don't care a darn about kids," as the little girl put it.

For it is a fact, as we pointed out, that some parents do lose interest when their appealing baby or near-baby is lost in the older child, whose world is no longer bounded by home and mother and who becomes a regular person to reckon with.

Now, all this is easy to understand if you're an adorer of babies; but even though I find it easy to understand I must at the same time send out a storm signal.

In proportion as you find yourself losing interest in your child as he grows older you are apt to find yourself confronted with behavior difficulties. Why is this so? Because the child who has left his babyhood behind, who has become more independent and more positive, senses unconsciously the change in you. Without realizing it you become impatient with his new ways and intolerant of his developing personality.

This provides no working basis at all, and you and your child begin to pull in opposite directions. Eventually, if you don't work out of it, a real estrangement takes place. Then, as your boys and girls become "in-betweens," as I call them—that is, as they reach the ages of 6 and 8 and 10, and then, later, as they reach adolescence—you're in danger of losing your hold on them—of losing your power to help them and, as great a loss, your pleasure in them.

If you are "crazy about babies, but don't care a darn about kids," be warned in time.

Say Breen, Movie Censor, May Join Film Company

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Movieland heard today that Joseph I. Breen, administrator of the morals code of motion pictures and assistant to Will H. Hays, may resign. Breen has been offered an important executive position with Universal studios.

"I AM STAYING WITH FRIENDS"

"If you are staying with friends," replied her cousin in a distant city, why is your letter written from Pierre's?"

"You are so literal," was the response. "Staying at Pierre's is just the same as staying with friends. Even better, for I have the same sense of freedom and no sense of obligation. You simply must stay at Pierre's!"

Form Chicago Tent of Group That Will Aid Circus Performers

A hundred Chicagoans prominent in business and society last night met in the Blackstone hotel to organize the Chicago Tent of the Circus Saints and Sinners. Thorne Donnelley, printing company official, was elected president. The meeting was under the direction of Edward Gorey, former newspaper man.

Among those present were Oryille Taylor, attorney and former president of the board of education; Andrew Rebori, architect; Charles S. Dewey, I. Newton Perry, Stuart Logan, Jesse Hawley, former dartmouth coach; Gen. A. F. Lorenzo, and Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

The organization proposes to maintain the ideals of circus days, the circus and all its features for American youth, and to care for indigent circus performers. Fred Benham, former newspaper man and national president of the organization, was present.

Stokowski Accepts Bid to Be Guest Conductor

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Leopold Stokowski, resigned conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra, tonight accepted an invitation to serve as guest conductor of the orchestra next season. He offered to "conduct about six weeks of concerts, and help you begin the season, which is always difficult."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

You can spend a young fortune on beauty kits for your Santa Claus act next Tuesday morning, and if you have it to spend we'd advise you to hop right to it. But if you're looking for something sensible, attractive AND a bargain to boot consider the flat, smart letherette case that is shown in all the stores. It's full to overflowing with good beauty aids, and it is not expensive.

There is a generous jar of cleansing cream in medium weight—the kind that dry skinned women seem to prefer lately. Then there is a jar of a nourishing cream, one we've written about before. It's pink and so rich in texture that it chases the dry skin blues away in a thoroughly businesslike fashion. It's one of our favorite tissue creams.

A bottle of skin freshener is tucked in, too, a mild, pleasant sort of tonic that completes the cleansing operation to perfection. This is the lotion used for sensitive skins; if the recipient of the gift kit has oily, coarse skin a more astringent tonic may be substituted for the mild lotion.

A choice is possible, too, in the foundation lotions that are a part of the fittings. For delicate skins there is a white creamy liquid, free from astringent qualities, that makes an admirable powder base. A cucumber lotion can be exchanged for this if the skin is very oily.

There is a box of face powder, too, which can be in her favorite shade. And to top off such a grand cosmetic collection there are rouge and an excellent lipstick. Doesn't it all sound like a hit as a Christmas present?

This cosmetic kit doesn't pretend to be terrifically stylish; it isn't all dolled up in silks and satins. Instead, it's a businesslike assortment of essential preparations of good quality, with no extravagant superfluities. It's a practical and lasting gift that will serve a woman well for a number of months.

CUNARD WHITE STAR
Sailings

FIRST CLASS

For directness, convenience and that feeling of doing things in the perfect manner — cross Cunard White Star First Class. The giant liners go first to Cherbourg, nearest port for the Continent . . . thence to Southampton. Sailings every week . . . no other Line offers so many. But most important is the sense of dependability, of ease, of gracious living, which practiced travellers associate with Cunard White Star First Class. It's more than a gratifying feeling . . . once known, it becomes a necessary one! First Class staterooms with private bath are available for as little as $219 per person.

CABIN CLASS

Cunard White Star's Cabin fleet is the largest in the world . . . headed by Britain's largest motor liners—the Georgic and Britannic. These ships are modern from stem to stern: brilliant public rooms, cocktail bars, special sports decks, vibration-less speed. That same gracious hospitality, which travellers everywhere associate with Cunard White Star, characterizes each ship of the fleet . . . and there are eighteen. Such facilities mean unusual services: Cabin sailings average two a week . . . to Plymouth, Havre and London . . . to Galway, Cobh and Liverpool. Rates: Cabin Class $126 up . . . Tourist Class $104 up . . . Third Class $82 up.

SUBSTITUTE MAKES DECIDING POINT ON FOUL

Grossburg Scores in Final Seconds.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Lee Grossburg, Northwestern's six foot four inch substitute center, had his moment tonight. Rushed into the game in the final seconds of play, he sank a free throw which gave the Wildcats a 26 to 25 victory in the first game of the annual home and home series with Notre Dame.

Grossburg replaced Jess McAnally, who played the first 39 minutes of the game. McAnally was injured when Marty Peters, giant center and the spearhead of Notre Dame's attack, crashed into him. Grossburg shot the free throw that went with the foul called on Peters.

Rough, Tumble Affair.

The final score indicates accurately the tenor of the game. It was a rough and tumble affair, typical of all Notre Dame-Northwestern games.

The near capacity crowd of 6,000 fans shrieked and yelled as first one team than the other went into the lead. Northwestern won on free throws, making ten of its 13 attempts. Notre Dame scored ten field goals to nine for the Wildcats, but missed seven of its 12 free throws.

Lyle Fisher, Northwestern co-captain and star forward, was effectively bottled up with the exception of a few moments early in the second half, when he scored on three one-handed shots from difficult angles. He also made four free throws for a total of ten points, leading both teams in scoring.

Vance Is Star.

The defensive work of Norman Vance, giant sophomore guard, annoyed Notre Dame all evening. Although he scored only once, on a free throw, Vance hawked the ball continually and set the stage for many of Northwestern's thrusts with his interceptions of passes.

Notre Dame's faith in Marty Peters was justified, for the giant Peoria lad, with less than a week of practice since the close of the football season, scored seven of his team's points and was the outstanding man in Notre Dame's play.

Free throws by McAnally and Fisher gave the Wildcats the lead after five minutes of conservative play. Peters and George Ireland scored on fouls for Notre Dame, but Fisher added another free throw, giving Northwestern a 3 to 2 lead.

Peters Gets Field Goal.

Peters scored the first field goal of the game after nine minutes of play. This put Notre Dame ahead, 4 to 3. Fisher made another free throw to tie the score.

Mercer and Ireland exchanged long shots to make it 6 all. Peters scored again on a short one, but Kawal's long shot tied the count at 8 all. Mercer's free throw put Northwestern ahead, but Wade's field goal gave Notre Dame a 10 to 9 advantage. Ireland increased the lead with another long toss. Mercer's side shot for Northwestern just before the gun sounded narrowed Notre Dame's lead to 12 to 11 at the half.

Northwestern spurted immediately after the second half opened and ran the score up to 21 to 14. Ford scored on Kawal's fowl when Fisher made the first of his three shots to tie the score at 13 all. Fisher repeated and Kawal's long shot made it 17 to 13.

Then Came Grossburg.

Ireland's free throw was more than nullified by Fisher's third field goal. Vance and Kawal made free throws which put Northwestern ahead 21 to 14 with nine minutes to play. Then Notre Dame rallied. Ford passed to Peters and Okane under the basket for four points. Ford then scored on a short shot. Vance fouled him on the play and Ford added the free throw to tie the score at 21 all.

McAnally was fouled by Peters as he scored a field goal and made the free throw giving Northwestern a 24 to 21 lead. Fisher made his fourth free throw of the evening on Wade's foul and the Wildcats led, 25 to 21.

Hopkins and Okane scored in rapid succession and the score was tied at 25 all when McAnally was injured and Grossburg came in to break up the game.

GETTING READY FOR THE WEST

East Football Squad Gathers at N. U. Today

Dyche stadium at Northwestern university will be the assembling point today for 22 of the outstanding football players of the last season who will comprise the East all-star team which will meet the West in the annual New Year's day game at San Francisco, Cal., for the benefit of the Shrine hospital for crippled children.

The East team has been recruited by Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr, who for eight years have been co-coaches of the squad. This year's team consists of players from 15 colleges in the central states, east, and south.

Ten from Big Ten Schools.

Ten members of the team are from seven Big Ten schools. Out of this ten, six were chosen the most valuable players on their teams in THE TRIBUNE poll to determine the most valuable player in the Western conference. Pug Lund of Minnesota, who won the honor, is a member of the squad.

Both coaches had only words of praise for the personnel of this year's squad, claiming it possessed the finest set of backs of any team they have taken west.

They visualize no difficulty in organizing two strong back fields from the available talent, which includes, in addition to Lund, Duane Purvis of Purdue, Don Veller of Indiana, Isadore Weinstock, Pitts' plunging full back; Bill Sheppard, the East's high scorer from Western Maryland; Doug Nott of Detroit, Bill Brominski of Columbia, and Miller Munjas of Pitt.

Hold Workout This Afternoon.

The line is also studded with outstanding players headed by Charles Hartwig, tackle from Pitt, and Butch Larson, end on Minnesota's undefeated eleven.

A short workout will be held on the Northwestern practice field this afternoon. The team will leave tonight over the Chicago and North Western railroad for San Francisco. Headquarters will be established at the University of California in Berkeley, where daily workouts will be held until the day of the game.

WEST PLANS WELCOME.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Members of the Shriners' eastern all-star football team, which is scheduled to leave Chicago tomorrow evening for the annual battle here New Year's day against the western all-stars, will be guests at a breakfast in Sacramento Saturday morning, at which Gov. Frank E. Merriam will welcome the team to California, it was announced by Shriner officials today.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks played to a 1 to 1 tie here tonight in their first National Hocky league game of the season with the Montreal Canadiens. It was the second drawn game in a row for the Canadiens and the first nodecision contest the Hawks have played since the schedule opened.

Both teams scored in the opening period. Roger Jenkins, ex-Blackhawk defense man, now with the Canadiens, put the Red Shirts in front near the halfway mark in the opening period when he broke through the Chicago defense and whizzed a knee high drive into the Chicago cage.

Four minutes later the Hawks evened the score. Tommy Cook dodged over the Canadiens' blue line at center and bunched the defense. As the Red Shirt defense men lunged at him, he slipped a pass to his left. Louis Trudel came whirling in along the boards, cut in fast, and flipped the puck behind Goalie Wilf Cude.

Crowd Cheers Morenz.

Tonight marked the first time Howie Morenz, Chicago center, had played against the team he represented for 11 years. Morenz was given a big hand from the crowd and turned in one of his best games of the season. Lorne Chabot, ex-Canadien goalie, now playing with the Hawks, also had a good evening against his mates of last year, as did Marty Burke, former Canadien defense star.

Jenkins was in great form against the team which traded him to Montreal. He played a stanch defensive game, and his rushes always were dangerous.

Morenz was a threat to the Canadiens every time he was on the ice and his forward line with Johnny Gottselig on one wing and Mush March on the other was the best the Hawks presented.

Play Rangers Next.

The tie enabled the Hawks to retain their grip on first place in the American division by the margin one point over the Boston Bruins.

On Thursday the Hawks will be in New York to meet the Rangers.

EAGLES, 2; AMERICANS, 1

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The last place St. Louis Eagles took advantage of their opponents' mistakes tonight to defeat the New York Americans, 2 to 1, in a slow but bruising overtime game. Only about 5,000 saw the game.

The principal mistake was a couple of infractions of the rules which sent Alex Smith and Al Murray off the ice in the overtime period. While Murray was absent and the Eagles attacking at full force, Bill Brydge tried to help out Goalie Roy Worters by getting in front of Frank Finnigan's long shot. He cut off the goalie's view and en-

Levinsky Asks for Chance to Beat the Whole Baer Family

BY FRENCH LANE.

In front of a café near the intersection of Clark and Randolph streets I ran into the mighty Kingfish Levinsky at dusk yesterday.

Hustling loop workers reinforced by an army of Christmas shoppers elbowed him around a bit, but you can bet the Kingfish held his own.

"Waiting for a fellow to come out of that restaurant," replied the Kingfish as a blonde in a coonskin coat and an elderly gentleman of the accountant type jostled him from both sides.

King Is Pushed Around.

The Kingfish continued, "I'm waiting for Jim Mullen to come out of the restaurant and he is putting away a feed. He's been in there an hour."

On a hasty glance I thought the Kingfish's expression indicated he might be lingering around waiting for Mullen in the hope that he could put a small "bite" on the Stadium matchmaker in the shape of a little advance money for that four round exhibition match with Max Baer that is coming up at the Stadium during the holidays.

So I prepared to leave the Kingfish there in his vigil and move on across the loop. The Kingfish would not stand for it.

Correspondent Is Cautious.

I waited. Didn't the Kingfish knock down such guys as Jack Sharkey, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Don McCorkingdale and a lot other tougher fellows than your correspondent with one punch?

It would indeed have been embarrassing to be flat on one's back at Clark and Randolph street with the Christmas shopping army and the homeward bound loop workers marching by in an endless procession.

"I'll tell you the story I'm going to tell Mullen," he went on.

"I'm a little behind in my reading as you will know when you hear this story," said the Kingfish.

"But, Lena"—that's Leapin' Lena, the Kingfish's sister and part manager—"was reading aloud to me today a piece in which Max Baer was quoted some time ago to the point that he could whip Art Lasky and the great Kingfish in the same ring in one night.

"Max Baer and his brother Buddy will both be on the card at the Stadium when I start throwing punches at Max. After I whip Max I want Mullen to give me a four round crack at Buddy. All the rest I want between bouts is the minute intermission I'm entitled to between rounds."

Reporter Beats Retreat.

The Kingfish had so much fire in his eyes and I was so anxious to pull the left lapel out of the grasp of his big right fighting fist and I was so happy to get away that I couldn't believe this was an act to build up that Baer-Levinsky fighting affair.

The last thing I heard the Kingfish say was "The King can do no wrong."

"Did you hear about the Kingfish's big eight cylinder motor car?" he asked.

"No, what about it?" I queried.

"In the heat of the honeymoon the Kingfish paid $450 down on the blue flyer and presented it to Roxanne. In the coolness of the divorce proceedings somebody forgot to make the next payment so the law moved in today and a finance company threatens to jerk away the Kingfish's wedding present to his bride."

Last night I learned that Roxanne still possessed the big blue flyer, with the case still pending in Circuit court.

Where's That Dog.

"You'll remember," the attorney chatted, "that the Kingfish, in his first answer to the divorce suit filed against him, bewailed the loss of the car and a dog. The pooch also was a wedding night presentation of the Kingfish to his bride.

"What I want to know is what became of the dog?" asked the attorney.

LONG CLAIMS SUCCESSOR HAS BEEN SIGNED

Huey Breaks Pledge to Ex-Army Star.

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Capt. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, for three years coach at Louisiana State university, tendered his resignation to President James M. Smith tonight. Jones' contract had two more years to run.

Resignation of Jones, who this year developed one of the leading elevens in the country, came as a result of Senator Huey Long's interference with the football team, which Long took over more or less as a personal chattel when it began winning.

Trouble between Jones, who at one time coached the Cadet team at West Point where he starred as a player, and the dictator senator has been brewing for some time, but first came to a head when Long attempted to run the team in its last game against Oregon university Saturday.

Long sought to address the team between halves and was ejected from the dressing room by Jones.

Effective Jan. 1.

President Smith said the resignation was effective Jan. 1. Jones' assignment to the university by the war department as an assistant professor of military science and tactics is not affected by the change, he added.

A "half dozen" possible successors to Jones were being considered, President Smith said, but he declined to reveal their names. His formal statement follows:

"Capt. Lawrence M. Jones has asked me to relieve him of the responsibilities of head football coach at the university and after careful consideration I have decided to accept his resignation.

"It will be remembered that Capt. Jones is regularly assigned to the university by the war department on detached duty as assistant professor of military science and tactics and that his resignation as head football coach will not affect his assignment to the military department.

"I should like to add that I have the highest respect for Capt. Jones as a gentleman, an officer, and a football coach."

Long Breaks Promise.

Long said tonight he "understood" a "nationally famous coach" had been chosen to succeed Jones, but that in deference to Jones no announcement would be made until Jan. 1, when his resignation becomes effective.

Jones, it was revealed today, had been promised that Long would not interfere with football when he accepted the post of head coach at Louisiana State in 1931. The assurance was given by President Smith, and Long reiterated it at a meeting of university authorities. Their action followed Jones' inquiry at the time he was approached with the offer to coach Louisiana State, as to Long's status in the athletic situation.

"Senator Long is off football now," President Smith told Jones. "And you need have no fear of interference."

Jones accepted. For the first year he had complete control of the team. In the second year, when the team began winning, Long began running up and down the sidelines. Jones asked friends to tell him he could not sit on the bench or attempt to direct the team; that he belonged in the stands. Long wouldn't stay in the stands. When the team went through the 1933 season without a defeat the senator again got on the players' bench, but kept his distance from Jones.

Huey Jumps Traces.

Saturday Long violated every rule of football and courtesy, according to players and Jones. Before the latter ordered him away from the team Long several times had attempted to instruct substitutes. The break came when Long tried to push his way into the clubhouse and Jones told him: "Win, lose or draw, I am through!"

Jones' resignation came simultaneously, with a change in the leadership of another of Long's favorite organizations, the L. S. U. 125 piece cadet band. A. W. Wickboldt, bandmaster for several years, was replaced by Castro Carazo of New Orleans, who has composed music for songs Long has written and sung.

TENNESSEE "IS INTERESTED"

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Hardly had reports of Capt. Lawrence [Biff] Jones' resignation at Louisiana State university reached Knoxville tonight before rumors were afloat that the army man might be named successor to Maj. Robert R. Neyland, who resigned to assume new army duties in the Panama Canal zone.

The only statement available was from a member of the University of Tennessee athletic council, who asked that his name not be mentioned. He said "the University of Tennessee is interested in Coach Jones, and would be glad to discuss the coaching situation with him."

Pasadena Junior College Co-ed Named Roses Queen

BAER TO ARRIVE SATURDAY FOR LEVINSKY BOUT

King Works Out Against Pacek and Jones.

Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, is due in town Saturday from Boston Mass., where he will serve as referee Friday, to begin workouts for a four round nontitle contest against King Levinsky at Chicago Stadium Dec. 28. The champion expects to second his young heavyweight brother, Buddy Baer, against Earl Sather, former National A. A. U. champion, at St. Paul, Minn., tonight. Max is booked to referee the Sammy Fuller-Bobby Pacho or Maxie Rosenbloom-Tony Shucco encounters at Boston. Buddy will fight Henry Surette on the program.

Levinsky went a round each with Johnny Pacek, 1933 Golden Gloves heavyweight titleholder, and Tom Jones yesterday. He will increase his boxing drill to three rounds this afternoon. The Kingfish is attempting to get down to his best weight, 202, for the fight next week.

Lee Ramage, San Diego, Cal., heavyweight, took a light workout in anticipation of clashing in one of two matches at ten rounds at the Stadium. expressed willingness to meet the other. The other may pair Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, and Frank Battaglia, Chicago.

Champion Barney Ross will head for Hot Springs, Ark., tomorrow for a vacation, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Rasofsky, and Co-Manager Art Winch. . . . Frank Battaglia and Teddy Yarosz, middleweight titleholder, are likely to clash in an overweight tussle at Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8.

Frank Sagilio, Cicero junior welterweight, opened training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium in expectation of fighting at Chicago Stadium Jan. 11. . . . Matchmaker Ed Purvis of Cicero stadium hopes to induce Sagilio to battle Young Joe Firpo of Philadelphia Jan. 4. . . . The Mastro Boxing club has suspended presentation of amateur programs at Community Recreation center until Jan. 2. . . . The next card at Marigold Gardens will be held Jan. 7.

The Rev. William Labodie of Cincinnati, O., is in the city for a series of conferences with the Most Rev. Bernard Sheil, national director of the Catholic Youth organization, relative to a proposed series of intercity matches next year. . . . The Rev. Labodie is director of Cincinnati parochial athletic activities and during his four day stay here will study the procedure of C. Y. O. events. . . . Felix Kolk was ousted last night as athletic director at Mayfair casino to cut down expenditures.

Davey Day, operated upon for a nasal obstruction last month, will return to lightweight warfare Jan. 1. . . . Frant Fortney, 1930 heavyweight Golden Gloves champion, now employed by a Chicago taxi company, is celebrating his third month of wedded bliss. . . . Billy Celebron, Rockford welterweight, will be unable to box for at least six weeks because of a cracked bone in his right hand. . . . Lenny Cohen, Chicago flyweight, is employed by a loop jeweler and so does his training in the evening.

Phil McQuillen, Ike Bernstein's welterweight protégé, and Jack Elverrillo will meet in the six round windup at the Racquet club Saturday afternoon. . . . Other matches will bring together Johnny Fitzpatrick and John Mirabel, Eddie Carroll and Lou Vine, and Hugh Allen and Harry Booker. . . . Eddie Bulat, 1929 amateur champion, member of the Illinois National Guard, has joined the C. Y. O. boxing department. . . . He now weighs 170 pounds. . . . Amateur shows this week include those at Nativity parish, 68th street and Washtenaw avenue, tonight; St. Rita gymnasium and C. Y. O. center Thursday and South Shore Country club Friday. F. M.

CATHOLIC FIVES OPEN PRE-SEASON TOURNEY TONIGHT

Three Games Scheduled at St. George Gym.

Three games will open the first annual pre-season Catholic High school basketball tournament at St. George gymnasium in Evanston tonight. Two Chicago quintets, St. Rita and De Paul, will open the tourney at 7:30 o'clock. At 8:30 o'clock De La Salle will oppose Corpus Christi of Galesburg, Ill., and in the final contest of the evening St. Mel will meet St. Michael.

The meet, sponsored by St. George, will continue until Sunday night when the final game for the title will be played. Fifteen squads, including three from out of town, will compete for the championship. Among the out of town quintets is St. Mary's of Huntington, Ind., which lost only two games last season and is one of the favorites to win the meet.

St. Mary's Draws Bye.

St. Mary's however, drew a bye in the opening round. It will play its first game Friday night. Four other first round contests will be played tomorrow night. The second round games will be held Friday night and the semi-finals on Saturday.

St. George is rated as a strong contender for the championship. Among the members of the team are Quinn Collins, guard, who will captain the squad this season; Francis O'Donnell, Bob Calihan, 6 foot 3 inch center; Al Mariner and Tony Torotello, forwards.

Name 12 on Corpus Christi Squad.

Coach Harry Bell yesterday named 12 players on the Corpus Christi squad to make the trip to Chicago. The other out of town team is St. Patrick of Kankakee, Ill. It will meet St. Ignatius in its opening game Thursday.

A basket by Paul Pare in the final minute enabled St. Mel's heavyweight team to defeat Austin, 24 to 22, at the latter's gymnasium yesterday. St. Mel also captured the lightweight contest, 32 to 9. In the heavyweight game Austin led at the end of the half, 18 to 9. St. Mel rallied to tie the score and then Pare sank a long shot for the winning points. The heavyweight lineup.

Amateur Ice League Ready for 1st Game

The Chicago Hocky league will open play tomorrow night with a double header at the Stadium. In the first game the C. Y. O. All-Stars will meet the Yellow Jackets, and in the second contest the defending champions, Jones and Baumruckers, will play the Vodrazka Hornets.

Each team will be permitted to use only ten men—a goalie, three defense men, and two complete forward lines. Games will be played in fifteen minute periods.

Plans call for each team to play each other twice during the season. The schedule will be completed in time for the clubs to compete in the Midwest and National tournaments next spring. Double header games will be staged each Thursday night and Sunday afternoon.

DROP CUE TITLE MEET; EXPERTS WILL TOUR U. S.

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Seeking to popularize the sport among amateurs the National Billiards association today announced abandonment of the 1935 world championship tournament and, instead, an effort will be made to make the country billiards conscious.

Instead of vieing with each other for cue honors, 21 of the ranking professionals will give exhibitions and instructions—gratis—in 1,500 billiard halls throughout the country next year, C. A. Storer, president of the N. B. A., announced.

EXPECT CLOSE GAMES SUNDAY IN K. OF C. LEAGUE

Several evenly matched teams will meet Sunday in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league. The clash between Englewood and Loyola-Hyde Park tops the south division card at White City, while the west division schedule at the Knights of Columbus club house will be featured by the game between St. Cyr, league champion, and the unbeaten Setters team. St. Cyr, defeated last Sunday, will be reinforced by the return of Werner Frank.

Sunday's schedules:

EN ROUTE.

FRIEND STEWART: Well, Stewart, we are two days out of Chicago on our jaunt to California by easy stages—or by uneasy stages I would prefer to call it—and we have covered only 508 miles. This conforms to my estimate of 11 days for the 2,615 mile journey, but the ladies are a bit perturbed for their estimate was eight, not more than nine days, with many persons doing it in seven days or less.

Actually, we lost most of our time the first day because I refused to get up, not being accustomed to it, and we didn't get started until 10 o'clock. Then there was sleet and rain and I moaned so we, I mean they, drove very slowly which I always think is advisable in skiddy weather, having paid several substantial repair bills in the past.

So when dusk came and we were only at Decatur, 190 miles from Evanston and 100 miles short of our schedule, I suggested we stop for the night, and as the ladies had done the tough driving—it really was skiddy—they acquiesced, somewhat to my surprise.

I was moved in part by the fact that Bill Bering and his wife Jane, whom we knew in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., lived there. So Bill and his wife came down to our hotel, and Harold Pogue who used to go places on the gridiron, say from 80 to 100 yards at a crack, in Zuppke's early coaching days at Illinois, and Judge Charlie Miller, who was a fraternity brother of French Lane at Illinois Wesleyan, and Frank Groat and a few others. Judge Miller, by the way, is a Democrat, but he went in on the Roosevelt landslide. So we told a lot of yarns and right angled our elbows for an hour or so.

Then Daughter Wake went night clubbing and Mother Wake and Daddy Wake sought the pillows. Say, Stewart, did I sleep from 9 o'clock on? The only interruption was about 11 o'clock when a bellboy knocked on the door and said a guest on the third floor—we were on fourth—complained that the steam pipes were pounding. Well, the steam pipes weren't pounding at all. It is just possible, however, that I snored for I was very tired, not being accustomed to touring.

I had set my alarm clock for 7 o'clock and the next thing I knew my telephone bell rang and the ladies said it was 6:40 and we ought to be getting started. I may explain that the ladies room together, with me alone because of my restlessness and also because I insist on smoking a corncob pipe in my bedroom. I really didn't think it was time to start, but I didn't want to be a killjoy. So I got up.

Well, today, it really was fine, and we came along in pretty good shape. We stopped for gas at Anna, Ill., and the Sinclair station boy asked us which way we were going and I said we didn't care, so he gave us some kind of a coupon, good for 10 cents rebate at the Cape Girardeau, Mo., bridge, so why should we cross at Cairo when we could save 10 cents?—only Daughter Wake thought the Mississippi river was a false alarm there and would rate "incomplete" either at Smith or Northwestern, which she attended.

So here we are in Blytheville, Ark., and I would recommend the hotel to tourists traveling a little light as we are, for it set us back only $5 for three with baths. Just at present my room is a little noisy because the hotel engineer is making repairs. You see I pulled a lever in the small room adjoining my bedroom and the water wouldn't stop running. But soon his pounding will be over and the only other worry I have is that the ladies say we should arise at 6 o'clock tomorrow and be on our way at 7. I don't like the idea, so I will rise at 6 and be on our way at 7.

I'm beginning to be a little more hopeful about my finances. I started with $188.05 and I now have $161.70 with our hotel bill here yet to be paid. That may get us through until I receive my salary check from Miss Stone. Otherwise you will get an S O S from somewhere in Arizona. Is Arch back yet? Hoping you are the same. Regards,

Harvey T. Woodruff.

Schmeling Is Sure He'll Win from Hamas

BERLIN, Dec. 18. — (AP) — While Sports Promoter Walter Rothenberg was casting about in quest of a site to stage the Steve Hamas-Max Schmeling heavyweight boxing bout in this country next March, Schmeling announced himself fit and confident that he'll atone for the defeat he suffered at the fists of the former Penn State collegian in Philadelphia last February.

The fight is tentatively set for the latter part of March with Hamburg, Berlin, and Frankfurt-on-Main as prospective sites. Rothenberg hopes to hold the fight in Hamburg, but has not received anticipated financial support in the matter of constructing a stadium seating 25,000.

"I'm most confident of beating Hamas this time," said Schmeling tonight, "and then I'll meet Max Baer and regain the world's heavyweight championship."

The announcement last night by Charlie Harvey, Steve Hamas' manager, that he had signed for Hamas to meet Schmeling in Germany precipitated an argument over Harvey's right to accept the bout.

Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden's matchmaker, declared that Hamas is under contract to make his next appearance in the ring under the sponsorship of the Garden or with its consent.

Cunningham to Meet Bonthron Again in January

Lawrence, Kas., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Cunningham-Bonthron rivalry, which already has resulted in new world marks for the outdoor mile and indoor and outdoor 1,500 meter races, is on again.

Glenn Cunningham, the ace miler of the middle west, announced today he was not only willing but is getting ready to take up the challenge thrown out by Bill Bonthron from the east.

"I think perhaps I will," the Kansan replied when asked whether he would be on hand for the opening of the eastern indoor season at the Knights of Columbus games in Brooklyn, Jan. 5.

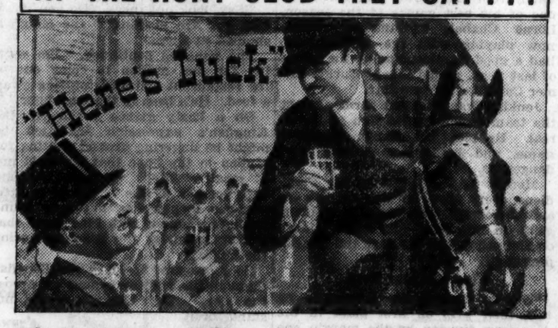
"I started training last week for the indoor races. So far I haven't let myself out because the right foot that I injured last spring—pulling a muscle—is still a little tender. It was taped during the summer and I didn't run any really fast races in Japan."

In their five meetings in 1934, Bonthron won three times and Cunningham two, but the Kansan ran the fastest mile of all time on taped but painfully injured ankles and was 40 yards ahead of Bonthron at the finish of the "mile race of the century" at Princeton. The time was 4:06.7.

Cornell Beats MacAlester in Last Half Drive, 33-32

Mt. Vernon, Ia., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—A last half offensive enabled Cornell's basketball team to defeat MacAlester, 33 to 32, tonight.

AT THE HUNT CLUB THEY SAY . . .



They Know This Blend is Based on Rich 5-Year-Old Whisky
Yet Priced Low!

IN smart circles everybody's saying "Here's Luck". It means a blend of whiskies, blended perfectly, and stored for careful aging after blending. The base of fine heavy-bodied 5-year-old whisky gives it a mellow, full flavor that makes you think it must be expensive—yet its price is surprisingly low.

CARDINALS CUT $100,000 MELLON FOR '34 SEASON

Rickey Denies Selling His Interest in Club.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Christmas is a week away, but Santa Claus hastened the season today by filling the stockings of a lot of boys whom he has neglected these last few yules—the stockholders of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals. A $100,000 dividend was declared by the club today, the first since 1931, and the fair haired boy of the Cardinal family appeared to be Sam Breadon, whose stocking was reported to contain the largest part of the cut, approximately $75,000.

The premature arrival of Santa at the Cardinal offices put to an end the gossip which had been going about among the champion's playmates in the National league, rumors that the Cards had scored in the league race and the world series, but not at the box office.

Sales Bring Profit.

As a matter of fact, the stockings of the stockholders were filled two weeks ago, when the dividend was declared, but the news did not come out until today, when it was announced there was a slice of $10 a share on common and preferred stock.

The dividend was not entirely the result of the Cardinals' 1934 success. It included not only the profits of their seven game triumph over the Detroit Tigers in the world series and the revenue from the regular season race, but the gains of the 1932 and 1933 seasons as well. These latter were derived largely from player sales within the Cardinals' extensive minor league chain store system. It was the world series profit, however, which enabled the club to make its dividend a healthy one.

Rickey Denies Selling Share.

It was reported that Branch Rickey had sold his holdings in the club, reported to be 10 per cent, to Clarence Howard of St. Louis, but the vice president and general manager tonight issued a denial.

"I certainly do not intend to leave the club," he said. "I have a three year contract with it. I have no other job in mind, and haven't had."

Howard also denied he planned eventually to buy a controling interest in the club.

"I am buying only as an investment proposition and not as an operating one. I do not believe my purchases are of any importance," Howard said, explaining he had owned some Cardinal shares since 1917 and had bought other shares "here and there since."

Although Breadon, as president of the organization, stated today that the dividend was only 5 per cent of the total capitalization of $2,000,000, it was pointed out by others that the dividend of $10 a share to common stock holders was really 40 per cent of the par value—$25 a share. Breadon, the principal stockholder, began building his holdings fifteen years ago, when he purchased $2,000 worth of shares. He has had to pay as high as $125 a share in late years, although most of his earlier holdings were obtained at par, if not under.

Three in 1931.

Today, he said that while the percentage of the present dividend is the highest in Cardinal history, it is not the largest melon to be sliced by stockholders. In 1931, St. Louis stockholders were paid three separate dividends, each amounting to $50,000.

JUDGE DEFERS REORGANIZATION OF STADIUM CO.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday postponed decision on the approval of the Chicago Stadium corporation's reorganization plan until Dec. 27. The huge west side sports arena has been in the hands of a federal receiver, Fred E. Hummel, for the last two years, and plans have been in progress for several months to reorganize it under the amended bankruptcy act, which permits creditors to do so.

Judge Wilkerson expressed the opinion that the plan in question is not fair, since it appears that those advancing the money for the reorganization are getting too much. They will have firm security in addition to control of the Stadium.

Arthur M. Wirtz, prominent Chicago realtor and sportsman, is heading the group which plans to take over the Stadium. For an advance of $250,000, Wirtz and his associates would receive the same amount in first mortgage bonds and a controling interest, according to the proposed plan. The present stockholders would receive $1,700,000 in second mortgage bonds for their securities.

Judge Wilkerson, however, pointed out that 90 per cent of the bondholders have approved the reorganization plan, a point in its favor stressed by Perry Chadwick, attorney for the bondholders' committee.

GIANT MICHIGAN QUINTET BATTLES WESTERN STATE

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Michigan and Western State meet here tomorrow night in a game which probably will decide the state championship. Both teams are undefeated. The Wolverines will depend upon height to even the present series which started in 1931, and in which Western State leads three games to two.

The smaller Western State five will depend upon its speed to control the ball and keep the play beyond the speed at which Michigan's attack functions. Each team in its three games has allowed the opposition the same number of points, but the Hilltoppers shows a better offensive record.

Cardinals Top Nation-Wide Team Voting

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Baseball's champions, the St. Louis Cardinals, outvoted Minnesota's Gophers, the No. 1 team of college football, by a substantial margin in this year's Associated Press poll conducted to help decide the outstanding team in any sport, at home or abroad.

Slightly revised figures, based upon additional replies from sports editors and writers throughout the country, showed the following standing: Cardinals, 60 votes for first place and total of 248 points; Minnesota, 36 votes for first place and 223 points.

It's a Two Team Race.

These two aggregations completely dominated the voting. The only other team receiving votes for first place were the Chicago Bears, with seven; Detroit Tigers, five; U. S. Walker Cup Golf team, two; and the Yale football team, one.

The Bears, despite their defeat by the New York Giants in the playoff for the professional football title, finished third in the poll with a total of 59 points. The experts disregarded this setback in rating the Bears much higher than the Giants, who polled only 12 points.

Fourth place went to the Detroit Tigers, American league baseball champions, with 42 points, thus giving professional teams three of the first four places and pointing definitly toward one of the year's outstanding trends, namely the increasing popularity of professional sports.

What a Finish.

The Cardinals won decisive support, chiefly because of the dramatic character of their belated drive to the top of the National league while the New York Giants were faltering. Many of the experts, in making their choice, pointed out that in carrying their successful campaign through the closing stages of the pennant season and then the seven game world series, the Cardinals overcame more opposition over a harder stretch of competition, than the Minnesota football team experienced. Nevertheless, the Gophers polled a bigger National vote than any football team since Southern California's 1931 eleven landed top position in the voting.

Honor Britons in Teams.

The only foreign team figuring in the poll was the British Davis cup team, which successfully defended the international tennis trophy against America's challenge. The combination of Fred Perry and Bunny Austin collected 10 points and ranked eighth on the list.

The revised vote for the top twelve teams in the poll, with total points [figuring on basis of 3 for first place, 2 for second, 1 for third]:

Team.	Sports.	Pts.
St. Louis Cardinals	Baseball	248
Univ. of Minnesota	Football	223
Chicago Bears	Football	59

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

Of all the hunting dogs brought in from England and made popular in this country none has had a wider general appeal than the merry little cocker spaniel. The cocker is today an extremely popular dog both in the home, among breeders, and among exhibitors in the dog shows. He has a winning manner, is very affectionate, has a bright mind and seldom is "snappish" or quarrelsome. In view of these qualities it is not surprising that this small spaniel is a great pal of children and makes an ideal home dog. Chicago has gone in for cockers in a big way, there being many of them owned by dog lovers as pets, and also many fine show specimens in this part of the middle west.

As his name implies, the cocker's special job in England in the old days was to help the woodcock hunter. Just what the early history of the breed was cannot be told with accuracy. It is known, however, that small spaniels, probably the early ancestors of our modern cocker spaniels, were known in Stuart times, but the first use of the name "cocker" doesn't seem to appear in print until about 1801. At any rate, the gay little cocker spaniel that we have in this country today, although changed quite a bit by American breeders, springs from a long line of hunting dogs. Take a cocker bred from alert, hunting strains such as we have in this country today, and you find that same bustling activity about which early dog fanciers always commented.

For example, we can go back 131 years to a quaint old volume on English dogs and we find an Englishman writing that "the tail of the cocker is in perpetual motion . . . upon the increased vibration of which the experienced sportsman well knows that he is getting near the object of his attraction."

The hunting cocker today has lost none of that tendency to hustle, "vibrate his tail" when he gets near game, and cover the ground with a lot of snap and dash. The way these little spaniels get over the ground, wiggle their way through thick weed patches, flush pheasants and rout rabbits makes a thrilling show. I judged one bustling lively cocker of this type in the east a few years ago and he made the larger springer spaniels work hard to beat him in the field trial.

In considering the cocker spaniel for a companion dog in the home, the prospective buyer should know what his temperament and disposition are. That is true, of course, in buying any kind of dog. We have bold, aggressive breeds; quiet, reserved small breeds; dignified, aloof breeds of great appeal; playful, comical breeds; large, dependable breeds, and so on. The point is to pick a dog that has the temperament that you want. The cocker is noted for his lively, affectionate disposition. He craves companionship and attention and, all in all, is a gentle little dog.

Breeders now have cockers in almost any color that anybody would want. There are solid colors such as black, red, and brown. Then there are cockers of white and liver [brown], orange and white, and so on. The parti-colored dogs are very good looking, although many dog lovers prefer a cocker of solid color.

In considering a cocker for a companion dog, think about a comb and brush at the same time, because these dogs have beautiful coats, attractive feathering on the legs and long "marcelled" ears which ought to be taken care of.

GOSLIN SIGNS 3 YEAR CONTRACT WITH DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Leon [Goose] Goslin, star outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, champions of the American league, has signed a three year contract, it was learned today. Goslin, who came to the Tigers last winter from the Washington Senators, received an increase in salary. The amount was not disclosed.

Noble Kizer, Purdue football coach, will be the guest of honor at the annual Purdue alumni of Chicago Christmas gridiron frolic at noon today at the Chicago Engineers club, 314 Federal street. After the luncheon Kizer will leave for Elgin to fill an engagement tonight.

Duquesne and Loyola Meet Tomorrow

Duquesne university, one of the east's leading basketball teams for the last three years, comes to Loyola gym tomorrow night in the first game of a home and home series with the Loyola university five. The Pittsburgh team, since 1931, has scored 50 victories in 58 games.

Loyola and Duquesne have met twice before. The Dukes became victim No. 24 in the opening game of Loyola's 1929-'30 season, when the Ramblers were marching to an unbroken string of 34 victories. Following the Purdue game of 1930, which ended the victory march, Loyola lost 18 to 16 to Duquesne at Pittsburgh.

Loyola appeared none too impressive in its opening victories over Arkansas State and Ripon. Experience and height, two shortcomings of the Loyolans this season, will favor Duquesne.

Duquesne can start an all-senior team which averages an even six feet, or by using one sophomore and four seniors it can boost its average over 6 feet 1 inch.

DE PAUL SEEKS NO. 21

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—De Paul university of Chicago will seek its twenty-first straight basketball victory here tomorrow night when it faces Valparaiso. De Paul in its two games this season won over the University of Illinois and routed Kalamazoo college, 52 to 14.

Coach Jim Kelly of the Demons has not been able to decide upon a regular lineup as yet because all of his men have been turning in good performances.

Walt Diduch probably will start at center tomorrow. Walt made eleven points in the Kalamazoo game, although Nick Yost, who relieved him at half time, scored six baskets and two free throws.

Capt. Frank Linskey and Bill Wendt are listed for the guard positions and Ray Adams and Ed Campion will take care of the forward posts.

GLEN OAK PICKS C. W. IRRGANG AS NEW PRESIDENT

Charles W. Irrgang is the new president of the Glen Oak Country club, elected at a recent meeting. Other officers for the 1935 season include Gus Munch, first vice president; John R. Hackett, second vice president; J. A. Hiller, treasurer, and Earle C. McKinnie, secretary. The directors are John A. Smith, Hugh H. Smith, Hugh J. Beacon, John E. O'Shaughnessy, and Harry B. LaRocca. Three of the officers—Irrang, Munch, and Miller—already had occupied the post of president.

The financial report for 1934 was highly satisfactory, the club operating at a small profit.

Fine CIGARS like fine WINES

now carry a Vintage mark

EVERY BOTTLE of a great wine bears two important facts on its label: the maker's name and a Vintage mark. It is this Vintage date that tells the quality—for only in Vintage years—when nature favors the crops—is a wine considered great.

For instance, among the connoisseurs of fine Bordeaux wines, Château Haut-Brion '28 is considered to be truly great. Yet in 1927 the wine from the same vineyard was inferior . . . was not even bottled at the Château.

Now, tobaccos are a lot like wines—they're at their best in Vintage years. And only when leaf of Vintage quality is grown is the tobacco considered suitable for White Owl.

That's why we can put a Grade A Vintage Mark on every box of White Owls. That's why it will pay you to look for this Vintage Mark. Discover the mild, mellow smoke that Vintage tobaccos give.

What Vintage Tobacco Is

THE GENERAL CIGAR COMPANY maintains a comprehensive Crop Inspection System built up over the last ten years. By this means, we learn the condition of nearly every tobacco district in Pennsylvania and Ohio—the two states which produce practically all the cigar filler tobacco grown in the United States.

So accurate is this inspection system that every vintage crop can be forecast, and our buyers are on the spot to purchase the best of it for White Owls.

But vintage tobaccos alone are not enough. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades passes White Owl's strict requirements for its Grade A filler tobacco. No other filler tobacco is ever used in White Owls. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage Tobacco.

At the present moment, we have sufficient Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly 1 billion White Owls—more than a two-year supply. With this tremendous reserve, we can assure every White Owl smoker of a continued supply of the mild, fragrant cigars which Vintage tobaccos yield.

JOE TURNESA'S 62 LEADS NASSAU OPEN GOLF MEET

Breaks Course Record by Two Strokes.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Blasting par by six strokes and the course record by two, Joe Turnesa of Hartford, Conn., today turned in one of the lowest rounds ever made in a major American competition to take the lead at the end of the first 18 holes of the $5,000 British colonial open golf tournament with a dazzling 62, made with six birdies.

He used only 25 putts in running up a two stroke edge over Ralph Stonehouse of Indianapolis and Jack Thompson of Youngstown, O., both of whom equaled the course record at 64. The old mark was set by Jock Hutchison in an open tournament in 1928.

Burke's 65 Third.

After Stonehouse and Thompson came Billy Burke with a 65. No less than 10 of the American professionals broke par today in the most amazing exhibition ever seen on the 5,928 yard British colonial course.

Tied at 66 were three others—Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., Willie Macfarlane of Oakridge, N. Y., and Archie Hambrick of French Lick, Ind.

Bruno Minkley of Buffalo, N. Y., shot an 80 to take the lead over all amateurs competing for the governor of the Bahamas trophy. Gov. Bede Clifford, close friend of the prince of Wales, turned in an 88.

First Prize Is $500.

First prize money in the tournament, the first open to be played here since 1928, is $500. Forty other players will share the remaining $4,500.

Another 18 hole round will be played tomorrow and 36 holes Thursday.

Slapdash Wins by a Nose at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The Wheatley stable's 3 year old filly Slapdash won the featured Alhambra handicap at Tropical Park today in a nose finish. George D. Widener's Kawagoe, a 7 to 10 choice, was the victim of the winner's speed and finished second, four lengths ahead of the veteran campaigner, Dr. Freeland.

Mrs. M. J. White's All Forlorn, which won distinction by finishing ahead of Equipoise in a race at Narragansett Park two months ago, had a" the early foot of the company of six which started. She set out to make the pace and drew away from Kawagoe in the first quarter mile.

Until the head of the stretch, All Forlorn stayed in front. Kawagoe was close up but never dangerous.

In the final furlong Slapdash had the inside track and as All Forlorn tired to drop back and finish fourth, Slapdash moved into the lead. Kawagoe was a stout contender to the very last stride and both horses showed good courage in sticking it out during a very fast final furlong. The time of the race was 1:11 1-5.

DOLE PROPOSAL MAY BREAK UP TRADE PARLEY

Delegates Split Over Relief Substitute.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—American business and industry, as represented by the 90 picked delegates to the joint business conference for recovery, today moved toward the recommendation of a direct "dole" for idle workers to replace the present expensive made-work relief schemes.

SILAS STRAWN.

This move was proposed to the general conference by the special subcommittee appointed to draft the social security and relief plank of the platform for recovery that the conference plans to recommend to President Roosevelt after the closing sessions tomorrow. So sensational was the committee's report in view of the conferees that no inkling of the action was forthcoming for several hours.

Dole Plan Causes Split.

After the report had been forwarded to the drafting committee for polishing preliminary to presentation to the general conference, however, delegates admitted that the recommendation for a direct "dole" had been made.

A hitch soon developed, however, when it was learned that the "dole" proposal, together with recommendations by other subcommittees, was considered so full of political dynamite by one faction that an attempt would be made to make the entire conference pointless by winding it up tomorrow with nothing more than a mimeograph handout assuring President Roosevelt of the "coöperation" of business, and letting it go at that.

Most of the manufacturers present are reported to be demanding that the conference bear fruit in the form of a set of definite recommendations along the lines of those recently adopted by the National Association of Manufacturers at their meeting in New York.

Can't Agree on Program.

This group demands the drawing up of a definite platform behind which business may make a united stand. On the other side of the fence, it is reported, is a group headed by President Henry I. Harriman of the United States Chamber of Commerce arguing in favor of ending the conference with innocuous assurance of the business leaders' willingness to "coöperate" with the administration and enter into the as yet undefined "partnership" with goverment mentioned by the President in his radio speeches.

Silas Strawn, Republican leader and former head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and recent convert to the "coöperation" idea, is understood to be seconding Harriman's scheme.

While this conflict was seething today Owen D. Young, who has the reputation of being a peacemaker, arrived at the Greenbrier hotel, where the sessions are in progress.

Other Groups Submit Plans.

All of the committees except the two groups working on the recommendations concerning the NRA are reported to have submitted their planks to the drafting committee headed by John J. Raskob, Silas Strawn, and Owen D. Young, but the contents of these reports have not been officially released. All sessions are being held behind closed doors.

So involved have the business leaders become in their attempts to arrive at agreement on various issues that the full session of the conference, at which the reports are to be revised, amended and consolidated into one platform, today was postponed to 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Committee on the "Dole."

W. B. Bell, president of American Cyanamid company, is chairman of the subcommittee on social security and relief, which presented the recommendation for the dole.

Other members are Alexander Thomson, president, Champion Coated Paper company; W. Gibson Carey, president, Yale and Towne Manufacturing company; George H. Houston, president, Baldwin Locomotive Works; W. D. Fuller, president, Curtis Publishing company; Redfield Proctor, vice president, Vermont Marble company; J. D. A. Morrow, president, Pittsburgh Coal company; G. F. Kull, secretary, Wisconsin Manufacturers' association; James L. Donnelly, executive vice-president, Illinois Manufacturers' association; Fred H. Clausen, president, VanBrunt Manufacturing company, Horicon, Wis.; Harold C. Smith, president, Illinois Tool company; James H. Rand Jr., president, Remington Rand, Inc.; P. W. Litchfield, president, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company; and Samuel W. Reyburn, president, Associated Dry Goods corporation.

Oppose Old Age Pensions.

This group is reported to have frowned on old age pensions and to have favored delaying action on unemployment insurance until it can be put on an actuarial basis, arguing that it is not an emergency measure.

The subcommittee on labor under the NRA has forwarded to the delegates a report following closely the recommendations recently made by the National Association of Manufacturers insisting that employers have the right to bargain collectively with organizations or individuals, opposing the majority rule of employé representation, opposing sympathetic or general strikes, and favoring legal responsibility for the conduct of employé organizations as well as employers.

The labor group today was understood to be still debating the advisability of favoring control of production and producing facilities.

How Present Auto Stock Prices Compare With the 1933 Peak

Autos, Parts in Lead as U. S. Exports Rise

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Leading a long list of American export products showing substantial gains over last year's corresponding period, shipments of automobiles, parts and accessories more than doubled in value during the first nine months of 1934, a survey by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States showed today.

Automotive exports totaled $154,431,000. This was 10.1 per cent of total American export trade and represented an increase of 136.2 per cent over shipments in the corresponding period of 1933. Analysis of the nine-month figures showed that the United States exported 70,098 motor trucks, 150.8 per cent above the same period of 1933, and 11.4 per cent above the five year average. Passenger cars totaling 119,628, or 130 per cent more than the previous year, and 2 per cent above the five year average were exported.

Cotton Exports Lower.

For the nine months the survey found a sharp decline in cotton exports and an increase in leaf tobacco, third largest export item in our foreign trade. Shipments of raw cotton totaled 4,246,000 bales, 26 per cent below the nine-month total for 1933 and 10 per cent under the average for the last five years.

However, the total value of cotton exports for the period was $255,893,000, or 1.7 per cent greater than 1933 because of an increase of from 8.3 to 11.4 cents per pound in the average export price.

Foreign mill consumption figures for the first half of 1934 contrasted with the same period of 1933, show that the use of foreign growths of cotton increased 5.1 per cent while consumption of American cotton was dropping 10.4 per cent until the American share of the world market for the period declined from 44.3 to 37.8 per cent.

Tobacco Volume Rises.

Shipments of leaf tobacco, 286,432,000 pounds totaling $71,697,000 or 78.6 per cent greater than last year, formed 4.7 per cent of the total for the nine months. Cigarets increased 43 per cent over the 1933 period.

Shipments of industrial machinery increased by 97.7 per cent over last year to a total of $72,317,000. Other percentage increases were electrical machinery and apparatus 71.5; agricultural machinery 86.3, business machinery 47.2, typewriters 71.2. Boards, planks, and scantlings, wood pulp, wheat, apples, prunes, canned fruit, chemicals and related products, crude sulphur and sausage casings, lard, rosin, and gum spirits of turpentine declined.

Total exports from the United Kingdom for the first nine months of 1934 were valued at £289,048,000, contrasted with £268,390,000 for 1933. Imports for the same period were 536,781,000 and 487,854,000 pounds, respectively.

3 CLOSED BANKS MAKE PAYMENTS TO DEPOSITORS

Checks were being distributed yesterday to depositors of two more closed banks in pre-Christmas repayments, while disbursements by a third were authorized.

John M. Thomson, receiver for the Kenwood State bank, announced that checks for a 10 per cent return are awaiting depositors who will call at his office at 1053 East 43d street. The current payment amounts to $26,000, and brings restitution to 30 per cent.

The Second Humboldt State bank is paying another 5 per cent to raise total returns to 20 per cent. The checks aggregate $21,089, according to William L. O'Connell, receiver.

Depositors in the Waukegan State bank, which closed its doors June 17, 1931, will get a Christmas present of $57,756.03, representing a 5 per cent repayment, according to an order entered yesterday by Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court.

Church in Chicago Invokes Federal Act to Reorganize

The Drexel Park Cumberland Presbyterian church, 6355 South Marshfield avenue, yesterday filed a petition in federal court asking reorganization under section 77B of the amended bankrupcty law. Liabilities were put at $50,000, with assets at the unestimated value of the property and good will of the church. This is the church in which John Bain, former head of a chain of 12 defunct banks, once taught one of the largest men's Bible classes in Chicago.

PUBLIC DEBT LIFTED TO ALL TIME RECORD OF $28,387,921,465

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The treasury piled up $1,692,347,359 of ready cash for paying recovery costs today, thereby lifting the public debt to a new high of $28,387,921,465.

Borrowing $967,863,000 of new money supplied the big boost in what the treasury calls "its working balance." This is the cash drawer out of which current federal bills are paid, whether routine or emergency. It is replenished by tax revenues and borrowed funds.

The total treasury cash balance was $2,566,411,825, but this included $807,193,895 of gold profit and $66,870,570 of silver seigniorage. The government has not yet dipped into these resources for meeting everyday bills. Treasury officials expect the present working balance of $1,692,347,359 to carry the government until March.

REPORT GERMAN, U. S. COTTON DEAL NEAR COLLAPSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A projected cotton barter deal between the United States and Germany, involving between $6,000,000 and $30,000,000, was reliably reported to be threatened with collapse today because of conflict with President Roosevelt's general world trade plans.

The President was described by one authority as withholding a final decision pending a possible revised plan. Three of his diplomatic advisers, however, it was said by the same source, have urged that he reject the deal.

Secretary Hull was said to have reported to the chief executive that the deal was a "bad trade," offering several reasons, one of which was that the transaction would dislocate the "normal trade" which he is seeking to build up through reciprocal agreements. George N. Peek, head of the Export-Import bank, and some others emphatically think otherwise. As presented for the President's consideration the barter deal calls for purchase by Bremen cotton merchants of from 100,000 to 500,000 bales at approximately 3 cents a pound above the market price.

SUGAR SHORT CLEARS CONTRACT AT RECORD PRICE

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—After a warning by the board of managers of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange to liquidate December accounts, because of a squeeze in the December contract, one short paid a new high price for that delivery on the exchange today. His purchase was made at 2.02 cents a pound, compared with a previous high of 1.97 cents. A contract calls for the delivery of 50 tons.

In order that the board may know whether action will be necessary all clearing members must file a statement regarding their December position before 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

It has been indicated in sugar circles that probably only one big short is in a position to make delivery of sugar. There are upward of 8,000 tons of sugar in warehouses which can be delivered on contract, while the short interest is estimated at about 35,000 tons.

Chicago Board of Trade to Close at Noon Monday

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday decided that the grain market will close at noon next Monday, Dec. 24, the day before Christmas.

President Asks States Act to FosterHousing

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt sent letters to the governors of 44 states asking that they urge upon their legislatures the amendment of existing laws to provide a more liquid market for home mortgages by approving federally insured long term mortgages and by legalizing the activities of national mortgage associations.

Such action would establish "a more sound national credit system," and would speed up the privately financed housing campaign, which is expected to pour billions into new construction throughout the nation, the President was told by the federal housing administrator, James A. Moffett.

State Laws Hamper Loans.

Present states laws make it difficult and in some cases impossible for banks, insurance companies and other financing institutions legally to make insured mortgage loans and to invest in insured mortgage and national mortgage association obligations, Moffett wrote the President.

The housing administrator suggested that a bill such as that passed by the New York legislature in special session last evening be used by other states as a model in making legal such activities.

Those who conceived the national housing act felt that federal insurance of long term amortized mortgages, with a maturity date of up to twenty years, should relieve the present distressed mortgage market through the conversion of existing short term mortgages and act as an incentive for new capital seeking safe investments to enter the mortgage field .

Mortgage Associations Formed.

So-called national mortgage associations were authorized with capital up to $5,000,000 each to rediscount mortgages, much as federal reserve banks now handle the paper of member banks. Their plan for pumping new capital into the construction field has, however, run up against prohibitions in state laws, the President was told.

The President informed the governors of all the states except New York, Kentucky, North Dakota and Virgina that it would give him "great satisfaction" if the governors would recommend changes to their legislatures, all of which are meeting this winter

NEW YORK SELLS 43 MILLION ISSUE IN CLOSE SALE

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The city of New York awarded $42,900,000 of bonds today in what proved to be one of the most closely contested sales on record. The National City bank and a large group of banks and investment houses won the $40,000,000 portion of the issue on a bid for a combination of 3¾ and 4 per cent, which indicated a cost basis of 3.981 per cent.

The Brooklyn Ash Removal company won the $2,900,000 4 per cent serial bonds floated to pay for incinerators on its bid of 101, although the bankers also bid on these bonds.

The National City group bid 100.02 for $19,800,000 as 4s, $11,980,000 as 4s, $2,140,000 as 3¾s, $1,140,000 as 3¾s and $3,125,000 as 4s. National City also bid 100.3099 for all six issues totaling $40,000,000, and 100 for all or none of the $2,900,000 incinerator bonds. This group also bid 100.01 for all or any part of the $40,000,000 as 4¼s; also 100.029 for all or none of the $42,900,000 with $11,980,000 as 4s, $2,140,000 as 3¾s, $1,140,000 as 3¾s, $3,125,000 as 4s, and $2,900,000 as 4s. National City group's other bid was 100.3299 for all or none of the $42,900,000 as 4s.

Today's bonds averaged fifteen years.

U. S. DEFENDS ABROGATION OF GOLD CLAUSE

Supreme Court Told Three Arguments.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The right of congress to regulate the value of the dollar and to abrogate the gold clauses in private and public contracts was defended in briefs filed with the Supreme court late today by Attorney General Cummings, who will argue for the government when the court hears discussions of four cases Jan. 8.

The total of all gold clause obligations issued and outstanding in this country is estimated at $90,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000, the government recently stated through Solicitor General Biggs.

Three principal bases will be used by the government in the defense, it was revealed through the briefs. It is argued that the gold clause as embodied in existing contracts is contrary to public policy, a hangover from the dual monetary system and inconsistent with the declared policy of congress to maintain the dollar at an even value in terms of commodities and the payment of debts. It also is contended that if the joint resolution abandoning the gold clause is held illegal, the holders of gold clause obligations would not be entitled, as they have asserted, to be paid in dollars equal to the former value of the dollar in gold.

Again it is argued that power over coinage and currency is an attribute of sovereignty, that this country is a sovereign nation and that the course of congress should be upheld as a proper exercise of its sovereign power to control the currency.

"There were compeling reasons for the recognition and the declaration by congress that gold clauses are contrary to public policy," the brief said.

"Whatever justification may have existed for such clauses under the dual monetary system which prevailed during and following the civil war, and which entailed the circulation of the kinds of money given and taken in exchange at differing values and receivable for different payments, the justification was ended by our departure from that system.

"Gold clauses are inconsistent with the present policy of congress to maintain at all times the equal power of every dollar in markets and in payment of debts, and to accord equal legal tender qualities to all forms of money in the payment of governmental and other kinds of debt."

U. S. Charged with Deceiving Public on Its Power Plans

Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, last night hurled a broadside at the federal trade commission, charging it with throwing a smoke screen to deceive the public into approval of the federal government's entry into the electric light and power business through such ventures as the Tennessee Valley authority. Dr. Magill also attacked special privileges accorded the TVA.

DR. H. S. MAGILL. [Stone-Raymor Photo.]

The commission's declaration that public utility companies had boosted pre-depression prices in a market in which investors afterward lost millions of dollars was the focal point of Dr. Magill's attack.

Only Few to Blame.

"Whatever the evils of utility promotion prior to 1929," he said, "the whole industry cannot be condemned for the errors of a few. The truth is that several million citizens who wish to pay their just share in support of the government have suffered losses amounting to billions of dollars in the value of their securities because of the threat of destructive government competition and exorbitant taxation."

Dr. Magill contrasted this situation with the huge federal expenditures to help home owners and farmers in keeping their property. He also pointed out that utility security issuance is regulated by state law and, in the main, under governmental supervision—and that many were declared legal investments for banks, insurance companies, and trusts.

The federation, a nonprofit agency, now represents one million of the ten million utility investors in the United States—private individuals, insurance companies, charitable institutions, hospitals, colleges, and religious groups, with a collective interest of 14 billions.

Such government ventures as the TVA are beneficial on the surface only, Dr. Magill explained, because they enjoy special privileges under which private companies could lower utility rates considerably if they were to have like privileges.

The TVA is said to carry Muscle Shoals on its books at 25 million for rate making purposes when it actually cost taxpayers 60 millions, charged Dr. Magill in citing special privileges.

Cites TVA Privileges.

Other discriminations said to exist. [1] TVA pays 5 per cent on wholesale price of electricity as a maximum tax, compared with 15 to 20 per cent of retail by privately owned concerns. [2] TVA pays only two-thirds of regular freight rates, despite the hard struggle of the railroads to survive. [3] TVA has free use of the mails for all purposes, even to sending out its bills and propaganda.

"The clamor for the government to enter private enterprise," said Dr. Magill, "enjoys the sponsorship first of the communists who have no regard for private property, second of those influenced by socialistic propaganda to believe that the production of electric power under government ownership would be in the interest of public welfare, and lastly of the spoilsmen in politics who see the tremendous opportunities such a system would offer for added power and political spoils."

DROUTH AND AAA CUT CROPS TO 30 YEAR LOW

But Value Is Higher, U. S. Reports.

Production of all farm crops in the United States in 1934 fell to the lowest level in thirty years, while the aggregate yield of the grain crops alone was the smallest in forty years, according to the final returns on the season's harvest announced yesterday by the department of agriculture. The two factors which brought about the big reduction was the unprecedented drouth which gripped the middle west producing sections during most of the summer and the arbitrary curtailment of acreage effected under the agricultural adjustment act.

Although the production of the leading crops was drastically lower than 1933 as well as the average for several preceding years, officials of the agricultural department estimated that the dollar value of the country's farm harvest larger than either of the two previous years.

Farm Return Near 5 Billions.

The total value of all farm crops was estimated by the department at $4,782,626,000. This is over half a billion dollars more than the estimated value of $4,114,265,000 for the 1933 crops. In 1932 when farm prices were at their depression low the estimated value of the crops was only $2,882,195,000, according to the government methods of calculation.

Total farm acreage harvested this year was 288,607,610, against 329,127,890 in 1933 and 359,527,880 two years ago.

The chief victim of the drouth was corn, which is the nation's most important farm crop. The final 1934 figures fix production at 1,380,718,000 bushels, or nearly a billion bushels less than the 2,351,658,000 crop grown in 1933. Average annual production in the

STOCKS REMAIN IN SAME RUT AS TRADE SHRINKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—An occasional sale of some specialty or preferred stock at better prices stirred undulations on the surface of today's share market, but on the whole the dealings were of a desultory character and without special interest or meaning from the speculative viewpoint.

Price changes were mixed, and sales of any size few and far between. Few of the leaders got more than a small fraction away from their bases in either direction. United States Steel and Westinghouse, among the front rank pivotals, finished the session unchanged from yesterday, and the net swings in American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, J. I. Case, General Motors, and Union Pacific in no case amounted to more than half a point. Volume fell to around 821,000 shares.

News Has Small Effect.

Outside influences were not well defined and therefore without marked effect. Reports of retail trade, due to the holiday season, continued good, but the improvement, so far as the larger stores is concerned, has been so patent to all in recent weeks that it seems to have lost its force as a market factor.

A fall in the price of silver metal brought selling into the white metal share group, United States Smelting up nearly 2 points and Howe Sound half as much. Farm implements were firm, and observers thought they may have received some slight encouragement from the rally in wheat.

Rails Pep Up Near Close.

Some scattered demand appeared in the railroad sector in the final hour and this brought a slightly better tone in other departments of the market. Kansas City Southern was noticeably active, rivaling the interest shown yesterday and again this morning in Great Northern, and rose half a point.

Steels again ignored the expansion in operations, leading many operators to believe that the current rate had been discounted in present prices. Features of the afternoon trading were McCrory Stores issues, which rose to new price peaks for the year.

In the tobacco section, Liggett and Myers was a feature, both the common and "B" stock rising more than a point on strong buying.

DOLLAR DECLINES ON THREATS OF MORE SPENDING

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The dollar declined today in all important foreign exchange markets as a direct result, exchange authorities declare, of the recommendations made by five members of the Roosevelt cabinet for extensive spending by the government.

Sterling, which closed yesterday at $4.94, was up ⅞ of a cent. The franc, which closed yesterday at 6.60, rose 1⅛ points. Belgas were up 5 points to 23.45; Swiss francs were sold at 32.47, up 5; the guilder was up 9 to 67.75, and the lira was at 8.57, up 1½ points.

At the closing quotation on the French franc the dollar was worth 59.26 cents, based on the old par of the franc, compared with 59.36 cents yesterday. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was valued at $1.0033 against $1.0051 yesterday.

London bullion brokers increased the price of gold 2 pence to 140 shillings 9 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.77, based on the opening of sterling at $4.94. Bars valued at $1,299,220 were purchased.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the receipt of $3,964,800 gold, of which $2,110,000 came from Colombia, $1,575,900 from India, and $278,900 from England. The gold from Colombia was immediately placed under earmark here and consequently contributed nothing to the gold stocks of the country.

SCATTERED BUYING CAUSES ADVANCE IN COTTON PRICES

Firmness in stocks and grain had some effect on cotton yesterday and sufficient scattered buying developed to more than offset the effect of liquidation by longs and hedging pressure. The close was at net gains of 2 to 9 points in Chicago and 2 to 7 points in other markets.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 15 points higher with New Orleans, New York and Galveston 12.75 cents and Huston 12.70 cents per pound. Prices follow:

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—RUBBER—Crude futures closed dull, 8 points higher to 3 points lower. December, 13.90c per lb; January, 13.30c, nominal; March, 13.20c; May, 13.40c. Smoke ribbed spot closed, 13.00c, nominal.

EGGS DECLINE SHARPLY; BUTTER STEADY TO LOWER

Egg futures dropped sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing ⅞ at ¾ cent per dozen lower. Butter was unchanged to ⅛ cent per pound lower.

Eggs sold off quickly within a few minutes after the opening, and hurried profit taking and new selling developed as the market declined. January dropped more rapidly than December, creating a wide spread between the two contracts. Unfavorable storage news was responsible for some of the selling. The four markets reported 16,400 cases less than last year.

Butter trade was without feature. The movement of storage stocks added 1,000,000 lbs. to the shortage but buyers held back.

Sales: butter, 37 cars; eggs, 170 cars. Deliveries: butter, 2 cars; eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

AVERAGE LARD YIELD PER HOG DROPS TO 15 POUNDS

Steadiness in hogs in the face of large receipts and the early strength in corn brought in moderate buying of lard futures yesterday. There was no material pressure on the market and the finish was at the top with net gains of 5 to 10 points. A local provision expert figures average yield of lard per hog at the present time is around fifteen pounds owing to the light average weight, compared with a normal yield of twenty-five to thirty pounds. Bellies were nominally unchanged. Cash lard closed at 11.35 cents; loose and leaf at 10¾ cents, and bellies at 14¾ cents per pound. Prices follow:

New York, Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Heavy buying of United States government bonds on the stock exchange with resultant gains of 1-32d to 15-32ds point for most of the issues lent strength to the general bond market with the result that trading was more active than at any time in the last two weeks. Transfers aggregated $14,576,000, par value, compared with $12,781,000 Monday.

The turnover in government bonds reached $4,083,900, the heaviest total since Nov. 7. Two issues made new highs since issuance. The recently offered treasury 3¼ per cent bonds touched a new high at 101 19-32ds and the Home Owners Loan corporation 2¾s touched a new peak at 96 22-32ds. Treasury 4¼s of 1947 advanced 15-32ds, the 3½s of 1940 gained 10-32ds, and Federal Farm mortgage 3s were 14-32ds higher. Other federal issues improved 2-32ds to 11-32ds.

Industrial Bonds Higher.

Domestic corporation bonds closed irregularly higher with the industrials generally showing up to better advantage than the rails or utilities. The heaviest trading was done in the rails with the better rated issues generally higher and the lower grade bonds weak.

A number of the best grade corporate bonds broke through their highs for 1934 or longer. Among those were Pennsylvania general 4½s, Chesapeake and Ohio general 4½s, and Santa Fe 4½s. Advances of small fractions to around a point were registered by obligations of Delaware and Hudson, International Cement, Midvale Steel, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Pure Oil, Republic Iron and Steel, and Union Pacific.

Milwaukee Line's Issues Lower.

The lower trend in secondary railroad bonds was believed, in some quarters, to have reflected the difficulties of the Milwaukee road in negotiating a much needed loan from the RFC. The company's general 4½s yielded 2¼ points and losses of around a point occurred in other obligations of the line.

Foreign loans moved irregularly higher. The various Italian issues regained part of the ground lost of the previous day. United Kingdom, French, Belgian and Scandinavian issues were firm, while German loans closed irregular.

Ohio Oil.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Ohio Oil.—Miss B. M.

Answer: Although Ohio Oil company is represented in all phases of the oil industry, production, distribution, refining, and marketing, it is primarily a producer of crude oil. Its crude reserves are among the largest of any domestic concern.

Strict proration measures have held down production. The company has followed the policy of purchasing much crude, 50 per cent of total consumption in recent years, and transporting it through its own extensive system of pipe lines.

Only about 20,000 barrels a day are refined by the company. The remainder is sold to refiners. The company is the country's second largest seller of crude. Refined products produced by Ohio Oil are marketed through about 3,500 owned and controlled outlets in thirteen middle western and southern states.

Sales of $33,037,000 in the first nine months of 1934 produced a net income of $5,019,000, or 38 cents per common share. For the corresponding 1933 period sales were $29,473,000 and net loss was $1,934,000.

In 1933 the company lost $130,000. Net income in 1932 was $7,243,000, or 58 cents per common share, against loss of $5,182,000 for 1931. Net income in 1930 was $10,630,000, or $1.21 per common share.

Current position on Sept. 30, 1934, was strong. Current assets were almost four times current liabilities.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 552,522 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred stock and 6,563,377 shares of no par common. The common currently pays dividends of 15 cents a quarter, Dec. 15, etc. During 1935 dividends will be paid semi-annually instead of quarterly.

Dow Chemical.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your opinion on Dow Chemical company bonds.—D. L.

Answer: Dow Chemical company turns out about 50 per cent of the world's output of bromides. It is the leading producer of bromide and magnesium in the country. The company owns one of the most important known brine fields in the United States.

Fixed charges have been covered by wide margins during each of the last six years. Current position is strong. Funded debt consisting of the 6 per cent notes, due 1940, is small in relation to net worth. At the close of 1933 there were $1,615,000 of notes outstanding and net worth was $15,594,000.

GRAIN MARKETS FIRMER DESPITE QUIET TRADING

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain market displayed more buoyancy yesterday and prices advanced moderately. In the foreign markets wheat was in slightly better demand and this, combined with the correction of the preceding day's error in the visible supply figures, provided a more favorable background. There was no expansion, however, in the volume of trading, which continued at low holiday ebb.

Final quotations on wheat were unchanged to a half a cent higher, while corn closed ¼ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ cent lower. Oats and rye moved in sympathy with the leading grains. Closing quotations on the May futures were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. Ago.
Corn	87½	87⅝	89⅞
Oats	52⅛	52⅝	53⅛
Rye	77½	76½	78⅝

Visible Wheat Supply Drops.

Instead of a decline of only 700,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat, as was indicated in the first figures issued Monday, the actual shrinkage last week was nearly three times as much, or approximately 2,000,000 bushels. As it had been generally anticipated that the supply would show a large decrease, the true figures yesterday helped to bolster the market.

No sooner had the one error been downed, however, than another one bobbed up to confuse traders. Due to a mixup in telegraphic transmission a quotation on Liverpool wheat was posted which indicated a sharp break in the December delivery. The erroneous price was corrected almost immediately, but not soon enough to prevent the trading from having the appearance of a comedy of errors. Liverpool prices actually were firm, closing unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel higher on wheat.

Argentina May Raise Prices.

Cabled reports from Argentina said that the government was giving some consideration to raising minimum prices on wheat and corn, which are fixed in that market. The report was given a bullish construction here and was regarded as one of the factors which contributed to the better sentiment. Confirmation of the reported price fixing change was not forthcoming and late messages described the story as "premature."

The Argentine and Australian wheat crops are now being harvested and the pressure of this wheat on the world market is one of the factors which has influenced Europeans to delay purchases. Meanwhile Canada stands by with her huge surplus, but gives no indication of lowering prices to meet the competitive offerings from the southern hemisphere or the threat of cheap French wheat.

HEAVY RUN SENDS HOGS LOWER; NEW HIGH FOR LAMBS

Monday's sharp upturn in hog prices brought a heavy run yesterday from nearby farmers who can get stock into the yards on a few hours' notice. Prices retained the gains scored at the opening of the week throughout most of yesterday's session, but weakness crept in on final rounds.

Local packers bought the bulk of yesterday's receipts within a range of $7.50 to $8.50, including the $2.25 processing tax to the federal government, while a few loads of 260 to 300 pound butchers topped the list at $8.55. Average for the day was unchanged at $8.10.

The trend in cattle was reversed. Prices ruled weak to 25 cents lower, medium grades showing the greatest loss. The best prime weighty steers offered consisted of 1,175 to 1,303 pound averages that reached $9.80, but sellers believe real prime 1,300 pound steers could be sold up to $10.25. Most of the run consisted of stock selling from $5 to $9.

Lamb prices jumped 25 to 40 cents yesterday to the highest point of the season. All leading interests paid up to $7.75 for the best grades, equaling the highest marks since middle July.
